REDS PUSH DRIVE TO TRAP ALLIES

Taft Says Truman 'Usurps' Authority

Senator Raps Plan To Send GIs To Europe

Calls For Buildup Of Air-Sea Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) today sharply disputed President Truman's claimed authority to send American troops to Europe without consulting Congress, and called for a vast buildup of air-sea power "which cannot be challenged by Russia."

In a broad affirmative declaration of policy, Taft told the Senate that "our battle against Communism is in fact a world-wide battle and must be fought on the world stage," but he cautioned:

"We must not assume obligations by treaty or otherwise which require any extensive use of American land forces."

Throughout his two-hour speech, Taft carefully balanced a plea against large-scale involvement of American soldiers overseas along with the contention that such a policy would not mean abandoning the rest of the world.

"The greatest question of policy before the country and before this Congress relates to our undertaking in Europe," he said.

"Under the general principles I have laid down, I would say that we had better commit no American troops to the European continent at this time."

Would Aid Chiang

Taft modified that statement to allow for U. S. occupation troops now in Europe, and for "certain promises" under the Atlantic pact which he did not describe.

As for the global defense, Taft said:

"The very thesis of an effective control of sea and air by the free nations requires that we do interest ourselves in Europe and the Near East and India and the Far East, so that Communist influence may not extend to areas from which it is still possible to exclude it by many methods other than land armies."

Specifically, the Senate GOP policy leader proposed:

1. An alliance of the United States with Britain, France, Holland, Australia and Canada to develop an all-powerful sea-air weapon.

2. Support for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist forces, now based on Formosa, with arms and "other assistance" to enable him to "contest with the Chinese Communists in China itself."

3. Concerning Korea—

"I do not know enough about the military situation to know whether we can maintain our position in Korea, but certainly we should not jeopardize our army there to the extent of risking its destruction. It is far better to fall back to a defensible position in Japan and Formosa than to maintain a Korean position which would surely be indefensible in any third world war."

U. S. "Butting In" In Europe

He cautioned that neither Napoleon nor Hitler was able to defeat Russia with greater forces than the projected million-man Allied army of Western Europe, and declared his belief that the United States is making a mistake "butting in" in Europe.

Taft's biting criticism of present U. S. policy immediately touched off a lively debate. Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said Taft keyed his speech to an assumption "not borne out by any facts revealed to me" that U. S. military leaders are planning "to raise an army of American boys to defend a Europe not willing to defend itself."

Taft said there are "no divisions to send now" and the problem won't arise for some time, but he declared:

"It's a startling thing to find ourselves getting ready to send millions of troops to Europe without any approval by the nation."

Wanger, Levant, Raft "Star" In Cafe Bout

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP) — Hollywood heard today belated versions of a one-punch or less nightclub fuss featuring Film Producer Walter Wanger, Musician Oscar Levant and Actor George Raft.

The scuffle broke out at Mike Romanoff's restaurant during a gala New Year's Eve celebration. Some witnesses reported that Levant swung at Wanger but Raft stepped in and caught the blow.

"Just a joke," was Wanger's comment. "Oscar's one of my best friends."

30-Day Price Freeze Is Considered

America's Only All-Male Quads Enter Army

Stopgap Order May Be Issued Early In Week

Food Prices Advance To Near Record High

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Government officials today whipped up a proposed stop-gap order designed to freeze most living costs at least 30 days while they rush preparations for general price and wage controls.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, who is concerned especially over rising food prices, was reported about ready to require manufacturers, processors, wholesalers, and retailers to give a 30-day notice before raising prices.

But no final decision had been made, and conceivably a hitch could develop on a higher policy level. If not, the order may be issued early next week.

After a period of rumors and confusion, officials confirmed that the 30-day price order is being considered.

DiSalle Issues Statement

Following a period of rumors about a 30-day price freeze, DiSalle issued this statement:

"This proposal, along with several others, is being considered. No decision has been made."

Under the Defense Production Act, such an order would have to be accompanied by wage controls—though not necessarily at the same moment. The Wage Stabilization Board is working on a wage control recommendation.

The proposed price order presumably would not be directed at farm prices, since the Defense Production Act puts obstacles in the way of farm price ceilings. But food prices would be affected because retailers, wholesalers, and processing plants would be included in the 30-day requirement.

Food Prices Near Record

Only today, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that retail food prices had risen to near record levels on Dec. 15.

On the basis of a survey of 50 foods in eight large cities, the bureau said retail prices rose 1.2 per cent between Nov. 28 and Dec. 15, and on that date stood at 216.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average. The all time high was 216.8 in July 1948.

The bureau said food prices rose 5.7 per cent since June 15, just before the Korean outbreak.

U. N. Bars Movie Reds Say Shows Yank Atrocities

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 5(AP)—The United Nations refused tonight to view a film allegedly showing American atrocities against Korean civilians. In doing so it reversed an earlier decision to look at the picture next Monday morning.

Alexis Kyrou of Greece led the fight against showing the film, supported by Charles Malik of Lebanon.

They argued in the 60-nation Political Committee that since the United States was engaged in an "enforcement action" against the North Koreans it had no business to view what they called a North Korean propaganda movie.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik had insisted that the picture be shown and the committee had agreed at first.

Austin Asks U. N. To Stand Firm Against Chinese

Must Show Its Will To Fight Aggression

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 5 (AP)—American Delegate Warren R. Austin today called on the free world to stand firm against Chinese aggression in Korea. He spoke as signs arose that the British commonwealth countries and other nations are refusing to accept an American proposal to condemn Red China as an aggressor.

High diplomatic sources at the United Nations said that the United States is fighting a strong battle behind the scenes to show some countries that their time may come if Communist aggression triumphs in Korea. American delegates have talked to more than 25 countries in the last 48 hours.

Dispatches from London quoted qualified sources as saying there seems to be a general feeling among British commonwealth leaders, now meeting there, against supporting the U. S. proposal that the U. N. declare Red China an aggressor. The commonwealth chiefs apparently argue that such a course sooner or later must involve enforcement action in terms of the U. N. Charter. Enforcement action, they fear, could lead to war.

Austin told the 60-nation Political Committee of the U .N. Assembly that he does not believe a cease-fire is possible in Korea now. He said the Chinese offensive under way indicates the Chinese Communists want to throw the United Nations forces into the sea.

"The free world, if it is to maintain its solidarity and retain and fortify its determination to remain free, cannot afford to accept this situation without a demonstration of its united will to withstand aggression," Austin said.

"It would be incomprehensible for the U. N. as th cohesive force in the free world to ignore this aggression. Such a course would prove as fatal to long-term peace as the helpless inaction of the League of Nations in the various crisis which it faced. To ignore this Chinese aggression would mean in effect that big aggression can succeed with impunity. The world order for which the United Nations has been striving would be in direct peril, leaving every member to stand alone against aggression."

For the second time in three days, Austin said, however, the United States is willing to discuss issues with the Chinese Communists at an appropriate time and in an appropriate forum if a cease fire can be achieved.

Enemy Nears Vital Highway Hub Of Wonju

U. N. Forces South Of Seoul Attacked

TOKYO, Saturday, July 6 (AP) — Relentless Red troops today attacked United Nations forces south of fire-ravaged Seoul and built up their great entrapment threat to the east.

The U. N. air force suspended all flights to Suwon, 20 miles south of the abandoned South Korean capital.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert said a Chinese battalion engaged U. N. rearguards this morning south of Seoul.

U. N. flights, except for the airlift of wounded, also were cancelled to Wonju, a vital highway hub 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

Vanguards of seven Red armies in the Wonju area are trying to cut across roads of retreat for all U. N. forces in Korea.

The flights to Suwon were cancelled Friday night. That tied in with unconfirmed reports that Chinese Reds crossed on the ice of the Han River east and west of Seoul under cover of darkness.

Retreating U. N. troops who quit Seoul Jan. 4 and its port of Inchon the next day, had blown all bridges across the Han, which skirts the southwest edge of Seoul.

Menace To Wonju Increases

The curtailment of air activity at Wonju indicated that North Koreans in that sector had increased their menace to the flanks of Wonju's defenders.

Allied forces were probing north of Wonju, looking for the onrushing enemy.

U. N. planes took off today despite scattered snowstorms. Pilots of Navy and land-based planes claimed they killed 3,100 Reds during the 24-hour period ended Friday midnight.

U. N. airmen estimate they have inflicted nearly 10,000 casualties on the Reds in the first six days of January.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said 200,000 Chinese and North Koreans were swarming toward Wonju.

The Red offensive pressure eased in the west. That drive had carried into the desolated South Korean capital of Seoul for the second time in a little over six months.

Chinese Reds swarmed quickly through Seoul and into its southwestern industrial suburb of Yongdungpo. They were not yet reported in Inchon, which the Allies abandoned Thursday night and Friday morning.

There was no mention in dispatches of the Eighth Army's location.

Seoul Is Lifeless

New censorship regulations forbade mention of the Allied defense line and identification of allied units by nationality or number.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the Eighth Army, said after a trip to the front south of Seoul:

"Everything is going fine up there."

He meant that Seoul and Inchon had been evacuated with little loss of life and that his retreating divisions had so far succeeded in not being overrun or cut off.

With most of Seoul's million and a half population moving south, U. S. Fifth Air Force planes smashed at the burned and wrecked capital without mercy.

Associated Press Correspondent William C. Barnard flew over Seoul and said it was lifeless. Smoke still rose from fires set by evacuating troops and fleeing civilians.

Red capture of Wonju in East Central Korea would put the Reds in position to stab at the flank of the U. S. Eighth Army as it retreats southward in a withdrawal reminiscent of the bitter Allied pullbacks in the early days of the war last summer.

Draft Bill Will Lower Induction Age To 18 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—New draft legislation that would lower the induction age to 18, extend the period of service to 27 or possibly 30 months, and tighten deferments and exemptions was officially described today as the current aim of the Department of Defense.

Felix Larkin, the department's general counsel, gave that broad preview of the bill that will go to Congress for consideration within the next two weeks.

The measure is being drawn to supplant the Selective Service Act of 1948, which expires June 30.

The immediate aim is to provide the manpower necessary to reach that target of 3,500,000 men in arms set by President Truman last month.

Larkin said about 11,000,000 men 18 through 25 years of age have been registered under the present law, which does not permit induction of a youth until he reaches his 19th birthday. But he said that the actual number in line for induction from this total is estimated at about 750,000.

Manpower analysts say that a still undetermined number of men between 19 and 26 are not now available for service and will not be, unless the law is changed, because of the present liberal provisions for deferment and exemption from military duty.

The Defense Department proposes to make it much harder for young men to delay or escape active duty and believes that the place to start is with the 18-year-olds who have finished high school.

The Defense Department also proposes to lengthen the draft service period from 21 months, the present limit, to 27 or 30 months.

Dog Shoots Hunter

SMYRNA, Tenn., Jan. 5 (AP) — A bird dog shot a hunter near here today, but the victim was not seriously hurt.

The dog stepped on the trigger of a shotgun while being helped over a fence, County Patrolman C. M. Dismayne reported.

Noel Coleman, 32, Nashville, was wounded in the right hand by the charge.

GI Returns Home To Read Wire He's Missing In Action

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) — A 19-year-old Roanoke Army private home from Korea yesterday read a telegram from the Army Adjutant General that he has been missing in action for almost six weeks.

The youthful veteran, Robert C. Johnson, said he had been home twice from Valley Forge, Pa., Army Hospital, Valley Forge, Pa., since the date he was supposed to be missing in action. The telegram was addressed to his father, Joseph H. Johnson.

"This might make a whole lot of parents feel better," the soldier said. "Their sons don't have to be dead just because they are reported missing."

West European Reds Blast "Ike"

PARIS, Jan. 5. (AP)—West European Communists, taking their cue from Moscow, slashed at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower through their controlled press today in a campaign to discredit him and his North Atlantic alliance command.

The French Communist Party, numerically strongest and closest to the scene, had a leading role in the hate drive, which has been building up at least two weeks.

Moscow publications disclosed the party line soon after Gen. Eisenhower was appointed Dec. 19 to head a projected 1,000,000-man army to defend West Europe against any aggression from the east. The Soviet youth organ Komsomol declared then Gen. Eisenhower, twice decorated by the Russians for his services as supreme commander of the Allied expeditionary forces in World War II, was "a true serf of Wall Street," called upon to play in Europe the same role "Executioner MacArthur" is playing in Asia.

Gen. Eisenhower is due to arrive Sunday in Paris, where he has temporary headquarters in the Hotel Astoria, on what he has described as an exploratory trip to "reassure myself that we are not working at cross purposes with anybody."

Rail Unions Spurn Peace Plan; Freight Rate Hike To Be Asked

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5 (AP) — Railroad firemen and trainmen today rejected a proposed three-year peace pact between American railroads and four railway operating unions.

They said the engineers, who already have objected to the pact's terms, and the conductors, who make their decision Sunday, would join them in seeking a better settlement through negotiations in Washington.

The plan was announced Dec. 21, from the White House by Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, as a settlement of all pending issues involving 300,000 men in the four big train-operating unions. They are the engineers, trainmen, firemen and conductors.

Carriers Seek Rate Boost

General chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen took today's action jointly at the end of two-day meetings. Rejection of the proposed plan was announced in a news conference by Presidents David B. Robertson of the firemen and W. P. Kennedy of the trainmen.

Almost simultaneously traffic officials of the nation's railroads announced in Chicago they would ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for freight rate increases of six per cent. Their action was based on the proposed settlement.

Informed sources said a six per cent freight rate increase would add roughtly $400,000,000 to the railroads' anticipated revenue in 1951.

The announcement, by traffic officials representing railroads in the East, West and South, said petitions would be filed in a few days with the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies.

Unions Plan Joint Action

"In the event these railroad operating expenses should be further increased, it may be necessary to bring the changed situation to the attention of the commissions in a supplementary petition," the announcement said.

Steelman declined comment on today's developments.

The nation's major railroads have been under government control since Aug. 26, when a general strike of trainmen and conductors was threatened. The Army has been in technical control.

By Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, they said, the top officers and committeemen of the four unions will meet here to coordinate their plans and stand by for further negotiations in Washington.

Trumanites Fail To Land Choice Plums

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — President Truman's strongest Democratic supporters today demanded—but did not get—a larger voice in party control of the Senate.

When the committee assignments were passed around late in the day by the Democratic Steering Committee, the choicest plums — seats on the Foregn Relations group — went to Sen. Sparkman of Alabama and Gillette of Iowa. Neither is regarded as a member of the all-out Truman bloc.

Sen. Stennis of Mississippi, an outspoken foe of such Truman domestic policies as the civil rights bills, got a place on the busy Armed Services Committee. A single vacancy on the Finance Committee which handles tax legislation went to Sen. Frear of Delaware.

Five senators who class themselves as "Fair Dealers" had called on the Democratic leader, Sen. McFarland of Arizona, before the assignments were announced. They demanded that members of the minority who voted against McFarland in the party caucus be given places on important committees.

After their call, McFarland told a reporter they would get the committee assignments "that are due them."

An inspection of the assignment list showed they certainly got no more than that. Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota got a spot on Agriculture, and Pastore of Rhode Island drew a place on the Labor Committee.

The five who visited McFarland included Sen. Lehman of New York, Douglas of Illinois, Benton of Connecticut, Murray of Montana and Kilgore of West Virginia.

Nehru Outlines Formula On Asian Aspirations

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India discussed before British commonwealth leaders today a formula on Asian aspirations which would involve a further Western withdrawal from Asia, but provide Western help in raising living standards of that continent.

Qualified sources said Nehru dominated talk among leaders of the eight nations represented here in the topic of restoring peace to Korea and stability to Asia. The study was inconclusive. It is to be completed Monday.

Fire Destroys Church

OXON HILL, Md., Jan. 5 (AP) — Eleven Prince Georges County fire companies fought a fire in the Oxon Hill Methodist Church today but the historic structure was destroyed.

U. S., Russia Plan Lend-Lease Talk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Russia puzzled American officials today by having agreed after a lapse of more than two years to resume negotiations to settle the Soviets' $11,000,000,000 World War II lend-lease account with the United States.

Talks on terms of a general settlement for the useful American supplies left in Russia at V-J Day will be resumed Jan. 15 at Washington, the State Department announced. They were broken off in mid-1948 but meantime Moscow has made a piecemeal payoff by returning 28 of more than 500 vessels the U. S. loaned its former ally in wartime.

The puzzling feature was that the Russian suggestion to renew negotiations actually came on Nov. 24, shortly after Moscow submitted its still pending proposal for a meeting with the American, British and French foreign ministers to deal with the dispute over rearming Germany.

France Denies Soviet Charge It Broke Pact

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—France delivered a note to Russia today denying Soviet charges that France has broken a treaty with Russia.

French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau handed the note to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky in Moscow.

Informed French sources said it rejects Russian charges that France broke the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance treaty by agreeing to the rearmament of West Germany and also blames Russia for spurring the West to rearm.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Nine cows in the prize Holstein herd at the Soldiers Home were electrocuted today when a power line broke and fell on them while they were grazing.

80 Wounded Soldiers Are Feted In Tokyo

TOKYO, Jan. 5 (AP) — Eighty wounded men from eight nations fighting with United Nations forces in Korea were feted tonight by members of the Tokyo Press Club.

British and American nurses and the wives of many of the 300 members of the club served dinner and soft drinks to veterans in slings, casts and bandages.

Ex-Fla. Senator Dies

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) — William Luther Hill, former United States senator, died in his sleep early today at his home. He had been in failing health for some time.

Gov. Dave Scholtz appointed Hill United States senator from Florida July 1, 1936, to fill the unexpired term of Duncan U. Fletcher who died in office.

Probe Demanded

McCarthy Hints Secrets 'Leaked' To Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) demanded today a federal investigation to determine whether there is a "leak" of Pentagon secrets to Columnist-Commentator Drew Pearson.

He told the Senate that a column last week purported to quote "verbatim top secret messages sent to the Pentagon in code."

If they were truly verbatim messages, McCarthy said, they would aid other nations in breaking U. S. codes and "some man in the decoding room is guilty of high treason."

Pearson immediately got out a statement saying, "before using the Tokyo cables now complained of, I consulted the Pentagon which assured me there would be no security risk provided the dates of the cables were changed and a few words omitted. This was done."

The Pearson column that McCarthy criticized concerned the size of the Chinese Communist forces in Korea. McCarthy said it described them as numbering only 96,000 men and was designed "to discredit Gen. Douglas MacArthur."

Death On Holiday?

Hunter's Gun Ends Week Of Life For Headless Bunny

WEST BRANCH, Mich., Jan. 5 (AP) — You've heard about headless chickens. Here's one about a headless rabbit who lived a week until a hunter shot him.

George Partlo, a local high school student, went hunting January 1, saw a rabbit sitting by a tree and shot him. When he picked up the animal he was startled to find it had no head.

He took the find to Dr. Robert Rea, veterinarian and mayor of West Branch, who performed an "autopsy."

Dr. Rea concluded the rabbit had lost its head in an accident about a week before its death. Somehow the big blood vessels were sealed off in the accident so the rabbit didn't bleed to death. The spinal cord took over the mechanical functions of the brain, allowing the headless wonder to breathe and move about.

Dr. Rea said the wound had started to heal, the skin forming a protective covering over the wound where the head had been. He knew the rabbit was alive when Partlo shot it, he said, because its blood was still fresh.

The curtailment of air activity at Wonju indicated that North Koreans in that sector had increased their menace to the flanks of Wonju's defenders.

Allied forces were probing north of Wonju, looking for the onrushing enemy.

U. N. planes took off today despite scattered snowstorms. Pilots of Navy and land-based planes claimed they killed 3,100 Reds during the 24-hour period ended Friday midnight.

U. N. airmen estimate they have inflicted nearly 10,000 casualties on the Reds in the first six days of January.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said 200,000 Chinese and North Koreans were swarming toward Wonju.

The Red offensive pressure eased in the west. That drive had carried into the desolated South Korean capital of Seoul for the second time in a little over six months.

Chinese Reds swarmed quickly through Seoul and into its southwestern industrial suburb of Yongdungpo. They were not yet reported in Inchon, which the Allies abandoned Thursday night and Friday morning.

There was no mention in dispatches of the Eighth Army's location.

Seoul Is Lifeless

New censorship regulations forbade mention of the Allied defense line and identification of allied units by nationality or number.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the Eighth Army, said after a trip to the front south of Seoul:

"Everything is going fine up there."

He meant that Seoul and Inchon had been evacuated with little loss of life and that his retreating divisions had so far succeeded in not being overrun or cut off.

With most of Seoul's million and a half population moving south, U. S. Fifth Air Force planes smashed at the burned and wrecked capital without mercy.

Associated Press Correspondent William C. Barnard flew over Seoul and said it was lifeless. Smoke still rose from fires set by evacuating troops and fleeing civilians.

Red capture of Wonju in East Central Korea would put the Reds in position to stab at the flank of the U. S. Eighth Army as it retreats southward in a withdrawal reminiscent of the bitter Allied pullbacks in the early days of the war last summer.

Draft Bill Will Lower Induction Age To 18 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—New draft legislation that would lower the induction age to 18, extend the period of service to 27 or possibly 30 months, and tighten deferments and exemptions was officially described today as the current aim of the Department of Defense.

Felix Larkin, the department's general counsel, gave that broad preview of the bill that will go to Congress for consideration within the next two weeks.

The measure is being drawn to supplant the Selective Service Act of 1948, which expires June 30.

The immediate aim is to provide the manpower necessary to reach that target of 3,500,000 men in arms set by President Truman last month.

Larkin said about 11,000,000 men 18 through 25 years of age have been registered under the present law, which does not permit induction of a youth until he reaches his 19th birthday. But he said that the actual number in line for induction from this total is estimated at about 750,000.

Manpower analysts say that a still undetermined number of men between 19 and 26 are not now available for service and will not be, unless the law is changed, because of the present liberal provisions for deferment and exemption from military duty.

The Defense Department proposes to make it much harder for young men to delay or escape active duty and believes that the place to start is with the 18-year-olds who have finished high school.

The Defense Department also proposes to lengthen the draft service period from 21 months, the present limit, to 27 or 30 months.

SMYRNA, Tenn., Jan. 5 (AP) — A bird dog shot a hunter near here today, but the victim was not seriously hurt.

The dog stepped on the trigger of a shotgun while being helped over a fence, County Patrolman C. M. Dismayne reported.

Noel Coleman, 32, Nashville, was wounded in the right hand by the charge.

GI Returns Home To Read Wire He's Missing In Action

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) — A 19-year-old Roanoke Army private home from Korea yesterday read a telegram from the Army Adjutant General that he has been missing in action for almost six weeks.

The youthful veteran, Robert C. Johnson, said he had been home twice from Valley Forge, Pa., Army Hospital, Valley Forge, Pa., since the date he was supposed to be missing in action. The telegram was addressed to his father, Joseph H. Johnson.

"This might make a whole lot of parents feel better," the soldier said. "Their sons don't have to be dead just because they are reported missing."

West European Reds Blast "Ike"

PARIS, Jan. 5. (AP)—West European Communists, taking their cue from Moscow, slashed at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower through their controlled press today in a campaign to discredit him and his North Atlantic alliance command.

The French Communist Party, numerically strongest and closest to the scene, had a leading role in the hate drive, which has been building up at least two weeks.

Moscow publications disclosed the party line soon after Gen. Eisenhower was appointed Dec. 19 to head a projected 1,000,000-man army to defend West Europe against any aggression from the east. The Soviet youth organ Komsomol declared then Gen. Eisenhower, twice decorated by the Russians for his services as supreme commander of the Allied expeditionary forces in World War II, was "a true serf of Wall Street," called upon to play in Europe the same role "Executioner MacArthur" is playing in Asia.

Gen. Eisenhower is due to arrive Sunday in Paris, where he has temporary headquarters in the Hotel Astoria, on what he has described as an exploratory trip to "reassure myself that we are not working at cross purposes with anybody."

Rail Unions Spurn Peace Plan; Freight Rate Hike To Be Asked

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5 (AP) — Railroad firemen and trainmen today rejected a proposed three-year peace pact between American railroads and four railway operating unions.

They said the engineers, who already have objected to the pact's terms, and the conductors, who make their decision Sunday, would join them in seeking a better settlement through negotiations in Washington.

The plan was announced Dec. 21, from the White House by Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, as a settlement of all pending issues involving 300,000 men in the four big train-operating unions. They are the engineers, trainmen, firemen and conductors.

Carriers Seek Rate Boost

General chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen took today's action jointly at the end of two-day meetings. Rejection of the proposed plan was announced in a news conference by Presidents David B. Robertson of the firemen and W. P. Kennedy of the trainmen.

Almost simultaneously traffic officials of the nation's railroads announced in Chicago they would ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for freight rate increases of six per cent. Their action was based on the proposed settlement.

Informed sources said a six per cent freight rate increase would add roughly $400,000,000 to the railroads' anticipated revenue in 1951.

The announcement, by traffic officials representing railroads in the East, West and South, said petitions would be filed in a few days with the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies.

Unions Plan Joint Action

"In the event these railroad operating expenses should be further increased, it may be necessary to bring the changed situation to the attention of the commissions in a supplementary petition," the announcement said.

Steelman declined comment on today's developments.

The nation's major railroads have been under government control since Aug. 26, when a general strike of trainmen and conductors was threatened. The Army has been in technical control.

By Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, they said, the top officers and committeemen of the four unions will meet here to coordinate their plans and stand by for further negotiations in Washington.

Trumanites Fail To Land Choice Plums

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — President Truman's strongest Democratic supporters today demanded—but did not get—a larger voice in party control of the Senate.

When the committee assignments were passed around late in the day by the Democratic Steering Committee, the choicest plums — seats on the Foregn Relations group — went to Sen. Sparkman of Alabama and Gillette of Iowa. Neither is regarded as a member of the all-out Truman bloc.

Sen. Stennis of Mississippi, an outspoken foe of such Truman domestic policies as the civil rights bills, got a place on the busy Armed Services Committee. A single vacancy on the Finance Committee which handles tax legislation went to Sen. Frear of Delaware.

Five senators who class themselves as "Fair Dealers" had called on the Democratic leader, Sen. McFarland of Arizona, before the assignments were announced. They demanded that members of the minority who voted against McFarland in the party caucus be given places on important committees.

After their call, McFarland told a reporter they would get the committee assignments "that are due them."

An inspection of the assignment list showed they certainly got no more than that. Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota got a spot on Agriculture, and Pastore of Rhode Island drew a place on the Labor Committee.

The five who visited McFarland included Sen. Lehman of New York, Douglas of Illinois, Benton of Connecticut, Murray of Montana and Kilgore of West Virginia.

Nehru Outlines Formula On Asian Aspirations

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India discussed before British commonwealth leaders today a formula on Asian aspirations which would involve a further Western withdrawal from Asia, but provide Western help in raising living standards of that continent.

Qualified sources said Nehru dominated talk among leaders of the eight nations represented here in the topic of restoring peace to Korea and stability to Asia. The study was inconclusive. It is to be completed Monday.

France Denies Soviet Charge It Broke Pact

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—France delivered a note to Russia today denying Soviet charges that France has broken a treaty with Russia.

French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau handed the note to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky in Moscow.

Informed French sources said it rejects Russian charges that France broke the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance treaty by agreeing to the rearmament of West Germany and also blames Russia for spurring the West to rearm.

U. S., Russia Plan Lend-Lease Talk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Russia puzzled American officials today by having agreed after a lapse of more than two years to resume negotiations to settle the Soviets' $11,000,000,000 World War II lend-lease account with the United States.

Talks on terms of a general settlement for the useful American supplies left in Russia at V-J Day will be resumed Jan. 15 at Washington, the State Department announced. They were broken off in mid-1948 but meantime Moscow has made a piecemeal payoff by returning 28 of more than 500 vessels the U. S. loaned its former ally in wartime.

The puzzling feature was that the Russian suggestion to renew negotiations actually came on Nov. 24, shortly after Moscow submitted its still pending proposal for a meeting with the American, British and French foreign ministers to deal with the dispute over rearming Germany.

Ex-Fla. Senator Dies

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) — William Luther Hill, former United States senator, died in his sleep early today at his home. He had been in failing health for some time.

Gov. Dave Scholtz appointed Hill United States senator from Florida July 1, 1936, to fill the unexpired term of Duncan U. Fletcher who died in office.

Probe Demanded

McCarthy Hints Secrets 'Leaked' To Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) demanded today a federal investigation to determine whether there is a "leak" of Pentagon secrets to Columnist-Commentator Drew Pearson.

He told the Senate that a column last week purported to quote "verbatim top secret messages sent to the Pentagon in code."

If they were truly verbatim messages, McCarthy said, they would aid other nations in breaking U. S. codes and "some man in the decoding room is guilty of high treason."

Pearson immediately got out a statement saying, "before using the Tokyo cables now complained of, I consulted the Pentagon which assured me there would be no security risk provided the dates of the cables were changed and a few words omitted. This was done."

The Pearson column that McCarthy criticized concerned the size of the Chinese Communist forces in Korea. McCarthy said it described them as numbering only 96,000 men and was designed "to discredit Gen. Douglas MacArthur."

Wanger, Levant, Raft "Star" In Cafe Bout

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP) — Hollywood heard today belated versions of a one-punch or less nightclub fuss featuring Film Producer Walter Wanger, Musician Oscar Levant and Actor George Raft.

The scuffle broke out at Mike Romanoff's restaurant during a gala New Year's Eve celebration. Some witnesses reported that Levant swung at Wanger but Raft stepped in and caught the blow.

"Just a joke," was Wanger's comment. "Oscar's one of my best friends."

"I understand he (Levant) shook his fist, but didn't hit anybody," reported Romanoff.

Death On Holiday?

Hunter's Gun Ends Week Of Life For Headless Bunny

WEST BRANCH, Mich., Jan. 5 (AP) — You've heard about headless chickens. Here's one about a headless rabbit who lived a week until a hunter shot him.

George Partlo, a local high school student, went hunting January 1, saw a rabbit sitting by a tree and shot him. When he picked up the animal he was startled to find it had no head.

He took the find to Dr. Robert Rea, veterinarian and mayor of West Branch, who performed an "autopsy."

Dr. Rea concluded the rabbit had lost its head in an accident about a week before its death. Somehow the big blood vessels were sealed off in the accident so the rabbit didn't bleed to death. The spinal cord took over the mechanical functions of the brain, allowing the headless wonder to breathe and move about.

Dr. Rea said the wound had started to heal, the skin forming a protective covering over the wound where the head had been. He knew the rabbit was alive when Partlo shot it, he said, because its blood was still fresh.

Short Wood Pulp Supplies To Hit Celanese Plant

CA Production Will Drop Slightly Here

Production of cellulose acetate at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America will be affected temporarily by short supplies of wood pulp.

Notices were posted at the Amcelle plant yesterday that a shortage of wood pulp will necessitate a reduction in CA production in the plant which employs some 5,300 workers.

A plant spokesman, when asked how the shortage will affect the plant, said net results will be about a five per cent drop in CA production.

He added the net effect upon employment at the plant will chiefly mean some "sharing the work" by cutting down the work week.

The curtailment in CA, basic material for yarn, will begin to take effect next week.

It was explained that imported wood pulp already on order, has not been received.

Officials said wood pulp has been growing scarce for some time and the company has been able to keep up production only by using stored supplies of CA.

They said the stores of CA have dropped to a minimum, thus necessitating a curtailment for a few weeks until the supply situation improves.

The cut in CA is being shared in all Celanese plants.

The shortage of wood pulp has been accentuated by last year's restriction on cotton production and a poor cotton crop, making it necessary for rayon firms to rely chiefly on wood pulp.

The Celanese wood pulp plant at Prince Ruppert, B. C., is expected to be in production soon.

Americans Slightly Healthier In 1950

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Americans, generally speaking, were a bit healthier in 1950 than in 1949 even in the 1945-49 average, the Public Health Service said today.

"Three diseases for which intensive preventive or public health measures are available and are widely-used — diptheria, smallpox and the typhoid-paratyphoid group —were reported in smaller numbers in 1950 as compared with 1949 and the five-year median," the agency said in a summary.

However, whooping cough, a disease against which immunization is extensively used, was reported in larger numbers.

U. S. War Casualties Mount To 40,176

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Total announced American casualties in the Korean war mounted today to 40,176.

The roll of dead was 6,761.

The totals include casualties where the next of kin had been notified through last Friday. The list rose 1,851 in one week.

The dead included 6,031 killed in action, 716 who died of wounds, and 14 persons originally listed as missing but now known to be dead.

There were 27,997 wounded (including the 716 with mortal hurts) and 6,148 listed as missing.

nounced he will send an unspecified number of troops to Europe as soon as possible, contends he does not need Congress' approval to do so. The United States and its 11 Atlantic defense treaty allies have set out to raise a million man international army by the end of 1953 to defend Western Europe.

Taking the floor in the first major foreign policy speech of the new 82nd Congress, Taft contended that the United States was "sucked into the Korean War" and charged that President Truman had "no authority whatever" to commit U. S. troops in Korea without consulting Congress.

"The President simply usurped authority, in violation of the laws and the Constitution, when he sent troops to Korea to carry out the resolution of the United Nations in an undeclared war," Taft said.

The Ohio Senator turned to the present crisis in Korea, and declared:

"It is ridiculous to talk about avoiding a war with Communist China when such a war already exists.

"When American boys are being killed by Chinese armies, and Peiping announces that they are fighting the United States and trying to destroy American forces, we might as well have a declared war."

The Ohio legislator assailed the United Nations as "an utterly ineffective weapon to check military aggression" and "actually a trap for those nations which rely upon it as an organization to secure action against aggressors."

He said he would not advocate a withdrawal from the United Nations "at this time." But if Russia continues to exploit the veto to block U. N. action toward peace, he said, then this country should take the lead to dissolve the U. N. and set up a new organization.

Sect Awaiting End Of World

KEREMEOS, B. C., Jan. 5 — Thirty members of a religious sect, who have sold all their possessions, today await the end of the world.

In a locked and shuttered house, the group, all dressed in white has been in self-imposed confinement for 11 days.

They are members of the Church of God who broke away from a Pentecostal tabernacle in this British Columbia interior town of 1,000, 150 miles east of Vancouver.

Behind the barred doors, the elders stand apart from the world, have made no public statements, but friends report they are waiting for the world to end, basing their belief on biblical prophecy.

Grouped in the small house are men, women and children, including eight students of the town school who failed to return to class rooms after the Christmas holidays.

Before entering the crowded dwelling, all worldy goods were sold at sacrifice prices, it was reported to police.

Police, school and health authorities are watching developments at the house. Health authorities fear congestion constitutes a public health danger.

In connection with the grand jury room, several of the chairs are broken and not safe for use and in addition, thereto, adequate ventilation is not provided. . . It is seriously recommended that a modern means of ventilation for this room be installed. . . In fact, ventilation throughout the entire Court House leaves much to be desired. Aside from these matters, most of which necessitate repairs and improvements, the general condition of the Court House is in a good state of repairs."

Another recommendation was that "consideration be given to expanding the force of the Sheriff's office to make it possible for this department to have more men to adequately police and investigate law enforcement violations."

Concerning the County Home the grand jury commended Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith for turning over the institution in fine condition to the present superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Grim, and commended them for the continuance of the good care.

nounced he will send an unspecified number of troops to Europe as soon as possible, contends he does not need Congress' approval to do so. The United States and its 11 Atlantic defense treaty allies have set out to raise a million man international army by the end of 1953 to defend Western Europe.

Taking the floor in the first major foreign policy speech of the new 82nd Congress, Taft contended that the United States was "sucked into the Korean War" and charged that President Truman had "no authority whatever" to commit U. S. troops in Korea without consulting Congress.

"The President simply usurped authority, in violation of the laws and the Constitution, when he sent troops to Korea to carry out the resolution of the United Nations in an undeclared war," Taft said.

The Ohio Senator turned to the present crisis in Korea, and declared:

"It is ridiculous to talk about avoiding a war with Communist China when such a war already exists.

"When American boys are being killed by Chinese armies, and Peiping announces that they are fighting the United States and trying to destroy American forces, we might as well have a declared war."

The Ohio legislator assailed the United Nations as "an utterly ineffective weapon to check military aggression" and "actually a trap for those nations which rely upon it as an organization to secure action against aggressors."

He said he would not advocate a withdrawal from the United Nations "at this time." But if Russia continues to exploit the veto to block U. N. action toward peace, he said, then this country should take the lead to dissolve the U. N. and set up a new organization.

Sect Awaiting End Of World

KEREMEOS, B. C., Jan. 5 — Thirty members of a religious sect, who have sold all their possessions, today await the end of the world.

In a locked and shuttered house, the group, all dressed in white has been in self-imposed confinement for 11 days.

They are members of the Church of God who broke away from a Pentecostal tabernacle in this British Columbia interior town of 1,000, 150 miles east of Vancouver.

Behind the barred doors, the elders stand apart from the world, have made no public statements, but friends report they are waiting for the world to end, basing their belief on biblical prophecy.

Grouped in the small house are men, women and children, including eight students of the town school who failed to return to class rooms after the Christmas holidays.

Before entering the crowded dwelling, all worldy goods were sold at sacrifice prices, it was reported to police.

Police, school and health authorities are watching developments at the house. Health authorities fear congestion constitutes a public health danger.

proved by appropriate measures being taken for the removal of this dust. In connection with the grand jury room, several of the chairs are broken and not safe for use and in addition, thereto, adequate ventilation is not provided. . . It is seriously recommended that a modern means of ventilation for this room be installed. . . In fact, ventilation throughout the entire Court House leaves much to be desired. Aside from these matters, most of which necessitate repairs and improvements, the general condition of the Court House is in a good state of repairs."

Another recommendation was that "consideration be given to expanding the force of the Sheriff's office to make it possible for this department to have more men to adequately police and investigate law enforcement violations."

Concerning the County Home the grand jury commended Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith for turning over the institution in fine condition to the present superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Grim, and commended them for the continuance of the good care.

The report was signed by Kenneth R. Malcolm, foreman, and Eugene T. Gunning and Harry E. Flook, clerks.

Penitentiary Sentence Given Paw Paw Man

Leonard Edmonson, of Paw Paw, W. Va., charged with the fatal shooting of his brother, Hilbert Edmonson, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in Morgan County Court at Berkeley Springs and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from one to five years in the West Virginia Penitentiary.

Sentence is to be considered started as of the day in October he was committed to jail in Berkeley Springs following the shooting.

Leonard told C. R. Robey, town marshal at Paw Paw, that he shot his younger brother after they quarreled and Hilbert saturated the floor with kerosene and threatened to burn the house.

Leonard was arrested at his home after two teenage boys found Hilbert lying in the front yard mortally wounded. He died in War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, a short time later.

Police said the dying man told a physician who treated him that Leonard fired the fatal shot. Police later confiscated a .22 caliber rifle which Leonard said was his. The shot was fired from it.

According to police Leonard lived alone. Hilbert, who resided with his mother, called on Leonard and apparently had several drinks, police said.

At the time of the arrest, authorities said Leonard fired on his brother after Hilbert refused to leave the house.

The victim lost consciousness a short time after the youth found him and carried him to the home of Robert Powell where a Paw Paw physician applied first aid.

Get the pomade habit, if you want more manageable hair with highlights like photographers' models!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

CONTRARY to what many people suspect, those glints you see in the hair of models in photographs are not a trick of the photographer's lights. The most powerful spot in the studio can't manufacture them. All lights can do is pick up and accent the luster that's already in the hair.

That's why models must have hair that sparkles. And that's why a model is as faithful to her hair pomade as to her lipstick. By cultivating the daily pomade habit, she makes sure that she will always have a gleaming and groomed hair-do.

Double-Duty Pomades

While you are imparting a luster to your hair, why not give it a therapeutic treatment at the same time? You'll be doing just that if you choose a pomade that contains herbs and lanolin or other oils, as many of the finest do.

Of course, no pomade can treat your hair or dress it as long as it stays in the bureau drawer. Though pomade should be used sparingly, it must be used regularly.

Depending on how much luster you need to add to what you naturally have, there are different ways of making it work for your hair beauty. Start by applying a sparing amount of pomade to your hands and rub them together until the oil is evenly distributed.

Then, if your hair is dry or normal, "brush" your pomade-treated hands contrawise around your head until you have covered the entire surface of the hair. Next, massage vigorously into the scalp the residue of pomade remaining on your finger tips. Apply the residue on the palms directly to the ends of the hair. Really roll those ends between your palms!

For Stubby Ends

If your hair is oily, apply the pomade to the ends only. A quirk of an oily scalp is that the hair ends are almost sure to be stubbly and brittle. A daily application of pomade will not only make the hair more manageable but give it a more uniform and attractive appearance.

The final step in every case is an energetic brushing with a stiff-bristled hair brush. Start at the scalp, brushing right out to the ends, and don't miss a single strand of hair. If you can manage it, dress your hair as the professionals do, with a brush instead of a comb. Very soon, your hair will halo the beauty of your face!

Heavy Autopsy Cost Being Probed By County Board

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has decided to inquire into the heavy cost of autopsies and medical examination of dead persons at county expense under the requirements of a state law.

Members of the board said that the cost to the county for autopsies in December was $760 and that it was necessary to appropriate $8,000 for the current fiscal year for such medical work.

For each autopsy performed the examining physician is paid $50. A charge of $15 is made for an examination of the dead. Members of the board said that in their opinion the "thing has gotten out of control" with autopsies being performed in many cases for which no need existed.

It was pointed out that five or six years ago the county appropriated $1,000 for autopsies and examinations and seldom was the amount used during any one year.

Members of the board said they are not against autopsies in cases where circumstances warrant, but they do not believe it necessary for so many autopsies to be performed.

If the State Board of Health informs the board that autopsies must be continued as at present, then the commissioners said they will seek legislation which would change the law.

What the board would like is a law under which an autopsy would be made only in cases where the state's attorney's office requested it or else the family of a person who died asked for such a probe.

Women Drive Better

Men between 20 and 25 are the worst automobile drivers on the road. They should be the best.

Men as a group seem to be slightly worse drivers than women. They should be better.

These conclusions stem from a sampling of 7,692 Iowa drivers, studied by A. R. Lauer, professor of psychology at Iowa State. They give some comfort to both sides in the perennial argument about men vs. women drivers.

Men drivers have more skill, Lauer finds. But they drive 90 per cent of the mileage and have 91 per cent of the accidents. Women drivers, as a group, are less aggressive, have more respect for traffic laws, and are less disposed to underrate driving hazards. Their superior caution and amenability to law more than offset men's greater skill.

This is particularly true in the 20-25 age group, which should be most skillful of all. People at this age are in full possession of their faculties, and their reflexes have not yet begun to slow down. But they know they're good. Because they overrate their skill and underrate the dangers, men in this group have the worst accident record of all.

In this respect, they are a bit like drivers who have been imbibing. The average man who has had only a few drinks finds his skill impaired relatively little, but his judgment is far off the beam. He is likely to drive much more recklessly—and to overrate his skill—at the very time when he needs to drive more carefully, if he drives at all.

In terms of sheer skill, these tests indicate, men really are better drivers than women. But women drivers have more sense. Male drivers can put that in their pipes and smoke it.

The professor's study, it should be pointed out, was made on the basis of who has the most accidents. The women must be conceded an edge there. But when men snort "Another woman driver!" they are probably talking about a laudably cautious girl who will never wreck a car, but whose unpredictable antics at 15 or 20 miles an hour keep other drivers busy dodging them.

Maybe some other professor will make a survey of that angle. But it cannot be taken for granted that the results would be different.

The Stone Of Scone

The stealing of the Stone of Scone has called attention to a long-agitated wish for change in the British governmental system. The Stone, a 400-pound slab from the old Scottish capital of Scone, was till 1296 used for the coronation of the Scottish kings. In that year King Edward I of England, who all but succeeded in conquering Scotland, carried it off to London as a trophy, just as the ancient Assyrians used to carry off the statues of their vanquished enemies' gods. Ever since then it has been under the throne of the English kings, until its recent mysterious removal.

The union of Scotland and England began in 1603, when the rules of inheritance brought King James VI of Scotland to the English throne as James I of England. Completed in 1707 by an Act of Union, it has been more successful than many such mergers of thrones which have not been ratified by popular vote. The English have grumbled sometimes at the success of the Scots in gaining leadership in different lines. Several have become prime minister, the most recent being Ramsay MacDonald just before World War II.

The Scots have complaints, too, chiefly because Parliament gives little time to legislation concerning Scotland alone. This discontent has inspired a "Home Rule for Scotland" movement, whose more fanatic advocates may have stolen the Stone of Scone to advertise their grievances.

The dissatisfaction can easily be exaggerated. It is similar to but not so much as many American cities feel at an apportionment which puts the legislatures in control of a far less numerous rural population. But there is some legitimate complaint, which may be remedied before many years.

Against Hoarding

The government's orders against business and household hoarding of materials and goods essential to the defense effort are wise in their purpose. If really effective, they could be of great help in maintaining a stable economy and general levelheadedness during the period of stress.

When scarcities have occurred in times past, they have usually been caused as much by hoarding as by the real lack of goods. Hoarding usually sets in as soon as scarcity is anticipated. This greatly increases demand for the hoarded items at the time when the supply is becoming smaller. The result is an acute scarcity where otherwise there might have been only a relatively small curtailment of general consumption. Hoarders usually gain very little real advantage for themselves, and cause a great deal of trouble for the rest of the people

The line between hoarding and prudent stockpiling is neither sharp nor easily determined. It is a matter of judgment. The government orders define hoarding as the accumulation of stocks "in excess of the reasonable demands of business, personal or home consumption." That seems to be a reasonable definition, although it leaves a latitude of discretion which will make enforcement hard and complicated. Much depends on voluntary compliance.

If everyone would apply that yardstick in personal, business and government buying, we should know that any deprivations which occur would be no more than the minimum necessary to the task at hand.

The Facts We Face

An Army medico, a captain, told correspondents at a Pentagon briefing recently some of the facts we must face if we are to fight in Asia. He said he is back in Washington to plead for a complete change of thinking as to the mission of military medics. He thinks they ought to be trained as combat troops, first, and as combat medics second.

He pointed to a Purple Heart on his tunic. It had a star denoting the award of a second ribbon. Three times during the Korean fighting his medical detachment—a front line evacuation unit—has been overrun by the enemy. Three times he has barely gotten away with his life. Three times he has watched or heard his wounded being shot or bayoneted, or blown up with grenades. He said standard equipment on his jeep now consists of a carbine, a .45 automatic, and a box of hand grenades.

The doctor has performed a tremendous service in helping fill in the picture of the facts and the enemy we face.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Undulating Fever In Brucellosis

BRUCELLOSIS (undulant fever) manifests itself from five to 30 days after coming into contact with infected milk or meat that is teeming with the causative organisms. Fatigue overtakes the individual, with headache, loss of appetite, and general muscular aches and pains. Many think they have the flu and, on taking the temperature, find it elevated. In the next 10 days symptoms gradually increase in severity. By this time the evening temperature may mount to as high as 105 degrees F.

Most victims hardly look ill, but, as the saying has it, "Looks are deceiving." The sufferer feels irritable, weak, and in the lowest spirits. Constipation is the rule. He cannot sleep at night, and by morning frequently is drenched in perspiration. Many develop sciatic neuritis and backache. Others encounter joint pains with tenderness and swelling, findings indistinguishable from arthritis. As fever subsides improvement ensues.

It is the subsequent course of the disease that is responsible for the name, undulant fever. The temperature undulates—goes up and down in waves. Several days after it falls, there is a rise and symptoms return for six days to three weeks. Two or more such waves may occur and the individual goes through each bout feeling as miserable as in the first. Meanwhile, changes are taking place in the blood and a test made any time after the seventh day of the illness usually is positive.

If every sufferer with undulant fever went through the acute stage as described, the condition would be easy to recognize. Actually the majority skip this phase. When seen originally, they are not ill enough to stay in bed, yet are too weak to do a good day's work. They tire after the slightest exertion and sometimes have so little ambition they don't care whether the sun rises or sets. The temperature rarely exceeds 101 degrees F. and headache and muscular discomfort may co-exist. Now and then pain is limited to one or more joints and the victim thinks he is suffering from arthritis. Chronic brucellosis is such an indefinite disease it is difficult to prove unless the blood and skin tests are strongly positive. The skin test is not entirely reliable; a positive reaction means that the individual has had the disease but it does not tell whether the infection is of recent or remote origin.

Individuals with acute brucellosis do best when they remain in bed until all symptoms subside. There is no specific remedy, but various products have been tried, varying from vaccines to the newer antibotics—aureomycin; chloromycetin, and terramycin. The use of trace minerals such as cobalt, manganese, and iodine is being investigated. A few years ago a combination of sulfadiazine and streptomycin was employed but the method fell into disuse because of its toxic effects.

More recently, Doctors W. E. Herrell and T. E. Barber used aureomycin and dihydrostreptomycin on a group of 35 patients, the majority of whom were packing house workers. All had been seriously ill for from two weeks to several months. The response was excellent and in a follow-up period of eight to 19 months only one relapse occurred. Terramycin combined with dihydrostreptomycin yielded similar results. This is an improvement over the use of antibiotics alone; while these drugs proved helpful, relapses were common.

LAP PAIN

N. B. writes: I have pain in the lap part of the legs, between the knee and thigh. What could cause this?

REPLY

Does the pain disapepar when you stand? Discomfort in this area is unusual unless injury or strain has occurred but now and then neuritis or musclar or circlatory distrbances are responsible. Examination by your physician would be necessary to localize the offender.

•—•—•

INFECTED "STITCHES"

M. Z. writes: What causes an abscess to form on a scar soon after an abdominal operation?

REPLY

After abdominal surgery, catgut is used to sew together the tissues beneath the skin. Sometimes this material fails to absorb and an abscess develops because the suture material "festers." These lesions also may appear in peritonitis after a ruptured appendix.

DUODENUM

D. F. writes: Is duodenitis the same as duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

No. Duodenitis refers to inflammation of the first part of the intestine, whereas ulcer represents a hole or crater in the wall of the duodenum. One condition can lead to the other, however, and sometimes a combination exists, such as when the area surrounding an ulcer is inflamed.

Another Rail Strike Brews; Capitol Elevator Filibusters; Senator McMahon And U. S. Steel Compete For War Plant

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside reason why a new railroad strike is brewing despite the supposed "settlement" announced to the public last month is friction between the Railroad Brotherhood chiefs and likable, glad-handing White House Assistant John Steelman.

The problem of avoiding a strike in the long, drawn-out railroad dispute is one of the toughest in the nation. But things have become so tense between Steelman and the Brotherhoods that they have sent word to Secretary of Defense Marshall recommending that Steelman be replaced with a topflight mediator such as Cyrus Ching or Anna Rosenberg.

What ired them was first of all a sentence they discovered in a strike-agreement memorandum which they negotiated after a grueling, all-night session at the White House last month. The line read: "If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules, they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for a final decision."

This, Brotherhood chieftains interpreted, meant that Steelman would have a three-year job as a rail negotiator whether he remained on the White House staff or not.

Another thing that ired them was Steelman's tactics in proposing that the two sides write down the points of near-agreement and take them home as a basis for final settlement. This so-called "memorandum of agreement" was typed by White House secretaries. Then, Brotherhood chieftains said, they were flabbergasted to find that Steelman had called in the press, radio and newsreels. To them he announced: "I have reached a settlement. There will be no strike."

Gulps came from the labor side of the table, but no open protests. It was difficult to protest with the newsreels clicking.

However, this rancor has continued to boil below the surface and it looks as if the whole rail strike will have to be negotiated over again.

Filibustering Elevator

Even the elevators are catching the "filibuster" fever on Capitol Hill. One of them stalled for 15 minutes between floors of the House Office Building the other day. Meantime, its congressional passengers had a scary interlude as the air grew stuffier and stuffier and the operator struggled to get the circulation fan functioning.

Senator-Elect Mike Monroney of Oklahoma helped to ease the tension in the jam-packed lift by wise-cracking: "Don't anybody get excited. I've never heard of a politician suffocating from hot air."

The perspiring operator finally was able to pry the elevator door open far enough for the 14 passengers, including Congresswoman Reva Bosone of Utah, to be raised to safety.

"The atmosphere in that elevator was the most nonpartisan I have witnessed since coming to Congress," observed Mrs. Bosone. "None of us was thinking about politics, I can assure you. We were all jammed so close together that any fainting would have been done standing up."

War Plant Debate

Sessions of the Truman Cabinet seldom feature explosions. But at last week's session, two members from New England, Attorney General McGrath of Rhode Island and Secretary of Labor Tobin of Massachusetts blew off some steam.

They were indignant because New England has been left out in the cold when it comes to the location of new war plants—especially steel and aluminum plants.

Behind the McGrath-Tobin gripe is one of the most important economic debates going on inside the Administration — a debate between big business on the one hand and a group of New England businessmen on the other, regarding the location of a government-sponsored steel mill at New London, Conn.

Simultaneous with the inside blowup, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut staged a showdown conference with Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. McMahon was arguing the cause of the New England Council, the business group which has organized the New England Steel Development Company.

Tax Concessions

Opposing this plant is most of "big steel," especially U. S. Steel, which proposes to build a new plant near Morrisville in Bucks County, Pa. If the government authorizes a plant at New London, U. S. Steel will not be certified to build its plant in Pennsylvania. Or if, on the other hand, U. S. Steel is certified to construct a plant in Pennsylvania, the New England Council of Businessmen is out of luck. The financial club which the U. S. Government can hold over either outfit is the "certification of amortization," a document from the Treasury permitting war contractors to write off their plant's capital investment in five years.

Arguing with NSRB Chairman Symington, Senator McMahon pointed out the need for diversifying the steel industry instead of concentrating it in the hands of a few big companies.

"This is the biggest bonanza you could possibly give to big steel," McMahon told Symington. "To let them amortize their investment in five years is manna from heaven. Naturally they are pulling heaven and earth to build new production capacity now rather than in peacetime when they can't amortize so quickly."

"You're just going to have a white elephant on your hands," Symington replied. New England, he said, would find itself with an empty steel mill after the war emergency was over.

"Let us worry about that," countered McMahon.

The Connecticut Senator kept arguing until Symington finally picked up the telephone, called William Harrison, chairman of the National Production Authority, and told him to give the New England Council a certificate as soon as possible. This does not settle the argument, but it's a big step in favor of smaller business. There will be a lot more backstage wirepulling, however, before it is decided whether big steel or the New England business cooperative gets to build the war steel plant in Connecticut.

Conduct Of Foreign Policy Damages American Faith

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE outstanding feature of the new Congress is the relation between it and the President. It would be difficult to find in the country's history a time when the two were so widely separated. Especially would it be difficult to find a past Congress having in both branches a majority belonging to the President's party but so little likely to accept leadership from him. The relation is not bitterness, it is at once more tolerant than that and more dangerous than that. Congress does not feel enmity toward the President, but it knows that the country lacks confidence in him, and it is responsive to the country's feeling or shares it.

A deep long-term cause of the people's disquiet, coinciding with the Truman Administration, is illustrated by news that came from Japan on New Year's Day. When Mr. Truman took office in April, 1945, Japan was our enemy. To conquer it our youth were dying in great numbers; and in August, 1945, Mr. Truman, adding a new terror to war, decreed use of the atomic bomb against Japan. After we had conquered it, while it was under the benevolent sponsorship of our occupying troops under General of the Army MacArthur, and in the spirit of that sponsorship, a new Japanese constitution was written in which Japan specifically renounced war and armament. This week came news that Gen. MacArthur had advised Japan that it might be necessary for it to renounce its previous renunciation, that Japan might be called on to arm and be ready for war. Everyone understood the purport, that we might embrace Japan as our ally in war against Russian communism.

Spirit Straining

That would be desirable in our present situation. But this perverse reversal within so short a period cannot but be a strain upon the spirit of our people, especially as they are called on to endure yet other reversals. When Mr. Truman took office, Russia was our ally; he made immense concessions to it, in his conference with Stalin at Potsdam in 1945. At that time our people were called upon to regard Russia as our friend. Today Russia is our enemy, making war upon us through its satellites, our people are called upon to regard it as our enemy, and to make great sacrifices to resist it.

A similar reversal has taken place as respects Germany. When Mr. Truman took office it was our enemy, we were pouring out blood and treasure to conquer it. After conquering it we determined that it should never again be able to make war, and in that purpose systematically destroyed much of its industrial equipment. Today we plead with Western Germany to be our ally in war against Russia, we ask it to rearm and we help it restore the industries which less than five years ago we destroyed.

An especially agonizing reversal is the one that has taken place about China. When Mr. Truman took office, China as a country and a people, under the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-Shek, was our loyal friend and ally. Today, China, under a Communist government largely brought about by Moscow and dominated by it, is our enemy making war upon us; its people being taught to hate us.

Resists Re-Examination

It is little wonder if our people, harrowed by strain on the national spirit as a consequence of such reversals of conditions come to question whether the conduct of our foreign relations by the Truman Administration has been wise. The questioning on general grounds is increased by specific charges and criticisms, in Congress and elsewhere, about particular policies and actions of the Administration. The popular disquiet is further increased by traits of Mr. Truman's personality, including an attitude toward criticism. The Administration resists both re-examination of its own policies up to date and examination of changes in policy proposed from other sources. When ex-President Hoover the other day made an extremely careful examination of our relation to the world, which attracted nation-wide attention and sup-

Americans Should Know Foreign Situation Truths

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Seldom has a nation known so little about so much. This refers to what is happening to the destiny of the American people.

Although the Constitution of the United States says that Congress alone shall declare war, no such action has been taken. Yet American armed services are already engaged in a bitter war with hundreds of thousands of enemy troops.

Although America boasts that it is a democracy and that war or peace is not determined by one man, as it is in the totalitarian states, the legislative body which contains the elected representatives of the people has had no opportunity either to share in the responsibility of decision to make war or in the policy that may ensue there from in the future.

The President has said that he can send troops overseas without the permission of Congress because there has been a commitment under the North Atlantic Treaty, but this is exactly opposite to what the Administration's Secretary of State told Congress when the treaty itself was passed.

Usually Ratified

But, even if it be conceded that troops may be sent to Europe without Congressional sanction as an implied obligation of the treaty, can it be said that membership in the UN obliges the President of the United States to carry on war without the consent of Congress?

While the American people have often sanctioned in emergencies the taking of initial steps to protect our interests outside of the United States by the employment of our armed forces, this has usually been followed, in large-scale operations, by a resolution of ratification by Congress. Six months have passed since the outbreak of the Korean War and no such resolution has been presented to Congress by the Administration.

The fiction that no "state of war" exists at present has been maintained by the executive for reasons not explained.

Next Monday Mr. Truman will send to both houses of Congress his annual message on the state of the union. Here, it is to be hoped, some definition of policy will be made to justify the continued use of American troops in an undeclared war.

The American people, moreover, know very little about the administration's intentions. While a "national emergency" has been proclaimed, the Congress has had no share in the interpretation of that proclamation in terms of a "state of war."

Why does the President shrink from a realistic recognition that a "state of war" exists? Is it because American sovereignty has been yielded to the United Nations? If so, the people who voted for the entry of this country into the UN had no idea they were scrapping the American Constitution at the time the UN charter was accepted.

The people know very little about the Korean War. They know only that tens of thousands of troops are engaged in war and that, while it is called a UN operation, the troops of the United States comprise almost all the UN forces in Korea outside of those of the South Korean Republic itself. Here is a situation that calls for definition and information. The American people have not been told why the other members of the UN have failed to send troops in large numbers since last June.

Information is essential in order to build confidence. There can be no national unity merely by exhorting everybody to work together. Faith and confidence in a national government can be developed and preserved only when the people are entrusted with the essential information they should have in order to understand what is going on.

No Explanation

There has not even been a persuasive explanation of why the American troops are in Korea.

The relationship between Korea and the whole future of international cooperation has not been explained.

Many influential groups are arguing that, if the UN condones aggression in the Far East and perhaps withdraws voluntarily from Korea, there would be an even greater demand to refrain from operations in Europe.

All these arguments and counter-arguments about Korea are a part of a national debate which reflects the fact that neither the President nor the Secretary of State today enjoys the undivided support of an anxious country. Instead, there are misgivings and questionings about the national leadership. These questionings are the direct result of the failure of the Administration to tell the American people the basic truths they should know about the current international situation.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Great Debate

FOR A DECADE, the Administration has used every means within its power to suppress a public discussion of its foreign policy. The reason has been that that policy has been confused and full of error since 1933.

Mr. Roosevelt's first error was the recognition of Soviet Russia without an adequate study of the problems inherent in Marxian international relations, and the failure to exact guarantees of conduct, except the two which did not matter, namely, religious freedom in Russia and non-revolutionary activity in this country.

At the time when the Roosevelt-Litvinov negotiations occurred, it was obviously possible for the United States to state its terms, as Russia was the pleader for recognition.

Then followed a period of isolationism which lasted for five years until Munich, with the one interruption of the quarantine speech in Chicago, which was delivered to cover up the then offensive appointment of Hugo Black to the United States Supreme Court.

From this isolationism, which really commenced after Mr. Roosevelt blew up the London World Economic Conference (1933) that might have saved Europe but for his intervention, we became a participant, secret and open, in World War II, which has now projected itself into World War III.

Such matters as the Quebec, Cairo, Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam conferences require understanding which can only come from public debate, but the Administration has utilized such words as "isolationist," "Fascist," "Bipartisan foreign policy," "unity," "retreatist," Gibraltarism" to deal with broad problems of public interest involving the lives of our sons and the welfare of future generations.

Thomas E. Dewey, Joseph P. Kennedy, Herbert Hoover, and John Foster Dulles have thus far joined the issue, as well as columnists and commentators.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey presented a view more like Dean Achesons than his own, heretofore so often expressed. In the passion of our defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia in Korea, it is understandable that Governor Dewey would call for full support of the Administration.

Certainly those who are responsible for errors costing American lives have no claim to undiscussed, unscrutinized, blind acknowledgement of their leadership. Governor Dewey's speech was a continuance of the Vandenberg program of a bipartisan foreign policy, which it is doubtful that Senator Vandenberg would now pursue.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Kennedy developed, each somewhat differently, the theme that God helps those who help themselves and that the United States might well follow His example. The nation's response to Mr. Hoover's speech startled the Administration, which responded by calling him a 'retreatist," a false label designed to confuse the issue.

For instance, last Sunday, the "New York Times," in its "The News of the Week in Review," published a map purporting to represent Mr. Hoover's views which omitted from the areas that he would include in our defenses, Iceland, Greenland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa.

Yet, this is what Mr. Hoover actually said:

". . . We can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate); the other, on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. We can hold open the sea lanes for our supplies. And I devoutly hope that a maximum of cooperation can be established between the British commonwealth and ourselves."

Such an omission by the "New York Times" can only be regarded as a direct attempt to present the issue incorrectly.

John Foster Dulles' speech is one of the most difficult to analyze. After I read it carefully, I reached the conclusion that Mr. Dulles is not too far away from Mr. Hoover. Both agree that our lines have to be shortened; that we must not undertake more than we can accomplish. And it seemed to me that Mr. Dulles was advising our allies to do much for themselves.

At any rate, his speech, if it represented the State Department, was a retreat from the Truman policy of containment. Mr. Dulles is generally announced as a Republican adviser to the State Department, which is inaccurate because the Republican Party has not officially so designated him. Mr. Truman made the choice. He is a State Department official.

However, until it is clear whether he speaks for himself, for the Republican Party, or for the State Department, it is difficult to evaluate his speech.

Women Drive Better

Men between 20 and 25 are the worst automobile drivers on the road. They should be the best.

Men as a group seem to be slightly worse drivers than women. They should be better.

These conclusions stem from a sampling of 7,692 Iowa drivers, studied by A. R. Lauer, professor of psychology at Iowa State. They give some comfort to both sides in the perennial argument about men vs. women drivers.

Men drivers have more skill, Lauer finds. But they drive 90 per cent of the mileage and have 91 per cent of the accidents. Women drivers, as a group, are less aggressive, have more respect for traffic laws, and are less disposed to underrate driving hazards. Their superior caution and amenability to law more than offset men's greater skill.

This is particularly true in the 20-25 age group, which should be most skillful of all. People at this age are in full possession of their faculties, and their reflexes have not yet begun to slow down. But they know they're good. Because they overrate their skill and underrate the dangers, men in this group have the worst accident record of all.

In this respect, they are a bit like drivers who have been imbibing. The average man who has had only a few drinks finds his skill impaired relatively little, but his judgment is far off the beam. He is likely to drive much more recklessly—and to overrate his skill—at the very time when he needs to drive more carefully, if he drives at all.

In terms of sheer skill, these tests indicate, men really are better drivers than women. But women drivers have more sense. Male drivers can put that in their pipes and smoke it.

The professor's study, it should be pointed out, was made on the basis of who has the most accidents. The women must be conceded an edge there. But when men snort "Another woman driver!" they are probably talking about a laudably cautious girl who will never wreck a car, but whose unpredictable antics at 15 or 20 miles an hour keep other drivers busy dodging them.

Maybe some other professor will make a survey of that angle. But it cannot be taken for granted that the results would be different.

The Stone Of Scone

The stealing of the Stone of Scone has called attention to a long-agitated wish for change in the British governmental system. The Stone, a 400-pound slab from the old Scottish capital of Scone, was till 1296 used for the coronation of the Scottish kings. In that year King Edward I of England, who all but succeeded in conquering Scotland, carried it off to London as a trophy, just as the ancient Assyrians used to carry off the statues of their vanquished enemies' gods. Ever since then it has been under the throne of the English kings, until its recent mysterious removal.

The union of Scotland and England began in 1603, when the rules of inheritance brought King James VI of Scotland to the English throne as James I of England. Completed in 1707 by an Act of Union, it has been more successful than many such mergers of thrones which have not been ratified by popular vote. The English have grumbled sometimes at the success of the Scots in gaining leadership in different lines. Several have become prime minister, the most recent being Ramsay MacDonald just before World War II.

The Scots have complaints, too, chiefly because Parliament gives little time to legislation concerning Scotland alone. This discontent has inspired a "Home Rule for Scotland" movement, whose more fanatic advocates may have stolen the Stone of Scone to advertise their grievances.

The dissatisfaction can easily be exaggerated. It is similar to but not so much as many American cities feel at an apportionment which puts the legislatures in control of a far less numerous rural population. But there is some legitimate complaint, which may be remedied before many years.

Against Hoarding

The government's orders against business and household hoarding of materials and goods essential to the defense effort are wise in their purpose. If really effective, they could be of great help in maintaining a stable economy and general levelheadedness during the period of stress.

When scarcities have occurred in times past, they have usually been caused as much by hoarding as by the real lack of goods. Hoarding usually sets in as soon as scarcity is anticipated. This greatly increases demand for the hoarded items at the time when the supply is becoming smaller. The result is an acute scarcity where otherwise there might have been only a relatively small curtailment of general consumption. Hoarders usually gain very little real advantage for themselves, and cause a great deal of trouble for the rest of the people

The line between hoarding and prudent stockpiling is neither sharp nor easily determined. It is a matter of judgment. The government orders define hoarding as the accumulation of stocks "in excess of the reasonable demands of business, personal or home consumption." That seems to be a reasonable definition, although it leaves a latitude of discretion which will make enforcement hard and complicated. Much depends on voluntary compliance.

If everyone would apply that yardstick in personal, business and government buying, we should know that any deprivations which occur would be no more than the minimum necessary to the task at hand.

The Facts We Face

An Army medico, a captain, told correspondents at a Pentagon briefing recently some of the facts we must face if we are to fight in Asia. He said he is back in Washington to plead for a complete change of thinking as to the mission of military medics. He thinks they ought to be trained as combat troops, first, and as combat medics second.

He pointed to a Purple Heart on his tunic. It had a star denoting the award of a second ribbon. Three times during the Korean fighting his medical detachment—a front line evacuation unit—has been overrun by the enemy. Three times he has barely gotten away with his life. Three times he has watched or heard his wounded being shot or bayoneted, or blown up with grenades. He said standard equipment on his jeep now consists of a carbine, a .45 automatic, and a box of hand grenades.

The doctor has performed a tremendous service in helping fill in the picture of the facts and the enemy we face.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Undulating Fever In Brucellosis

BRUCELLOSIS (undulant fever) manifests itself from five to 30 days after coming into contact with infected milk or meat that is teeming with the causative organisms. Fatigue overtakes the individual, with headache, loss of appetite, and general muscular aches and pains. Many think they have the flu and, on taking the temperature, find it elevated. In the next 10 days symptoms gradually increase in severity. By this time the evening temperature may mount to as high as 105 degrees F.

Most victims hardly look ill, but, as the saying has it, "Looks are deceiving." The sufferer feels irritable, weak, and in the lowest spirits. Constipation is the rule. He cannot sleep at night, and by morning frequently is drenched in perspiration. Many develop sciatic neuritis and backache. Others encounter joint pains with tenderness and swelling, findings indistinguishable from arthritis. As fever subsides improvement ensues.

It is the subsequent course of the disease that is responsible for the name, undulant fever. The temperature undulates—goes up and down in waves. Several days after it falls, there is a rise and symptoms return for six days to three weeks. Two or more such waves may occur and the individual goes through each bout feeling as miserable as in the first. Meanwhile, changes are taking place in the blood and a test made any time after the seventh day of the illness usually is positive.

If every sufferer with undulant fever went through the acute stage as described, the condition would be easy to recognize. Actually the majority skip this phase. When seen originally, they are not ill enough to stay in bed, yet are too weak to do a good day's work. They tire after the slightest exertion and sometimes have so little ambition they don't care whether the sun rises or sets. The temperature rarely exceeds 101 degrees F. and headache and muscular discomfort may co-exist. Now and then pain is limited to one or more joints and the victim thinks he is suffering from arthritis. Chronic brucellosis is such an indefinite disease it is difficult to prove unless the blood and skin tests are strongly positive. The skin test is not entirely reliable; a positive reaction means that the individual has had the disease but it does not tell whether the infection is of recent or remote origin.

Individuals with acute brucellosis do best when they remain in bed until all symptoms subside. There is no specific remedy, but various products have been tried, varying from vaccines to the newer antibotics—aureomycin; chloromycetin, and terramycin. The use of trace minerals such as cobalt, manganese, and iodine is being investigated. A few years ago a combination of sulfadiazine and streptomycin was employed but the method fell into disuse because of its toxic effects.

More recently, Doctors W. E. Herrell and T. E. Barber used aureomycin and dihydrostreptomycin on a group of 35 patients, the majority of whom were packing house workers. All had been seriously ill for from two weeks to several months. The response was excellent and in a follow-up period of eight to 19 months only one relapse occurred. Terramycin combined with dihydrostreptomycin yielded similar results. This is an improvement over the use of antibiotics alone; while these drugs proved helpful, relapses were common.

LAP PAIN

N. B. writes: I have pain in the lap part of the legs, between the knee and thigh. What could cause this?

REPLY

Does the pain disapepar when you stand? Discomfort in this area is unusual unless injury or strain has occurred but now and then neuritis or musclar or circlatory distrbances are responsible. Examination by your physician would be necessary to localize the offender.

INFECTED "STITCHES"

M. Z. writes: What causes an abscess to form on a scar soon after an abdominal operation?

REPLY

After abdominal surgery, catgut is used to sew together the tissues beneath the skin. Sometimes this material fails to absorb and an abscess develops because the suture material "festers." These lesions also may appear in peritonitis after a ruptured appendix.

DUODENUM

D. F. writes: Is duodenitis the same as duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

No. Duodenitis refers to inflammation of the first part of the intestine, whereas ulcer represents a hole or crater in the wall of the duodenum. One condition can lead to the other, however, and sometimes a combination exists, such as when the area surrounding an ulcer is inflamed.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside reason why a new railroad strike is brewing despite the supposed "settlement" announced to the public last month is friction between the Railroad Brotherhood chiefs and likable, glad-handing White House Assistant John Steelman.

The problem of avoiding a strike in the long, drawn-out railroad dispute is one of the toughest in the nation. But things have become so tense between Steelman and the Brotherhoods that they have sent word to Secretary of Defense Marshall recommending that Steelman be replaced with a topflight mediator such as Cyrus Ching or Anna Rosenberg.

What ired them was first of all a sentence they discovered in a strike-agreement memorandum which they negotiated after a grueling, all-night session at the White House last month. The line read: "If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules, they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for a final decision."

This, Brotherhood chieftains interpreted, meant that Steelman would have a three-year job as a rail negotiator whether he remained on the White House staff or not.

Another thing that ired them was Steelman's tactics in proposing that the two sides write down the points of near-agreement and take them home as a basis for final settlement. This so-called "memorandum of agreement" was typed by White House secretaries. Then, Brotherhood chieftains said, they were flabbergasted to find that Steelman had called in the press, radio and newsreels. To them he announced: "I have reached a settlement. There will be no strike."

Gulps came from the labor side of the table, but no open protests. It was difficult to protest with the newsreels clicking.

However, this rancor has continued to boil below the surface and it looks as if the whole rail strike will have to be negotiated over again.

Filibustering Elevator

Even the elevators are catching the "filibuster" fever on Capitol Hill. One of them stalled for 15 minutes between floors of the House Office Building the other day. Meantime, its congressional passengers had a scary interlude as the air grew stuffier and stuffier and the operator struggled to get the circulation fan functioning.

Senator-Elect Mike Monroney of Oklahoma helped to ease the tension in the jam-packed lift by wise-cracking: "Don't anybody get excited. I've never heard of a politician suffocating from hot air."

The perspiring operator finally was able to pry the elevator door open far enough for the 14 passengers, including Congresswoman Reva Bosone of Utah, to be raised to safety.

"The atmosphere in that elevator was the most nonpartisan I have witnessed since coming to Congress," observed Mrs. Bosone. "None of us was thinking about politics, I can assure you. We were all jammed so close together that any fainting would have been done standing up."

War Plant Debate

Sessions of the Truman Cabinet seldom feature explosions. But at last week's session, two members from New England, Attorney General McGrath of Rhode Island and Secretary of Labor Tobin of Massachusetts blew off some steam.

They were indignant because New England has been left out in the cold when it comes to the location of new war plants—especially steel and aluminum plants.

Behind the McGrath-Tobin gripe is one of the most important economic debates going on inside the Administration — a debate between big business on the one hand and a group of New England businessmen on the other, regarding the location of a government-sponsored steel mill at New London, Conn.

Simultaneous with the inside blowup, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut staged a showdown conference with Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. McMahon was arguing the cause of the New England Council, the business group which has organized the New England Steel Development Company.

Tax Concessions

Opposing this plant is most of "big steel," especially U. S. Steel, which proposes to build a new plant near Morrisville in Bucks County, Pa. If the government authorizes a plant at New London, U. S. Steel will not be certified to build its plant in Pennsylvania. Or if, on the other hand, U. S. Steel is certified to construct a plant in Pennsylvania, the New England Council of Businessmen is out of luck. The financial club which the U. S. Government can hold over either outfit is the "certification of amortization," a document from the Treasury permitting war contractors to write off their plant's capital investment in five years.

Arguing with NSRB Chairman Symington, Senator McMahon pointed out the need for diversifying the steel industry instead of concentrating it in the hands of a few big companies.

"This is the biggest bonanza you could possibly give to big steel," McMahon told Symington. "To let them amortize their investment in five years is manna from heaven. Naturally they are pulling heaven and earth to build new production capacity now rather than in peacetime when they can't amortize so quickly."

"You're just going to have a white elephant on your hands," Symington replied. New England, he said, would find itself with an empty steel mill after the war emergency was over.

"Let us worry about that," countered McMahon.

The Connecticut Senator kept arguing until Symington finally picked up the telephone, called William Harrison, chairman of the National Production Authority, and told him to give the New England Council a certificate as soon as possible. This does not settle the argument, but it's a big step in favor of smaller business. There will be a lot more backstage wirepulling, however, before it is decided whether big steel or the New England business cooperative gets to build the war steel plant in Connecticut.

Conduct Of Foreign Policy Damages American Faith

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE outstanding feature of the new Congress is the relation between it and the President. It would be difficult to find in the country's history a time when the two were so widely separated. Especially would it be difficult to find a past Congress having in both branches a majority belonging to the President's party but so little likely to accept leadership from him. The relation is not bitterness, it is at once more tolerant than that and more dangerous than that. Congress does not feel enmity toward the President, but it knows that the country lacks confidence in him, and it is responsive to the country's feeling or shares it.

A deep long-term cause of the people's disquiet, coinciding with the Truman Administration, is illustrated by news that came from Japan on New Year's Day. When Mr. Truman took office in April, 1945, Japan was our enemy. To conquer it our youth were dying in great numbers; and in August, 1945, Mr. Truman, adding a new terror to war, decreed use of the atomic bomb against Japan. After we had conquered it, while it was under the benevolent sponsorship of our occupying troops under General of the Army MacArthur, and in the spirit of that sponsorship, a new Japanese constitution was written in which Japan specifically renounced war and armament. This week came news that Gen. MacArthur had advised Japan that it might be necessary for it to renounce its previous renunciation, that Japan might be called on to arm and be ready for war. Everyone understood the purport, that we might embrace Japan as our ally in war against Russian communism.

Spirit Straining

That would be desirable in our present situation. But this perverse reversal within so short a period cannot but be a strain upon the spirit of our people, especially as they are called on to endure yet other reversals. When Mr. Truman took office, Russia was our ally; he made immense concessions to it, in his conference with Stalin at Potsdam in 1945. At that time our people were called upon to regard Russia as our friend. Today Russia is our enemy, making war upon us through its satellites, our people are called upon to regard it as our enemy, and to make great sacrifices to resist it.

A similar reversal has taken place as respects Germany. When Mr. Truman took office it was our enemy, we were pouring out blood and treasure to conquer it. After conquering it we determined that it should never again be able to make war, and in that purpose systematically destroyed much of its industrial equipment. Today we plead with Western Germany to be our ally in war against Russia, we ask it to rearm and we help it restore the industries which less than five years ago we destroyed.

An especially agonizing reversal is the one that has taken place about China. When Mr. Truman took office, China as a country and a people, under the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-Shek, was our loyal friend and ally. Today, China, under a Communist government largely brought about by Moscow and dominated by it, is our enemy making war upon us; its people being taught to hate us.

Resists Re-Examination

It is little wonder if our people, narrowed by strain on the national spirit as a consequence of such reversals of conditions come to question whether the conduct of our foreign relations by the Truman Administration has been wise. The questioning on general grounds is increased by specific charges and criticisms, in Congress and elsewhere, about particular policies and actions of the Administration. The popular disquiet is further increased by traits of Mr. Truman's personality, including an attitude toward criticism. The Administration resists both re-examination of its own policies up to date and examination of changes in policy proposed from other sources. When ex-President Hoover the other day made an extremely careful examination of our relation to the world, which attracted nation-wide attention and sup-

Americans Should Know Foreign Situation Truths

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Seldom has a nation known so little about so much. This refers to what is happening to the destiny of the American people.

Although the Constitution of the United States says that Congress alone shall declare war, no such action has been taken. Yet American armed services are already engaged in a bitter war with hundreds of thousands of enemy troops.

Although America boasts that it is a democracy and that war or peace is not determined by one man, as it is in the totalitarian states, the legislative body which contains the elected representatives of the people has had no opportunity either to share in the responsibility of decision to make war or in the policy that may ensue there from in the future.

The President has said that he can send troops overseas without the permission of Congress because there has been a commitment under the North Atlantic Treaty, but this is exactly opposite to what the Administration's Secretary of State told Congress when the treaty itself was passed.

Usually Ratified

But, even if it be conceded that troops may be sent to Europe without Congressional sanction as an implied obligation of the treaty, can it be said that membership in the UN obliges the President of the United States to carry on war without the consent of Congress?

While the American people have often sanctioned in emergencies the taking of initial steps to protect our interests outside of the United States by the employment of our armed forces, this has usually been followed, in large-scale operations, by a resolution of ratification by Congress. Six months have passed since the outbreak of the Korean War and no such resolution has been presented to Congress by the Administration.

The fiction that no "state of war" exists at present has been maintained by the executive for reasons not explained.

Next Monday Mr. Truman will send to both houses of Congress his annual message on the state of the union. Here, it is to be hoped, some definition of policy will be made to justify the continued use of American troops in an undeclared war.

The American people, moreover, know very little about the administration's intentions. While a "national emergency" has been proclaimed, the Congress has had no share in the interpretation of that proclamation in terms of a "state of war."

Why does the President shrink from a realistic recognition that a "state of war" exists? Is it because American sovereignty has been yielded to the United Nations? If so, the people who voted for the entry of this country into the UN had no idea they were scrapping the American Constitution at the time the UN charter was accepted.

The people know very little about the Korean War. They know only that tens of thousands of troops are engaged in war and that, while it is called a UN operation, the troops of the United States comprise almost all the UN forces in Korea outside of those of the South Korean Republic itself. Here is a situation that calls for definition and information. The American people have not been told why the other members of the UN have failed to send troops in large numbers since last June.

Information is essential in order to build confidence. There can be no national unity merely by exhorting everybody to work together. Faith and confidence in a national government can be developed and preserved only when the people are entrusted with the essential information they should have in order to understand what is going on.

No Explanation

There has not even been a persuasive explanation of why the American troops are in Korea.

The relationship between Korea and the whole future of international cooperation has not been explained.

Many influential groups are arguing that, if the UN condones aggression in the Far East and perhaps withdraws voluntarily from Korea, there would be an even greater demand to refrain from operations in Europe.

All these arguments and counter-arguments about Korea are a part of a national debate which reflects the fact that neither the President nor the Secretary of State today enjoys the undivided support of an anxious country. Instead, there are misgivings and questionings about the national leadership. These questionings are the direct result of the failure of the Administration to tell the American people the basic truths they should know about the current international situation.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Great Debate

FOR A DECADE, the Administration has used every means within its power to suppress a public discussion of its foreign policy. The reason has been that that policy has been confused and full of error since 1933.

Mr. Roosevelt's first error was the recognition of Soviet Russia without an adequate study of the problems inherent in Marxian international relations, and the failure to exact guarantees of conduct, except the two which did not matter, namely, religious freedom in Russia and non-revolutionary activity in this country.

At the time when the Roosevelt-Litvinov negotiations occurred, it was obviously possible for the United States to state its terms, as Russia was the pleader for recognition.

Then followed a period of isolationism which lasted for five years until Munich, with the one interruption of the quarantine speech in Chicago, which was delivered to cover up the then offensive appointment of Hugo Black to the United States Supreme Court.

From this isolationism, which really commenced after Mr. Roosevelt blew up the London World Economic Conference (1933) that might have saved Europe but for his intervention, we became a participant, secret and open, in World War II, which has now projected itself into World War III.

Such matters as the Quebec, Cairo, Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam conferences require understanding which can only come from public debate, but the Administration has utilized such words as "isolationist," "Fascist," "Bipartisan foreign policy," "unity," "retreatist," Gibraltarism" to deal with broad problems of public interest involving the lives of our sons and the welfare of future generations.

Thomas E. Dewey, Joseph P. Kennedy, Herbert Hoover, and John Foster Dulles have thus far joined the issue, as well as columnists and commentators.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey presented a view more like Dean Achesons than his own, heretofore so often expressed. In the passion of our defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia in Korea, it is understandable that Governor Dewey would call for full support of the Administration.

Certainly those who are responsible for errors costing American lives have no claim to undiscussed, unscrutinized, blind acknowledgement of their leadership. Governor Dewey's speech was a continuance of the Vandenberg program of a bipartisan foreign policy, which it is doubtful that Senator Vandenberg would now pursue.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Kennedy developed, each somewhat differently, the theme that God helps those who help themselves and that the United States might well follow His example. The nation's response to Mr. Hoover's speech startled the Administration, which responded by calling him a 'retreatist," a false label designed to confuse the issue.

For instance, last Sunday, the "New York Times," in its "The News of the Week in Review," published a map purporting to represent Mr. Hoover's views which omitted from the areas that he would include in our defenses, Iceland, Greenland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa.

Yet, this is what Mr. Hoover actually said:

". . . We can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate); the other, on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. We can hold open the sea lanes for our supplies. And I devoutly hope that a maximum of cooperation can be established between the British commonwealth and ourselves."

Such an omission by the "New York Times" can only be regarded as a direct attempt to present the issue incorrectly.

John Foster Dulles' speech is one of the most difficult to analyze. After I read it carefully, I reached the conclusion that Mr. Dulles is not too far away from Mr. Hoover. Both agree that our lines have to be shortened; that we must not undertake more than we can accomplish. And it seemed to me that Mr. Dulles was advising our allies to do much for themselves.

At any rate, his speech, if it represented the State Department, was a retreat from the Truman policy of containment. Mr. Dulles is generally announced as a Republican adviser to the State Department, which is inaccurate because the Republican Party has not officially so designated him. Mr. Truman made the choice. He is a State Department official.

However, until it is clear whether he speaks for himself, for the Republican Party, or for the State Department, it is difficult to evaluate his speech.

Based on past records, 48,736 persons will be rushed to hospitals today. This year 1 out of 9 persons in the U.S. will be hospitalized. We Pay Your Hospital, Your Doctor or YOU!
It's "your money" and subject to your orders. You just tell us where to send your check.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Broderick Crawford

The girl Columbia is importing from New York television shows to kick off her screen career as the nurse opposite Crawford's police sergeant in this thriller is Betty Buehler, 22-year-old, blondish and very pretty.

Max Arnow, the studio talent scout, saw her on just one TV program, arranged a screen test, and here she is in Hollywood this morning.

Isn't this the first time this has been done? Darryl Zanuck is transplanting the entire cast of "I'll Get By" into a new 20th Century musical—and it's not a sequel.

This means that June Haver (if she returns to work), Gloria De Haven, Bill Lundigan and Dennis Day are signed en masse for "The Husband Who Ran Away," Hildegarde Dolson's 1948 novel.

In fact, everything is a repeat—even to the men behind the camera. Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos, who wrote "I'll Get By," will also scrip "The Husband Who Ran Away." Sale will repeat his stint at directing with Jules Buck producing.

Talk is hot in New York that Marlene Dietrich is at long last considering divorcing Rudy Seiber, her husband of 25 years. Although they have been separated so long that many people think them divorced, and time after time her name has been linked with an assortment of "prospective husbands," Marlene has never sought her freedom.

Now the $64 question is—will she want it to be free to marry Michael Wilding? When their romance flared so brightly in London, it is said that Wilding urged Dietrich to seek a Mexican divorce so she could become his bride about the same time his pal, Stewart Granger, married Jean Simmons.

It's too late for that—but they wouldn't be too far behind.

Snapshots of Hollywood and Chicago collected at random:

Ran into Greta Garbo in the doctor's office just before I caught the Super-Chief. Yes, we talked. I said "hello."

Jeff Chandler, supposed to start "Iron Man" at U-I Monday, may not make it. He's very ill with a virus infection.

Big Crosby laughed harder than anyone else when Bob Hope hired a painter to change the sign reading "Paramount salutes Bing Crosby, Mr. Music, on his 20th anniversary" to read " . . . on his 80th anniversary.

The Ezio Pinzas dining quietly at the Sportsmen's Lodge—Doris' first appearance since the birth of the baby.

John Carroll and his wife are definitely made up. She went along when he flew to his night club stint in Houston, Texas.

Susan Peters plays "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" for two weeks at the Sombrero Theater in Phoenix starting January 16.

Continuing to be everywhere together—Judy Garland and Sid Luft at the Encore.

After Ronald Reagan and Nancy Davis dated steadily for weeks, he surprised everyone by showing up with his old flame, Judy Clarke, at the Villa Capri.

I notice that George Dolenz fared very well with eastern critics in "Vendetta" which may be one reason R-K-O has upped the budget on "Return of Zorro."

Mario Lanza leaves January 14 on a ten weeks concert tour and when he returns he'll ask M-G-M to let him take his family to Europe.

One reason for the Sam Goldwyns' trip to New York now is that Sam Jr. has been transferred to Astoria, Long Island.

Gloria De Haven is up for her first Broadway show in the spring. Phil and Julie Epstein want her for their new musical.

When Jack Dempsey does his first TV show January 12, his two daughters will appear with him—so he was telling the folks at the Wilshire Seacombers.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Conduct Of Foreign

port, Mr. Truman's response was a terse epithet, isolationism.

While the condition is commonly spoken of as lack of confidence in the President it is something broader and more frustrating to the national spirit. It is a starvation of faith within the people, caused by the experiences they have gone through. They are deprived of satisfaction of the instinctive wish to have faith. The condition must not be allowed to continue. Either by Congress and within it, or through action by it, the country must be provided with leadership.

Two Wills Probated In Court Here

Two wills were probated yesterday morning in Orphans Court.

The will of Albert R. Wiseman, this city, who died December 23, listed Genevieve Barker and Carl V. Wiseman, his children, as executors. Bonds of $1,000 were posted by the executors.

Under terms of the will the dwelling at 300 Waverly Terrace is to be converted into cash and the money divided equally between the eight children of the deceased.

The balance of the estate is to be held under guardianship of Carl V. Wiseman for the use of James A. Wiseman when he becomes 21 years of age.

The will of Ella M. Hoffman, this city, who died December 18, lists W. May Parker, a daughter, as executor.

A granddaughter, Nancy Ann Parker, was left two $100 U. S. bonds and a sewing cabinet. The rest of the estate is divided between the deceased's five children.

Harris To Address Police Boys' Club

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will address the Police Boys' Club at a dinner tomorrow at 1 p. m. in the basement of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Oldtown Road.

J. Henry Stitcher, director of the organization and a member of the Cumberland Police department, said plans have been made to accommodate about 70 boys.

A. Florian Wilson will be toastmaster.

Church Report Given Members

Members of the Seventh Day Adventists in Cumberland contributed a total of $8,382.83 to their church during 1950, according to Rev. O B. Gerhart.

This amounted to a per capita donation of $137.42, he pointed out.

Seventh Day Adventists the world over, contributed a total of $44,745,570 in 1949, or a per capita of $138 28 in North America. Of this amount, $7,481,855 was given for local work, $10,184,854 for foreign missions, and $27,078,860 was tithe.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—IN THE FIRST issue of the new American Mercury an article by William Bradford Huie, exploring the reasons why ex-Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal committed suicide, quoted Monsignor Maurice S. Sheehy, former Navy chaplain, as saying:

"Had I been allowed to see my friend Jim Forrestal, receive him back into the church, and put his mind at ease with the oldest and most reliable of medicines known to mankind, he would be alive today."

It was a tough and controversial quote, for it placed Sheehy in the position of damning those who kept him from Forrestal in the man's last days of life, and it supported the Huie premise that Forrestal was hounded to death.

There has been no response from Sheehy until now. His response may be found in the current issue of Catholic Digest, edited by one of the best minds I've encountered in or out of the magazine business, Paul Bussard, a priest who looks like Dana Andrews and in summertime wears, I suspect, Bing Crosby's old straw hats. It apparently took some doing to get Sheehy to write the piece.

Forrestal and Sheehy were good friends. They met at a party given by Dorothy Thompson in 1940, at a time when Forrestal was assistant to President Roosevelt. They next met at the home of Eugene Meyer in Washington when Forrestal was Secretary of the Navy and Sheehy had returned from a 33-month tour of duty in the Pacific.

It was only after they knew each other quite well that the priest learned from Forrestal that he was a back-slid Catholic. It was at a time when Forrestal, a fierce foe of Communism, was firing every gun in his personal arsenal to defeat the menace in Western Europe. He asked Sheehy to go to Rome in the spring of 1948 to do what he could to keep Italy from going Communist in the general elections of that year, and, if you read the Huie article, Forrestal spent a lot personally to achieve the defeat of the Reds at that time.

When the screws began to be put into Forrestal later, Sheehy urged him to reply, apparently specifically to the report by Drew Pearson that he (Forrestal) had cowardly run out of his house while a burglar was robbing Mrs. Forrestal. He made other pleas to Forrestal and finally received this note:

"I agree with you I should expose the guerrilla warfare directed against me. The trouble is I don't have time to devote to that activity."

• — • — •

Forrestal asked to see Sheehy the day he was admitted to the hospital from whose window he eventually jumped. The priest, an instructor at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., dismissed his class and went immediately to the hospital — for he knew Forrestal was cracking up.

"The psychiatrist told me that he wished my help, but that Jim was so confused I should wait some days before seeing him," Msgr. Sheehy writes in the Catholic Digest.

He tried six more times to see Forrestal in the next few weeks, and was turned away each time. So was Fr. Paul McNally, S. J., of Georgetown University, another friend. Finally Sheehy asked Secretary of Navy John L. Sullivan why his visit to his friend was being postponed, and the hospital subsequently promised that the priest could see the patient "next week."

But before Sheehy was admitted, Forrestal leaped.

The psychiatrist in charge had made the "next week" decision. And of the man's profession, Msgr. Sheehy concludes:

"In psychiatry at the present time there is general agreement as to the place of religion in restoring mental health. There is disagreement as to when spiritual aid can most effectively be given. While it is not my province to pass judgment upon the factors which brought on Forrestal's collapse, I stand by the statement attributed to me in the new American Mercury.

"Peace of soul is the best antidote for the depressed mind."

More Discussion Due On Water Rate Hike

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 5 (AP)—Further hearings on a petition for higher water rates in Berkeley Springs and vicinity was continued today to a date and place to be fixed later.

The Public Service Commission ordered that, meanwhile, an audit be made of the books of the applicant firm, the Mountain State Water Company.

The petition was protested on behalf of Berkeley Springs by City Attorney C. S. Trump. He did not appear at the hearing today, but will be given an opportunity later to cross-examine.

The company said its present rates, in effect since 1942, no longer yield a reasonable return as a result of higher operating costs and higher taxes.

The company seeks new rates which it estimated would add $8,000 to its annual revenue.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Broderick Crawford

The girl Columbia is importing from New York television shows to kick off her screen career as the nurse opposite Crawford's police sergeant in this thriller is Betty Buehler, 22-year-old, blondish and very pretty.

Max Arnow, the studio talent scout, saw her on just one TV program, arranged a screen test, and here she is in Hollywood this morning.

Isn't this the first time this has been done? Darryl Zanuck is transplanting the entire cast of "I'll Get By" into a new 20th Century musical—and it's not a sequel.

This means that June Haver (if she returns to work), Gloria De Haven, Bill Lundigan and Dennis Day are signed en masse for "The Husband Who Ran Away," Hildegarde Dolson's 1948 novel.

In fact, everything is a repeat—even to the men behind the camera. Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos, who wrote "I'll Get By," will also scrip "The Husband Who Ran Away." Sale will repeat his stint at directing with Jules Buck producing.

Talk is hot in New York that Marlene Dietrich is at long last considering divorcing Rudy Seiber, her husband of 25 years. Although they have been separated so long that many people think them divorced, and time after time her name has been linked with an assortment of "prospective husbands," Marlene has never sought her freedom.

Now the $64 question is—will she want it to be free to marry Michael Wilding? When their romance flared so brightly in London, it is said that Wilding urged Dietrich to seek a Mexican divorce so she could become his bride about the same time his pal, Stewart Granger, married Jean Simmons.

It's too late for that—but they wouldn't be too far behind.

Snapshots of Hollywood and Chicago collected at random:

Ran into Greta Garbo in the doctor's office just before I caught the Super-Chief. Yes, we talked. I said "hello."

Jeff Chandler, supposed to start "Iron Man" at U-I Monday, may not make it. He's very ill with a virus infection.

Big Crosby laughed harder than anyone else when Bob Hope hired a painter to change the sign reading "Paramount salutes Bing Crosby, Mr. Music, on his 20th anniversary" to read " . . . on his 80th anniversary."

The Ezio Pinzas dining quietly at the Sportsmen's Lodge—Doris' first appearance since the birth of the baby.

John Carroll and his wife are definitely made up. She went along when he flew to his night club stint in Houston, Texas.

Susan Peters plays "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" for two weeks at the Sombrero Theater in Phoenix starting January 16.

Continuing to be everywhere together—Judy Garland and Sid Luft at the Encore.

After Ronald Reagan and Nancy Davis dated steadily for weeks, he surprised everyone by showing up with his old flame, Judy Clarke, at the Villa Capri.

I notice that George Dolenz fared very well with eastern critics in "Vendetta" which may be one reason R-K-O has upped the budget on "Return of Zorro."

Mario Lanza leaves January 14 on a ten weeks concert tour and when he returns he'll ask M-G-M to let him take his family to Europe.

One reason for the Sam Goldwyns' trip to New York now is that Sam Jr. has been transferred to Astoria, Long Island.

Gloria De Haven is up for her first Broadway show in the spring. Phil and Julie Epstein want her for their new musical.

When Jack Dempsey does his first TV show January 12, his two daughters will appear with him—so he was telling the folks at the Wilshire Seacombers.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Conduct Of Foreign

port, Mr. Truman's response was a terse epithet, isolationism.

While the condition is commonly spoken of as lack of confidence in the President it is something broader and more frustrating to the national spirit. It is a starvation of faith within the people, caused by the experiences they have gone through. They are deprived of satisfaction of the instinctive wish to have faith. The condition must not be allowed to continue. Either by Congress and within it, or through action by it, the country must be provided with leadership.

Two Wills Probated In Court Here

Two wills were probated yesterday morning in Orphans Court.

The will of Albert R. Wiseman, this city, who died December 23, listed Genevieve Barker and Carl V. Wiseman, his children, as executors. Bonds of $1,000 were posted by the executors.

Under terms of the will the dwelling at 300 Waverly Terrace is to be converted into cash and the money divided equally between the eight children of the deceased.

The balance of the estate is to be held under guardianship of Carl V. Wiseman for the use of James A. Wiseman when he becomes 21 years of age.

The will of Ella M. Hoffman, this city, who died December 18, lists W. May Parker, a daughter, as executor.

A granddaughter, Nancy Ann Parker, was left two $100 U. S. bonds and a sewing cabinet. The rest of the estate is divided between the deceased's five children.

Harris To Address Police Boys' Club

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will address the Police Boys' Club at a dinner tomorrow at 1 p. m. in the basement of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Oldtown Road.

J. Henry Stitcher, director of the organization and a member of the Cumberland Police department, said plans have been made to accommodate about 70 boys.

A. Florian Wilson will be toastmaster.

Church Report Given Members

Members of the Seventh Day Adventists in Cumberland contributed a total of $8,382.83 to their church during 1950, according to Rev. O B. Gerhart.

This amounted to a per capita donation of $137.42, he pointed out.

Seventh Day Adventists the world over, contributed a total of $44,745,570 in 1949, or a per capita of $138 28 in North America. Of this amount, $7,481,855 was given for local work, $10,184,854 for foreign missions, and $27,078,860 was tithe.

Youth For Christ Meeting Set For Today

The Youth for Christ meeting will be held today at the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Steet, at 8 p. m.

It will feature a gospel team from Washington Bible Institute, Washington; Arthur Buckhouser as speaker; vocal trio numbers by Clare Westbygidson, Marian MacDonald and Betty Thatcher with Miss Long as piano accompanist. A vocal soloist from the Bible institute will also accompany the group.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—IN THE FIRST issue of the new American Mercury an article by William Bradford Huie, exploring the reasons why ex-Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal committed suicide, quoted Monsignor Maurice S. Sheehy, former Navy chaplain, as saying:

"Had I been allowed to see my friend Jim Forrestal, receive him back into the church, and put his mind at ease with the oldest and most reliable of medicines known to mankind, he would be alive today."

It was a tough and controversial quote, for it placed Sheehy in the position of damning those who kept him from Forrestal in the man's last days of life, and it supported the Huie premise that Forrestal was hounded to death.

There has been no response from Sheehy until now. His response may be found in the current issue of Catholic Digest, edited by one of the best minds I've encountered in or out of the magazine business, Paul Bussard, a priest who looks like Dana Andrews and in summertime wears, I suspect, Bing Crosby's old straw hats. It apparently took some doing to get Sheehy to write the piece.

Forrestal and Sheehy were good friends. They met at a party given by Dorothy Thompson in 1940, at a time when Forrestal was assistant to President Roosevelt. They next met at the home of Eugene Meyer in Washington when Forrestal was Secretary of the Navy and Sheehy had returned from a 33-month tour of duty in the Pacific.

It was only after they knew each other quite well that the priest learned from Forrestal that he was a back-slid Catholic. It was at a time when Forrestal, a fierce foe of Communism, was firing every gun in his personal arsenal to defeat the menace in Western Europe. He asked Sheehy to go to Rome in the spring of 1948 to do what he could to keep Italy from going Communist in the general elections of that year, and, if you read the Huie article, Forrestal spent a lot personally to achieve the defeat of the Reds at that time.

When the screws began to be put into Forrestal later, Sheehy urged him to reply, apparently specifically to the report by Drew Pearson that he (Forrestal) had cowardly run out of his house while a burglar was robbing Mrs. Forrestal. He made other pleas to Forrestal and finally received this note:

"I agree with you I should expose the guerrilla warfare directed against me. The trouble is I don't have time to devote to that activity."

• — • — •

Forrestal asked to see Sheehy the day he was admitted to the hospital from whose window he eventually jumped. The priest, an instructor at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., dismissed his class and went immediately to the hospital — for he knew Forrestal was cracking up.

"The psychiatrist told me that he wished my help, but that Jim was so confused I should wait some days before seeing him," Msgr. Sheehy writes in the Catholic Digest.

He tried six more times to see Forrestal in the next few weeks, and was turned away each time. So was Fr. Paul McNally, S. J., of Georgetown University, another friend. Finally Sheehy asked Secretary of Navy John L. Sullivan why his visit to his friend was being postponed, and the hospital subsequently promised that the priest could see the patient "next week."

But before Sheehy was admitted, Forrestal leaped.

The psychiatrist in charge had made the "next week" decision. And of the man's profession, Msgr. Sheehy concludes:

"In psychiatry at the present time there is general agreement as to the place of religion in restoring mental health. There is disagreement as to when spiritual aid can most effectively be given. While it is not my province to pass judgment upon the factors which brought on Forrestal's collapse, I stand by the statement attributed to me in the new American Mercury.

"Peace of soul is the best antidote for the depressed mind."

More Discussion Due On Water Rate Hike

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 5 (AP)—Further hearings on a petition for higher water rates in Berkeley Springs and vicinity was continued today to a date and place to be fixed later.

The Public Service Commission ordered that, meanwhile, an audit be made of the books of the applicant firm, the Mountain State Water Company.

The petition was protested on behalf of Berkeley Springs by City Attorney C. S. Trump. He did not appear at the hearing today, but will be given an opportunity later to cross-examine.

The company said its present rates, in effect since 1942, no longer yield a reasonable return as a result of higher operating costs and higher taxes.

The company seeks new rates which it estimated would add $8,000 to its annual revenue.

Four Sarahs...

The first Sarah came to America in the "nineties." She was poor, but she loved her husband, her children, and her God. That three-fold love was the heritage she gave her family.

The second Sarah married a "doughboy." She prayed for him through the long months of trench warfare. Then the Armistice, and he came home to her!

The third Sarah saw her teens against the background of Depression. She met Bill, and they fell in love. Then Pearl Harbor . . . Corregidor . . . and the Jap prison. While she worked in a war plant she prayed. She never gave up hope. Then V-J Day, and as soon as he was discharged from the hospital they were married.

The fourth Sarah . . . her story is still to be written. But the courageous faith of the others will be hers, too. Sarah and Bill will see to that . . . with the help of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Four Sarahs...

The first Sarah came to America in the "nineties." She was poor, but she loved her husband, her children, and her God. That three-fold love was the heritage she gave her family.

The second Sarah married a "doughboy." She prayed for him through the long months of trench warfare. Then the Armistice, and he came home to her!

The third Sarah saw her teens against the background of Depression. She met Bill, and they fell in love. Then Pearl Harbor . . . Corregidor . . . and the Jap prison. While she worked in a war plant she prayed. She never gave up hope. Then V-J Day, and as soon as he was discharged from the hospital they were married.

The fourth Sarah . . . her story is still to be written. But the courageous faith of the others will be hers, too. Sarah and Bill will see to that . . . with the help of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LaSalle Edges Allegany, 35-34; Fort Hill, Ridgeley Win

Paul Ackerman's Foul With 42 Seconds Left Wins Game

Alco Five Outscores Winners From Field; Loses 4th In Row

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Paul Ackerman sank a free throw with 42 seconds remaining to give the LaSalle Explorers a thrilling 35-34 victory over Allegany High's Campers last night on the Campobello floor.

Ackerman was fouled by Ronnie Lease in a melee under the LaSalle basket as approximately 600 fans screamed their lungs out in the small Camper gym. The husky forward missed the first of two tries before sinking the all-important point that knocked aside Allegany's first defense of its city title.

Snaps Losing Skein

The win was a big one for Coach Arthur Slocum's Centre Streeters and broke a two-game losing streak while extending the West Siders' losing ways to four in a row and five of six.

It was a slam-bang affair from start to end with never more than six points separating the two teams—LaSalle led 14-8 early in the second quarter—and the score was knotted nine times with the lead changing hands four times.

Although not a well-played game in the sense of fast well-executed plays, sharp passing and excellent defense work, it nevertheless was a crowd pleaser that never gave the fans a dull moment from the opening whistle.

Jimmy Moran started the rough, erratic and at times spectacular fireworks off with a foul for LaSalle that put the Explorers out in front throughout the first half except for a 1-1 tie moments later and a 14-14 deadlock at the end of the first two periods of play.

George Long knotted things for Allegany, Doug Connolly connected for a long one-hander and LaSalle built the margin to 11-8 at the close of the initial canto.

Lease Knots Score

Two quick baskets by Junior Eversole on the scoring end of well-executed fast break plays made it 14-12 LaSalle with seconds remaining in the half and Ronnie Lease stole the ball a moment later from Connolly to dribble-in for a layup that knotted the count for the second time as the half ended.

LaSalle again forged ahead in the third stanza as Ackerman and Moran potted one-handers before Eversole broke through for Alco with a set heave from the side. Moran's layup made it 20-16 for the Explorers then Frank Phares, Allegany's lanky center, tallied his first basket of the game on a pivot shot and Eversole again connected to tie the score once more.

Phares then put Allegany ahead for the first time in the game with a closeup after taking a pass from Lease and the Campers edged ahead 26-23 at the end of third period hositlities.

Marty Mullaney's pivot shot and a foul toss by Moran tied it again at 26-all and the score was knotted five more times in the final eight minutes at 28, 29, 31, 32 and 34 before Ackerman's singleton broke Allegany's back.

Two Players Foul Out

Lase fouled out for Allegany on the play that gave Ackerman his game-winning chance and moments later Dick Widdows became the second Alco player to leave the game via personals.

Referees Bill Hahn and Joe Stanislawczyk called a total of 20 fouls on the losing Campers to seven against LaSalle and the Explorers had 11 chances at the 15-foot stripe in the second half to Allegany's two. Actually the winners were triumphant at the foul line, converting 9 of 21 tries to four of nine for the Campers although outscored 15 field goals to 13 by Allegany.

Allegany had two chances to score the winning goal in the final seconds but a mid-floor set shot by Ronnie Chapman was no good and Ronnie Sisk lost control of the ball attempting to pass to Eversole breaking for the basket in the final second of play.

Take Scoring Honors

Moran, Ackerman and Connolly were LaSalle's standout players while Eversole sparked with some sensational shooting for Allegany and Dick Widdows and Ronnie Lease played excellent floor games.

Eversole and Moran shared high scoring honors for their respective teams with 11 points apiece.

A "Home Team" Loop • • • Shuffle Race Torrid • • • Hank Coaches Winner

By C. V. BURNS

Cumberland5s Spas have won only one of five games played on the road this season but that's nothing unusual in the All-American Pro Basketball League which appears to be more of a "Home, Sweet Home" circuit this year than in the three previous seasons of operation.

Through Wednesday, a total of 25 games had been played and the record stood at five wins for the visiting teams and 20 for the home clubs. This means the teams won only 20 percent, or one out of every five, played on the road.

Here's how the teams fared in the first 25 games.

There's another torrid race on for the first half championship of the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County and it may be a battle to a finish involving three clubs—Stadium Inn and American Legion of Frostburg and the Cumberland Knights of Columbus, three-times champions.

Here's how the teams stand:

Stadium Inn leads by two games with six to play.

Cumberland K. of C. trails by two games with six to play.

Frostburg Legion is four games out of first place with six to play.

On January 11, Frostburg Legion plays at Stadium Inn and Cumberland V. F. W. is at the K. of C. On the final day of the first half race (Jan. 18) the Cumberland V.F.W. visits Frostburg Legion and last but not least the K. of C. invades Stadium Inn.

It looks like a photo finish and as to the winnah — that may not be known until the night of Jan. 18.

Hank Ellis, who played for the Wheeling Blues in the All-American League for several seasons, is having a good year as cage mentor at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The Bobcats are showing the way in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference with a 4-0 record and have knocked off Concord 61-51, Morris Harvey 53-52, West Virginia Tech 50-48 and Alderson-Broaddus 57-46.

The only blot on the Bobcats' record was a 71-60 loss at the hands of West Virginia's Mountaineers in the season opener.

Potomac State plays Wesleyan only once during the regular season and that's February 10 at Buckhannon.

One of the greatest comebacks of the young new year is the Duke University basketball team's rally in the recent Dixie cage tourney against Tulane at Raleigh, N. C.

The Blue Devils were trailing by 20 points at intermission and 32 points after the second half got under way — then poured it, on in the second half to win, 74-72.

Before the firehouse style of basketball made its bow, the coach of a team with a 29-point lead at halftime could have spent the second half at a movie show.

Snead Leads With 67 At Los Angeles

Marty Furgol Trails Favorite By Stroke

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP) — Sam Snead scorched Riviera's hilly golf course in familiar fashion today to post a four-under-par 67 and take the first-day lead in the $15,000 Los Angeles Open.

A sensational chip for an eagle on the ninth hole gave him a startling 31 for the first half and he coasted the rest of the way to a par 36 on the back nine. It was all just about as expected by a gallery of 5,000 which had installed him as a heavy favorite.

Marty Furgol Second

One stroke back with a 33-35—68 came Marty Furgol, veteran campaigner from nearby North Hollywood. At 69 were bracketed young Joe Kirkwood Jr., second generation of a famed golfing name, Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Skee Riegel of Tulsa.

Despite good weather, only eight of the starting field of 144 could beat par 71 and some of the big names left themselves herculean tasks to catch the fast-starting Snead.

Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum and Dr. Cary Middlecoff with 73's and Ellsworth Vines with a 75 were among them.

Sam Won Event Twice

Snead has won this event twice — last year in a stirring playoff with Ben Hogan. He went on to bank more than $37,000 in prize money during the year and put himself alone in his class as the new year started.

Henry Ransom, the Texan now playing from St. Andrews, Ill., and young Bob Watson of White Plains, N. Y., each put together scores of 34-36 to chase Snead by three strokes. Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., no relation to Marty, tied them with a 36-34.

At even par 71 were two veterans, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Lawson Little.

The field competes tomorrow for the right to stay in the tournament. The list will be cut to the low 90 and ties on Sunday and to 64 for the final 18 holes Monday.

Ike Williams Stops Gatica

Referee Halts Bout In Opening Round

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Lightweight Champion Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., dropped Jose Gatica, three times to stop the South Argentine swarmer in 2:09 of the first round tonight in a non-title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Williams weighed 140¼; Gatica 138.

Bidding his time while Gatica flurried madly in the first minute, Ike coldly dumped the 9 to 5 underdog for counts of three and six. When he went down a third time from a terrific right hand punch, Referee Ray Miller stopped it.

Blood cascaded from Gatica's nose like water from a fountain. Dazed and bewildered he obviously was in no condition to continue.

St. Mary's Gaels Drop Football, And Baseball For The Duration

Teams Gained Fame Under Slip Madigan

MORAGA, Cal., Jan. 5 (INS)—St. Mary's College announced today that it is giving up intercollegiate football and baseball because of the national emergency and the manpower needs of the armed forces.

The Gaels became the first major western school to take such action. The decision also marks the first time in 43 years St. Mary's has not been represented by a football team.

Officials said that only basketball will continue as a major intercollegiate sport for the duration of the national emergency.

This was announced today "with some reluctance" by the St. Mary's board of trustees. An official statement said:

"The action of the board followed a consideration of a prospective depletion in student enrollment consequent on selective service and voluntary enlistment in the armed forces . . ."

The announcement said that other factors also were involved in the decision, including:

". . . the financial loss entailed in maintaining a major athletic program and a growing difficulty of sustaining academic standards in the face of an inflated competition, particularly in football."

Once one of the nation's top collegiate teams under the mentorship of Edward P. ("Slip") Madigan, St. Mary's won only two games in 1950, losing six and scoring one tie.

During the past 10 years the Gaels have fielded some outstanding teams but never reached the heights of the years between 1921 and 1939, when Madigan and his Moraga Marauders achieved national fame.

St. Mary's uninterrupted record of fielding a grid team, which began in 1907, was maintained during the second world war, but the squads of those years consisted largely of navy pre-flight students.

Yanks To Offer Joe Same Salary As '50

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio will be offered the same salary earned last year General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees said today.

Weiss declined to disclose the star outfielder's paycheck last year, but it is believed the Yankee Clipper was paid $100,000.

DiMaggio's work last season included a batting average of .301 in 139 games, a home run total of 32 and a 122 runs batted in figure. Not bad for a fellow who just celebrated his 36th birthday.

"DiMaggio will be mailed a contract some time next week. We don't expect any difficulty," Weiss said.

PCC Bans Telecasts Of "Live" Grid Games

RIVERSIDE, Cal., (INS) — The Pacific Coast Conference, in an action which failed to come as a surprise because of the drop-off of football game attendances, banned the telecasting of "live" games during its next season.

The decision to institute the ban came as one of the last measures of business at the regular PCC meeting before the members adjourned to entrain for Dallas where the annual NCAA session will take place next Monday.

The action was taken as a result of information giving the officials yesterday which revealed that of the 30 games televised last year "21 fell below the estimates of receipts guaranteed by the television agreement and in 13 of the 21, the deficit exceeded the guaranteed percentage and resulted in uncompensated losses."

Indiana Negro Cage Star Is Honored

Paul Ackerman's Foul With 42 Seconds Left Wins Game

Alco Five Outscores Winners From Field; Loses 4th In Row

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Paul Ackerman sank a free throw with 42 seconds remaining to give the LaSalle Explorers a thrilling 35-34 victory over Allegany High's Campers last night on the Campobello floor.

Ackerman was fouled by Ronnie Lease in a melee under the LaSalle basket as approximately 600 fans screamed their lungs out in the small Camper gym. The husky forward missed the first of two tries before sinking the all-important point that knocked aside Allegany's first defense of its city title.

Snaps Losing Skein

The win was a big one for Coach Arthur Slocum's Centre Streeters and broke a two-game losing streak while extending the West Siders' losing ways to four in a row and five of six.

It was a slam-bang affair from start to end with never more than six points separating the two teams—LaSalle led 14-8 early in the second quarter—and the score was knotted nine times with the lead changing hands four times.

Although not a well-played game in the sense of fast well-executed plays, sharp passing and excellent defense work, it nevertheless was a crowd pleaser that never gave the fans a dull moment from the opening whistle.

Jimmy Moran started the rough, erratic and at times spectacular fireworks off with a foul for LaSalle that put the Explorers out in front throughout the first half except for a 1-1 tie moments later and a 14-14 deadlock at the end of the first two periods of play.

George Long knotted things for Allegany, Doug Connolly connected for a long one-hander and LaSalle built the margin to 11-8 at the close of the initial canto.

Lease Knots Score

Two quick baskets by Junior Eversole on the scoring end of well-executed fast break plays made it 14-12 LaSalle with seconds remaining in the half and Ronnie Lease stole the ball a moment later from Connolly to dribble-in for a layup that knotted the count for the second time as the half ended.

LaSalle again forged ahead in the third stanza as Ackerman and Moran potted one-handers before Eversole broke through for Alco with a set heave from the side. Moran's layup made it 20-16 for the Explorers then Frank Phares, Allegany's lanky center, tallied his first basket of the game on a pivot shot and Eversole again connected to tie the score once more.

Phares then put Allegany ahead for the first time in the game with a closeup after taking a pass from Lease and the Campers edged ahead 26-23 at the end of third period hositilities.

Marty Mullaney's pivot shot and a foul toss by Moran tied it again at 26-all and the score was knotted five more times in the final eight minutes at 28, 29, 31, 32 and 34 before Ackerman's singleton broke Allegany's back.

Two Players Foul Out

Lase fouled out for Allegany on the play that gave Ackerman his game-winning chance and moments later Dick Widdows became the second Alco player to leave the game via personals.

Referees Bill Hahn and Joe Stanislawczyk called a total of 20 fouls on the losing Campers to seven against LaSalle and the Explorers had 11 chances at the 15-foot stripe in the second half to Allegany's two. Actually the winners were triumphant at the foul line, converting 9 of 21 tries to four of nine for the Campers although outscored 15 field goals to 13 by Allegany.

Allegany had two chances to score the winning goal in the final seconds but a mid-floor set shot by Ronnie Chapman was no good and Ronnie Sisk lost control of the ball attempting to pass to Eversole breaking for the basket in the final second of play.

Take Scoring Honors

Moran, Ackerman and Connolly were LaSalle's standout players while Eversole sparked with some sensational shooting for Allegany and Dick Widdows and Ronnie Lease played excellent floor games.

Eversole and Moran shared high scoring honors for their respective teams with 11 points apiece.

In the preliminary game Allegany's Reserves defeated the LaSalle Jayvees, 43-23. The lineups:

A "Home Team" Loop • • • Shuffle Race Torrid • • • Hank Coaches Winner

By C. V. BURNS

Cumberland5s Spas have won only one of five games played on the road this season but that's nothing unusual in the All-American Pro Basketball League which appears to be more of a "Home, Sweet Home" circuit this year than in the three previous seasons of operation.

Through Wednesday, a total of 25 games had been played and the record stood at five wins for the visiting teams and 20 for the home clubs. This means the teams won only 20 percent, or one out of every five, played on the road.

Here's how the teams fared in the first 25 games.

There's another torrid race on for the first half championship of the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County and it may be a battle to a finish involving three clubs—Stadium Inn and American Legion of Frostburg and the Cumberland Knights of Columbus, three-times champions.

Here's how the teams stand:

Stadium Inn leads by two games with six to play.

Cumberland K. of C. trails by two games with six to play.

Frostburg Legion is four games out of first place with six to play.

On January 11, Frostburg Legion plays at Stadium Inn and Cumberland V. F. W. is at the K. of C. On the final day of the first half race (Jan. 18) the Cumberland V.F.W. visits Frostburg Legion and last but not least the K. of C. invades Stadium Inn.

It looks like a photo finish and as to the winnah — that may not be known until the night of Jan. 18.

Hank Ellis, who played for the Wheeling Blues in the All-American League for several seasons, is having a good year as cage mentor at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The Bobcats are showing the way in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference with a 4-0 record and have knocked off Concord 61-51, Morris Harvey 53-52, West Virginia Tech 50-48 and Alderson-Broaddus 57-46.

The only blot on the Bobcats' record was a 71-60 loss at the hands of West Virginia's Mountaineers in the season opener.

Potomac State plays Wesleyan only once during the regular season and that's February 10 at Buckhannon.

One of the greatest comebacks of the young new year is the Duke University basketball team's rally in the recent Dixie cage tourney against Tulane at Raleigh, N. C.

The Blue Devils were trailing by 20 points at intermission and 32 points after the second half got under way — then poured it, on in the second half to win, 74-72.

Before 'the firehouse style of basketball made its bow, the coach of a team with a 29-point lead at halftime could have spent the second half at a movie show.

Snead Leads With 67 At Los Angeles

Marty Furgol Trails Favorite By Stroke

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP) — Sam Snead scorched Riviera's hilly golf course in familiar fashion today to post a four-under-par 67 and take the first-day lead in the $15,000 Los Angeles Open.

A sensational chip for an eagle on the ninth hole gave him a startling 31 for the first half and he coasted the rest of the way to a par 36 on the back nine. It was all just about as expected by a gallery of 5,000 which had installed him as a heavy favorite.

Marty Furgol Second

One stroke back with a 33-35—68 came Marty Furgol, veteran campaigner from nearby North Hollywood. At 69 were bracketed young Joe Kirkwood Jr., second generation of a famed golfing name, Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Skee Riegel of Tulsa.

Despite good weather, only eight of the starting field of 144 could beat par 71 and some of the big names left themselves herculean tasks to catch the fast-starting Snead.

Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum and Dr. Cary Middlecoff with 73's and Ellsworth Vines with a 75 were among them.

Sam Won Event Twice

Snead has won this event twice — last year in a stirring playoff with Ben Hogan. He went on to bank more than $37,000 in prize money during the year and put himself alone in his class as the new year started.

Henry Ransom, the Texan now playing from St. Andrews, Ill., and young Bob Watson of White Plains, N. Y., each put together scores of 34-36 to chase Snead by three strokes. Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., no relation to Marty, tied them with a 36-34.

At even par 71 were two veterans, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Lawson Little.

The field competes tomorrow for the right to stay in the tournament. The list will be cut to the low 90 and ties on Sunday and to 64 for the final 18 holes Monday.

Ike Williams Stops Gatica

Referee Halts Bout In Opening Round

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Lightweight Champion Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., dropped Jose Gatica, three times to stop the South Argentine swarmer in 2:09 of the first round tonight in a non-title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Williams weighed 140¼; Gatica 138.

Bidding his time while Gatica flurried madly in the first minute, Ike coldly dumped the 9 to 5 underdog for counts of three and six. When he went down a third time from a terrific right hand punch, Referee Ray Miller stopped it.

Blood cascaded from Gatica's nose like water from a fountain. Dazed and bewildered he obviously was in no condition to continue.

Yanks To Offer Joe Same Salary As '50

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio will be offered the same salary earned last year General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees said today.

Weiss declined to disclose the star outfielder's paycheck last year, but it is believed the Yankee Clipper was paid $100,000.

DiMaggio's work last season included a batting average of .301 in 139 games, a home run total of 32 and a 122 runs batted in figure. Not bad for a fellow who just celebrated his 36th birthday.

"DiMaggio will be mailed a contract some time next week. We don't expect any difficulty," Weiss said.

St. Mary's Gaels Drop Football, And Baseball For The Duration

Teams Gained Fame Under Slip Madigan

MORAGA, Cal., Jan. 5 (INS)—St. Mary's College announced today that it is giving up intercollegiate football and baseball because of the national emergency and the manpower needs of the armed forces.

The Gaels became the first major western school to take such action. The decision also marks the first time in 43 years St. Mary's has not been represented by a football team.

Officials said that only basketball will continue as a major intercollegiate sport for the duration of the national emergency.

This was announced today "with some reluctance" by the St. Mary's board of trustees. An official statement said:

"The action of the board followed a consideration of a prospective depletion in student enrollment consequent on selective service and voluntary enlistment in the armed forces . . ."

The announcement said that other factors also were involved in the decision, including:

". . . the financial loss entailed in maintaining a major athletic program and a growing difficulty of sustaining academic standards in the face of an inflated competition, particularly in football."

Once one of the nation's top collegiate teams under the mentorship of Edward P. ("Slip") Madigan, St. Mary's won only two games in 1950, losing six and scoring one tie.

During the past 10 years the Gaels have fielded some outstanding teams but never reached the heights of the years between 1921 and 1939, when Madigan and his Moraga Marauders achieved national fame.

St. Mary's uninterrupted record of fielding a grid team, which began in 1907, was maintained during the second world war, but the squads of those years consisted largely of navy pre-flight students.

PCC Bans Telecasts Of "Live" Grid Games

RIVERSIDE, Cal., (INS) — The Pacific Coast Conference, in an action which failed to come as a surprise because of the drop-off of football game attendances, banned the telecasting of "live" games during its next season.

The decision to institute the ban came as one of the last measures of business at the regular PCC meeting before the members adjourned to entrain for Dallas where the annual NCAA session will take place next Monday.

The action was taken as a result of information giving the officials yesterday which revealed that of the 30 games televised last year "21 fell below the estimates of receipts guaranteed by the television agreement and in 13 of the 21, the deficit exceeded the guaranteed percentage and resulted in uncompensated losses."

Indiana Negro Cage Star Is Honored

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (INS) — Bill Garrett, Indiana University basketball star, today was named on the fourth annual "Race Relations Honor Roll" chosen by the Negro publication, the Indianapolis Recorder.

The Recorder cited Garrett as the only negro basketball player in the Western Conference and said "his never-failing sportsmanship . . . has won the respect of fans without exception."

IDENTICAL RETURNS

DETROIT — Ron Horwath, University of Detroit, caught the opening kickoff in both halves of the game against Hillsdale and ran both back 96 yards for touchdowns.

Athletic teams visiting the University of Wyoming must wear dark jerseys. Wyoming wears white jerseys with gold numerals at home.

Ground Fog Wins Fourth Straight

Defeats Rock Span At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Grandview Stable's Ground Fog, a consistent gelding, continued on his winning ways today as he won the seventh and best race of the stakeless program at Tropical Park.

It was the gray horse's fourth straight victory, three at Tropical and one at Pimlico before invading the southland. Though compelled to race wide, Ground Fog came on with determination through the short stretch to nail J. J. Colando's Rock Span by a half length, covering one mile and a sixteenth on a fast track in 1.44. He paid $7.70 for $2.

Rock Span was made an even money favorite in the race, despite two unimpressive efforts earlier in the meeting. However, the presence of Joe Culmone in the saddle unquestionably influenced many in the crowd of 7,520.

Third in the seven-horse field was Double M Farm's Lambent, which had won his three previous starts over the track. Fourth was Equinox 2nd. Colonel Mike broke poorly and was eliminated from contention at once.

Rock Span was rushed to the front by Culmone and he showed the way to the sixteenth marker. There Ground Fog reached him then gradually asserted his superiority under Sammy Boulmetis.

Ground Fog is owned by Harry Massey, Pittsburgh auto dealer, who was present to see his gelding keep his slate clean.

Senior Bowl Game Is Set For Alabama

North Is Favored In Mobile Contest

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 5 (AP) — Two power-packed all star football teams square off here tomorrow afternoon in the second annual Senior Bowl Game a pro debut for the 54 competing college players.

With the game the hand-picked senior gridders kiss their amateur standings goodbye by accepting a healthy cut of the gate receipts. The winning squad pulls down 60 per cent of the players' pool.

The contest, played for the first time at Jacksonville, Fla., last year, gives the players a chance to strut their stuff before a host of pro football scouts.

All but two of the National Professional Football League teams are represented. Draft of college seniors comes up later this month.

Coaches Steve Owen and Alvin (Bo) McMillin ended pre-game practice with light drills today. Most of the time was devoted to ironing out minor flaws of their powerful offensive tactics.

Some 25,000 fans are almost sure to witness a high scoring battle. Both teams are loaded with good running backs and dangerous passing combinations.

Marlene Bauer Ties Babe Zaharias At 75

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. Jan. 5 (AP)—Babe and the baby of the women's golf tour shared the first round lead of the Ponte Vedra Club women's open here today.

Marlene Bauer, 17-year-old from Midland, Texas, had 41-34—75 Women's par is 37-36—73.

Patty Berg, Minneapolis' star golfing girl, shot 40-38—78 for third place on opening day of the 54-hole tournament that runs through Sunday.

Louise Suggs of Carrolton, Ga., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., each went around in 79.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEARN TO FACE TROUBLE

PROVING your courage in any phase of life, including such things as games, can be done most convincingly when you are up against a tough problem. The fine bridge player must know how to face trouble when he encounters it, including trouble which is largely of his own making. Probably more striking cases of that are found when a player is doubled in a difficult contract than in any other development in bridge.

	♠ 10 7 4 3 2 ♥ 5 3 2 ♦ J 8 4 2 ♣ 8
♠ A Q 8 ♥ 8 ♦ A K 10 6 ♣ A 9 7 6 2	N W E S	♠ K 6 5 ♥ A Q 9 6 ♦ Q 9 5 3 ♣ 4 3
	♠ J 9 ♥ K J 10 7 4 ♦ 7 ♣ K Q J 10 5

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Dbl

East passed that, with visions of a juicy penalty score against his vulnerable opponents. South was figuring on defending himself, in a post-mortem with his partner, for having opened with a hand such as his. With two five-card suits full of playing tricks, he considered his action sound in third position. But, when he saw those three trumps and the club singleton in dummy, he did not feel too badly at all.

West scored the diamond K and then led the A, which South ruffed with the heart 4. Deciding to make East waste some of his trumps on clubs, South led the K to the A. West returned the heart 8, which the A won and East chose another trump, the 6, which the 10 won. Now South scored the club Q and smartly led the club 5, ruffing it with the dummy's last heart, the 5, which East over-ruffed with the 9. Now East sacrificed his heart Q to the K.

The club J and 10 won, also the heart J to make South's seventh trick, giving him his doubled contract, and he willingly gave up spades for the last two tricks. The denouement proved a great victory compared to what could have happened, as the opponents could have made 3-No Trump with three tricks in spades, one in hearts, four in diamonds and one in clubs without even trying a finesse except in diamonds.

Your Weekend Question

If one of your opponents had made an informative or takeout double, when the only honors higher than tens out against you are the ace-king of one suit, the king-queen of another and the queen of a third, which defender are you going to consider is more likely to hold that queen if you have to finesse against it?

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

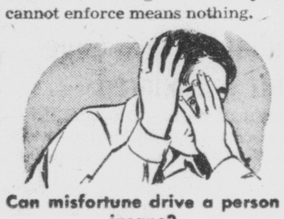
By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Will your children always love you?

Answer: Not because it is their "duty," even if you've made them feel that it is. For love cannot be based on a sense of obligation. They will truly love you after they have grown up in proportion as you are associated in their minds with pleasant feelings like security or sympathetic understanding. Remembering "all you have done for them" will not make them love you if your sacrifices did not help them to be happy—if they feel ashamed of having been a burden to you, they will unconsciously want to get as far away as they can.

Is demanding your rights the best way to get them?

Answer: That depends on whether you are in a position to punish the person on whom you make the demand, directly or indirectly. Because you could probably get a salesman or a waiter into trouble by reporting him to his superiors, demanding what you feel that you are entitled to from him may sometimes be the quickest way to get it. But if you are dealing with a person whom you have no power to punish, you are more apt to get fair treatment by persuasion than by "making a row." For a "right" which you cannot enforce means nothing.



Can misfortune drive a person insane?

Answer: Yes. There is a type of psychosis called "reactive depression" in which the person's "reaction" to bereavement or severe financial losses is not only intense unhappiness, but delusions, such as the belief that he has "committed the unpardonable sin." But this usually happens only in the case of someone who has had childish experiences of unkindness or "rejection," leaving him with less than normal confidence in himself or in life. Depressed patients need watching, but can be aided by psychiatric treatment.

Janowicz Flunks Out Of College

Vic Fails To Apply For Re-Admission

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5 (INS) — All-American Vic Janowicz, who passed everywhere except in school, failed to apply for re-admission to Ohio State today after being dropped from the institution because of poor grades.

Dean Walter C. Weidler of the College of Commerce said Janowicz was supposed to come in today and file an application for re-admission." Dean Weidler:

"He has not come in yet."

Janowicz said in Cleveland that he planned to return to Columbus and work during the winter quarter. He said he wanted to get back in school for the spring quarter which begins March 27.

The 20-year-old Heisman award winner as the nation's outstanding football player was in Cleveland last night to receive similar recognition from the city's Touchdown Club.

Janowicz explained that it was necessary for Ohio State to expel him because he failed in two subjects. He said:

"My overall average is 1.6 and I need a 1.7 out of a possible four to be eligible for athletics. I won't be able to play baseball this spring but I'm certain that I can make up my deficiency in time for the fall quarter."

Dr. Bland L. Stradley, vice president of Ohio State, said it was not the university's policy to publicly reveal a student's grades.

Janowicz has one more year of football competition remaining if he meets Ohio State's scholastic standards. He has the spring and summer quarters to do this.

Jockey John Gilbert Reported Improving

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 5 (INS) — Veteran jockey Johnny Gilbert was reported improving today at Huntington Memorial Hospital where he was taken after a spectacular crash in the sixth race at Santa Anita yesterday.

However, his condition was still described as "serious." Gilbert suffered a fractured cervical vertebrae in his spill from Spinaround.

Gilbert, now 36, won the 1932 jockey crown with 212 winners.

Firemen Request Increase In County Fund Allotment

Two executive board members of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday and requested an increase in the allotment of funds to the 19 fire companies in this county.

Joseph Wenrich, chairman, and William A. Wilson, member of the firemen's board, told the county commissioners that the increased cost of equipment has placed some of the fire companies in a tight spot financially. Almost every item used by the volunteer fire fighters has increased in cost, according to Wilson.

Civil Defense Problem

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, board president, told the two men the county is vitally interested in the welfare of the volunteer firemen, but he asked the two men to await developments of a civil defense program.

Lemmert said that he understands that under the civil defense program the federal and state governments would share with counties and municipalities the cost of new equipment. If this is true, Lemmert said, then the $200 requested for each of the 19 fire companies would not be necessary.

Wilson said that such a federal, state and county program would be a great help to the companies, which would form one of the most important links of the civil defense system, but he wanted the county board to approve legislation which could be used to obtain the $200 grant in the event other plans did not materialize.

Some Not Suited

Both Wilson and Wenrich said that the surplus equipment given to county volunteer fire companies during World War II for use in the civil defense program was of poor quality and not suited to the needs of most companies.

Commissioner Lemmert and Commissioner James Orr told the men the board must keep a close watch on expenditures as extra outlays of funds may be required by the county due to the national emergency.

The 19 fire companies in Allegany county receive a total of $13,275 from the county. Two years ago the county board gave the fire companies a $100 increase to each.

Art Houtteman Is Bothered By Old Head Injury

By BOB ZAIMAN

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) —"He shouldn't be in the army. I don't know how he passed the examination to get in," the 43rd division sergeant said.

(The sergeant, who didn't want his name used, was talking about Pvt. Art Houtteman, former Detroit pitching ace. Houtteman, a public relations officer at the camp disclosed today, has been bothered by an old head injury, and his case is subject to medical review.

(The officer added that Houtteman has undergone examinations at the station hospital, but that no decision has been made as yet.)

Houtteman, who was drafted three months ago, barely survived an automobile crash in Florida two years ago.

The pitcher-private has been reluctant to discuss head injuries suffered in the wreck which are affected by 81 millimeter mortars fired by his platoon, according to Corporal Donald Parsons of New Britain, Conn.

"Houtteman is a hard worker and a potential non-com, but those head injuries he got two years ago are bothering him. He went in to get some X-rays taken," Parsons said.

Ground Fog Wins Fourth Straight

Defeats Rock Span At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Grandview Stable's Ground Fog, a consistent gelding, continued on his winning ways today as he won the seventh and best race of the stakeless program at Tropical Park.

It was the gray horse's fourth straight victory, three at Tropical and one at Pimlico before invading the southland. Though compelled to race wide, Ground Fog came on with determination through the short stretch to nail J. J. Colando's Rock Span by a half length, covering one mile and a sixteenth on a fast track in 1.44. He paid $7.70 for $2.

Rock Span was made an even money favorite in the race, despite two unimpressive efforts earlier in the meeting. However, the presence of Joe Culmone in the saddle unquestionably influenced many in the crowd of 7,520.

Third in the seven-horse field was Double M Farm's Lambent, which had won his three previous starts over the track. Fourth was Equinox 2nd. Colonel Mike broke poorly and was eliminated from contention at once.

Rock Span was rushed to the front by Culmone and he showed the way to the sixteenth marker. There Ground Fog reached him then gradually asserted his superiority under Sammy Boulmetis.

Ground Fog is owned by Harry Massey, Pittsburgh auto dealer, who was present to see his gelding keep his slate clean.

North Is Favored In Mobile Contest

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 5 (AP) — Two power-packed all star football teams square off here tomorrow afternoon in the second annual Senior Bowl Game a pro debut for the 54 competing college players.

With the game the hand-picked senior gridders kiss their amateur standings goodbye by accepting a healthy cut of the gate receipts. The winning squad pulls down 60 per cent of the players' pool.

The contest, played for the first time at Jacksonville, Fla., last year, gives the players a chance to strut their stuff before a host of pro football scouts.

All but two of the National Professional Football League teams are represented. Draft of college seniors comes up later this month.

Coaches Steve Owen and Alvin (Bo) McMillin ended pre-game practice with light drills today. Most of the time was devoted to ironing out minor flaws of their powerful offensive tactics.

Some 25,000 fans are almost sure to witness a high scoring battle. Both teams are loaded with good running backs and dangerous passing combinations.

Marlene Bauer Ties Babe Zaharias At 75

Marlene Bauer, 17-year-old from Midland, Texas, had 41-34—75 Women's par is 37-36—73.

Patty Berg, Minneapolis' star golfing girl, shot 40-38—78 for third place on opening day of the 54-hole tournament that runs through Sunday.

Louise Suggs of Carrolton, Ga., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., each went around in 79.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

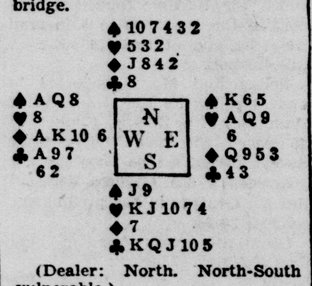
LEARN TO FACE TROUBLE

PROVING your courage in any phase of life, including such things as games, can be done most convincingly when you are up against a tough problem. The fine bridge player must know how to face trouble when he encounters it, including trouble which is largely of his own making. Probably more striking cases of that are found when a player is doubled in a difficult contract than in any other development in bridge.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Dbl

East passed that, with visions of a juicy penalty score against his vulnerable opponents. South was figuring on defending himself, in a post-mortem with his partner, for having opened with a hand such as his. With two five-card suits full of playing tricks, he considered his action sound in third position. But, when he saw those three trumps and the club singleton in dummy, he did not feel too badly at all.

West scored the diamond K and then led the A, which South ruffed with the heart 4. Deciding to make East waste some of his trumps on clubs, South led the K to the A. West returned the heart 8, which the A won and East chose another trump, the 6, which the 10 won. Now South scored the club Q and smartly led the club 5, ruffing it with the dummy's last heart, the 5, which East over-ruffed with the 9. Now East sacrificed his heart Q to the K.

The club J and 10 won, also the heart J to make South's seventh trick, giving him his doubled contract, and he willingly gave up spades for the last two tricks. The denouement proved a great victory compared to what could have happened, as the opponents could have made 3-No Trump with three tricks in spades, one in hearts, four in diamonds and one in clubs without even trying a finesse except in diamonds.

Your Weekend Question

If one of your opponents had made an informative or takeout double, when the only honors higher than tens out against you are the ace-king of one suit, the king-queen of another and the queen of a third, which defender are you going to consider is more likely to hold that queen if you have to finesse against it?

Janowicz Flunks Out Of College

Vic Fails To Apply For Re-Admission

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5 (INS) — All-American Vic Janowicz, who passed everywhere except in school, failed to apply for re-admission to Ohio State today after being dropped from the institution because of poor grades.

Dean Walter C. Weidler of the College of Commerce said Janowicz was supposed to come in today and file an application for re-admission." Dean Weidler:

"He has not come in yet."

Janowicz said in Cleveland that he planned to return to Columbus and work during the winter quarter. He said he wanted to get back in school for the spring quarter which begins March 27.

The 20-year-old Heisman award winner as the nation's outstanding football player was in Cleveland last night to receive similar recognition from the city's Touchdown Club.

Janowicz explained that it was necessary for Ohio State to expel him because he failed in two subjects. He said:

"My overall average is 1.6 and I need a 1.7 out of a possible four to be eligible for athletics. I won't be able to play baseball this spring but I'm certain that I can make up my deficiency in time for the fall quarter."

Dr. Bland L. Stradley, vice president of Ohio State, said it was not the university's policy to publicly reveal a student's grades.

Janowicz has one more year of football competition remaining if he meets Ohio State's scholastic standards. He has the spring and summer quarters to do this.

Firemen Request Increase In County Fund Allotment

Two executive board members of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday and requested an increase in the allotment of funds to the 19 fire companies in this county.

Joseph Wenrich, chairman, and William A. Wilson, member of the firemen's board, told the county commissioners that the increased cost of equipment has placed some of the fire companies in a tight spot financially. Almost every item used by the volunteer fire fighters has increased in cost, according to Wilson.

Civil Defense Problem

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, board president, told the two men the county is vitally interested in the welfare of the volunteer firemen, but he asked the two men to await developments of a civil defense program.

Lemmert said that he understands that under the civil defense program the federal and state governments would share with counties and municipalities the cost of new equipment. If this is true, Lemmert said, then the $200 requested for each of the 19 fire companies would not be necessary.

Wilson said that such a federal, state and county program would be a great help to the companies, which would form one of the most important links of the civil defense system, but he wanted the county board to approve legislation which could be used to obtain the $200 grant in the event other plans did not materialize.

Some Not Suited

Both Wilson and Wenrich said that the surplus equipment given to county volunteer fire companies during World War II for use in the civil defense program was of poor quality and not suited to the needs of most companies.

Commissioner Lemmert and Commissioner James Orr told the men the board must keep a close watch on expenditures as extra outlays of funds may be required by the county due to the national emergency.

The 19 fire companies in Allegany county receive a total of $13,275 from the county. Two years ago the county board gave the fire companies a $100 increase to each.

Art Houtteman Is Bothered By Old Head Injury

By BOB ZAIMAN

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) —"He shouldn't be in the army. I don't know how he passed the examination to get in," the 43rd division sergeant said.

(The sergeant, who didn't want his name used, was talking about Pvt. Art Houtteman, former Detroit pitching ace. Houtteman, a public relations officer at the camp disclosed today, has been bothered by an old head injury, and his case is subject to medical review.

(The officer added that Houtteman has undergone examinations at the station hospital, but that no decision has been made as yet.)

Houtteman, who was drafted three months ago, barely survived an automobile crash in Florida two years ago.

The pitcher-private has been reluctant to discuss head injuries suffered in the wreck which are affected by 81 millimeter mortars fired by his platoon, according to Corporal Donald Parsons of New Britain, Conn.

"Houtteman is a hard worker and a potential non-com, but those head injuries he got two years ago are bothering him. He went in to get some X-rays taken," Parsons said.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

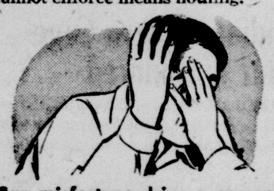
By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Will your children always love you?

Answer: Not because it is their "duty," even if you've made them feel that it is. For love cannot be based on a sense of obligation. They will truly love you after they have grown up in proportion as you are associated in their minds with pleasant feelings like security or sympathetic understanding. Remembering "all you have done for them" will not make them love you if your sacrifices did not help them to be happy—if they feel ashamed of having been a burden to you, they will unconsciously want to get as far away as they can.

Is demanding your rights the best way to get them?

Answer: That depends on whether you are in a position to punish the person on whom you make the demand, directly or indirectly. Because you could probably get a salesman or a waiter into trouble by reporting him to his superiors, demanding what you feel that you are entitled to from him may sometimes be the quickest way to get it. But if you are dealing with a person whom you have no power to punish, you are more apt to get fair treatment by persuasion than by "making a row." For a "right" which you cannot enforce means nothing.



Can misfortune drive a person insane?

Answer: Yes. There is a type of psychosis called "reactive depression" in which the person's "reaction" to bereavement or severe financial losses is not only intense unhappiness, but delusions, such as the belief that he has "committed the unpardonable sin." But this usually happens only in the case of someone who has had childish experiences of unkindness or "rejection," leaving him with less than normal confidence in himself or in life. Depressed patients need watching, but can be aided by psychiatric treatment.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Behaviouristic Approach

THE radio and television analysts are beginning to outnumber the performers. The big thing now is not what people are looking at or listening to but why they do it. I find this a dangerous trend. One of these psychologists one of these days is going to find out there is no clear reason for listening or looking. Everyone will turn the darn thing off and we'll all be out of jobs.

John Crosby

Some time ago I wrote about Dr. Ernest Dichter, a psychologist, who delved into the problem of day-time television and discovered that most of the homemakers, as they're now called, harbored deep feeling of guilt about day-time viewing. Should be at the dishes, they felt. The gist of Dr. Dichter's thesis—if I know a gist when I see one, which is doubtful—is that the females had to be conned into looking at TV under the impression they're being instructed rather than entertained. At the same time, the babes didn't really want to be instructed; they wanted to be entertained. The job, therefore, was to disguise entertainment as instruction which would banish the guilt feelings and everyone, especially the sponsor, would be happy.

• — • — •

This column brought an immediate retort from William A. Yoell who is also in the consumer motivation dodge. "Our approaches (his and Dichter's) are quite different—he, taking the Freudian approach, I, the behaviouristic one." The gist of the behaviouristic approach—or the pith, if you're tired of all this gist—is that women not only will but must look at television in the day-time, simply because after a lot of household chores the girls damn well feel they deserve a bit of "Okay, Mother."

• — • — •

"The interruption was a reward for accomplishment," says Mr. Yoell. The only time women sit down and listen to the radio or look at television or read (Read! You mean books?) is after performing a difficult task. The more difficult the task, the more television-viewing, Mr. Yoell discovers—the girls feeling entitled to it. Well, of course, that simplifies the problem far more than the Freudian approach, which, as I recall only intensified it. The only thing for a sponsor to do now is to make women's work much more arduous. Get rid of the washing machines and get back to selling the good old-fashioned washboard.

• — • — •

After bending over a washboard all morning, mama will feel entitled to a whole afternoon of television. Get rid of the refrigerator and let mama lug in the ice. Then she won't be sitting around feeling guilty all the time, while the refrigerator is doing all her work, making little ice cubes when she should be doing it herself. The central fact about both the behaviouristic and the Freudian approaches to this vital problem is that day-time television viewing is essentially compulsive, a matter of conditioned reflex rather than of judgment or will.

I don't know how the women will take to either theory. It turns them into a set of Pavlo dogs, acting exactly alike on any set of stimuli, thoughtfully pre-arranged by the sponsor. It has always been my theory, unsupported by scientific measurement, that women's actions are as unpredictable as the Kremlin's. Given the same set of stimuli—let us say, the late hour at which I get home—my wife has responded variously in about 25 different ways, each of which could be considered a classic example of behaviourism and not one of which remotely resembles any other. Depends on how she feels, Mr. Yoell, and if you can chart her feelings at any given moment, either before or after an arduous task, you're a more advanced student of womanhood than I am.

None of this monumental research puts women in a very flattering light. In the first of a series of psychological studies on the impact of television, Social Research, Inc., explains Kate Smith's success in part with the explanation that "she's just plain, fat Kate Smith... To the woman with vague worries about her own physical attractiveness and the possibility that her husband may succumb to the seductiveness of a more glamorous woman, the very appearance of Kate Smith is a reassurance. The success of Kate Smith in spite of her lack of glamour is heartening evidence to the individual housewife that all is not lost to the amoral beauties, Hollywood type."

This implies that a good part of the feminine audience is gripped by a feeling of physical inadequacy to such a degree that they must look at someone even less adequate for reassurance. I think Social Research, Inc. has out-thought itself here. Lots of women turn on radio or television on the strength of unfathomable whims which are difficult to chart either by psychologist or husband. By the time you finish figuring out why a woman seems drawn to a particular entertainer, Social Research, Inc., you'll find she's got sick of him and is lavishing her affections on another man entirely and by the time you finish figuring out that one . . . well, you'll never catch up.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K, EDFR, DQ EDFHOB WKXOL, WTF LIBDFA PO QTB POSDFR?—LSOZZOU.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: FELL AS HE WAS IN ACT AND MIND, HE LEFT NO BOLDER HEART BEHIND—SCOTT.

Trends Conflict In Market But Overall Average Higher

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Despite a whip-saw of conflicting trends, the stock market today managed to maintain a slight edge on the higher side.

Selling pressure mounted steadily and reached its peak in the final hour, but the drive didn't have enough steam behind it to push prices to the losing side on average.

To show the margin of gain, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 10 cents and moved up to $90.00, a new 1950-51 high and the best level in more than 20 years. That is the third time in four markets this week that a new high has been established.

Volume amounted to 3,390,000 shares, same as Thursday.

A good illustration of the small margin between the plus and minus character of the market is the first three most active issues. They were Baltimore & Ohio up ⅛ at 20⅝, U. S. Steel off ⅛ at 44⅝, and Pennsylvania Railroad unchanged at 24⅝.

General Motors in fourth place was up ⅛ at 47¼, and Packard was fifth up ¼, at 4¾.

Among the better performers were Bethlehem Steel up ⅞ at 53¾, Chrysler 1¾ at 72¾, Goodrich 2½ at 128½, Montgomery Ward ¼ at 66½, American Power & Light 1⅝ at 18¼, Western Union ⅜ at 40¾ (on a sharply higher earnings report) American Smelting ⅝ at 76⅜, Dow Chemical 2 at 81½, U. S. Lines 1⅛ at 18⅞ (seventh most active), and American Export Lines 1¼ at 20⅛.

Trends Conflict In Market But Overall Average Higher

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Despite a whip-saw of conflicting trends, the stock market today managed to maintain a slight edge on the higher side.

Selling pressure mounted steadily and reached its peak in the final hour, but the drive didn't have enough steam behind it to push prices to the losing side on average.

To show the margin of gain, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 10 cents and moved up to $90.00, a new 1950-51 high and the best level in more than 20 years. That is the third time in four markets this week that a new high has been established.

Volume amounted to 3,390,000 shares, same as Thursday.

A good illustration of the small margin between the plus and minus character of the market is the first three most active issues. They were Baltimore & Ohio up ⅛ at 20⅝, U. S. Steel off ⅛ at 44⅝, and Pennsylvania Railroad unchanged at 24⅝.

General Motors in fourth place was up ⅛ at 47¼, and Packard was fifth up ¼, at 4⅜.

Among the better performers were Bethlehem Steel up ⅞ at 53⅜, Chrysler 1¾ at 72¾, Goodrich 2½ at 128½, Montgomery Ward ¼ at 66½, American Power & Light 1⅝ at 18¼, Western Union ⅜ at 40¾ (on a sharply higher earnings report) American Smelting ⅝ at 76⅜, Dow Chemical 2 at 81½, U. S. Lines 1⅛ at 18⅞ (seventh most active), and American Export Lines 1¼ at 20⅛.

City Offers Six-Point Plan To Legislators Including Home Rule For Cumberland

Cobey Outlines Program At Joint Session Of County Delegation, Mayor And Council

The Mayor and City Council last night presented a six point program, including home rule for Cumberland, for consideration of the Allegany County Delegation.

The agenda of legislation the city expects to ask the legislators to consider was presented at an informal meeting in City Hall with Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, presiding.

The city legislative program was presented by W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor.

Home rule, either statutory or constitutional, will be one of the objectives, Cobey said.

He added that in view of the question of whether or not a constitutional convention will be held, the city was inclined to favor a constitutional amendment which would give the city home rule even if the convention failed to materialize.

Delegate Noel Speir Cook commented that constitutional home rule seemed the best solution since statutory home rule has not been generally satisfactory.

Cobey Outlines Idea

Delegate Horace B. Whitworth, Jr., inquired just how much power the city would have under such a measure.

Cobey explained that definite limitations would of course be included since municipalities may not infringe upon the power of the state.

Home rule, Cobey said, merely provides that, within the limitations of the act, the city would go to the people, rather than the legislature, for any changes in its rules.

In purely local matters, he said, the people would have charge of their destinies.

Cobey said the Mayor and Council believe the majority of the people of the city are in favor of home rule.

People Would Decide

In answer to a question on the subject of a city manager, it was pointed out that such a move could be made only after a vote of the citizens.

The people, it was explained would vote on the basic laws and make any necessary changes by referendum vote, with the Mayor and Council remaining an administrative body.

City officials, it was emphasized, would not gain any powers under such legislation, but the power to change laws here would go to the people instead of the present system, in which the city must go to the legislature for such changes.

Bench Warrants Served On Three Indicted Men

All Are Confined In County Jail

Bench warrants have been served on three men, all now confined to the Allegany County jail, who were indicted this week by the grand jury on various charges.

The grand jury has returned 21 indictments but warrants have been served on only the three men.

Arch Taylor, 61, 106 North Mechanic Street, was indicted on a charge of statutory burglary in the theft of $40 November 21 from the storeroom of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 176, I.B.P.O.E. of W., located at 142 Harrison Street.

He was arrested two days after the burglary and admitted to Detective E. M. Powell that he broke into a vault and stole the money after becoming enraged at other members of the Negro Elks lodge.

David F. Winebrenner, Vale Summit, was indicted by the grand jury this week on a charge of assault with intent to rob Mrs. Lillian Myers, Eckhart. Mrs. Myers reported to police that while she was walking down Barn Hill December 11 a man took her change purse after threatening to shoot her. The indictment charged that Winebrenner "with force and arms did unlawfully make an assault upon Lillian Myers and did then and there feloniously and violently attempt to rob and steal" her belongings.

The third man, Welba E. Casteel, Keyser, W. Va., was indicted on two charges of obtaining money under false pretenses by means of fraudulent checks. In one indictment he was charged with obtaining $40.50 from James Fitzpatrick, operator of a service station near Dawson, by means of a fraudulent check drawn on the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser. In the second indictment he was charged with obtaining $25 from W. B. Schindler, operator of The Hub, 19 North Centre Street, through a fraudulent check drawn on the First National Bank of Cumberland. The first offense was alleged to have occurred December 9 and the second December 12.

Jackson, Moderator of the Baltimore Presbytery, who presided at the service. Standing, left to right, are Rev. Daniel B. Parking, Sewage Listed Among City's Problems

Delegates Informed On Area Problems

Power to establish a municipal parking area and to construct a sewage disposal plant for this city is included in the legislation the city will request of the Allegany County delegation in the General Assembly.

Informal discussion on the proposed enabling acts was held last night at a meeting of the County Delegation with the Mayor and City Council.

The city will ask for the power to set up, by purchase or lease, a municipal parking area.

W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, said the city is not anxious to set up such parking facilities, but only wants the power to do so if such action were found necessary.

Self-Liquidating Profit

He pointed out that if such a project were adopted, the plan would be strictly self-liquidating and would have to be a "good business venture" before funds could be raised.

Sewage disposal plans would also call for an enabling act.

The State of Maryland, Cobey said, has directed the city, as well as the Celanese plant and Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, to take immediate steps to abate pollution in the Potomac River.

The city has applied to the government for a loan for financing plans and has been offered an advance for the preparation of such plans.

Kimble Mentions Loan Bill

The bill would allow the city to proceed with the erection of a sewage disposal plant, financed by revenue bonds to be repaid by service charges.

Senator Robert B. Kimble pointed out that a Senate bill is being prepared which would set up a fund of $50,000,000 to be loaned on a long term basis for such work.

All members of the delegation pointed out that such a bill would be of great help in thel ocal situation.

Legislators raised the question of whether such work would be classed as essential.

Grand Jury Recommends Many Improvements To County Buildings And Institutions

Council To Seek Referendum For Daylight Time

Kimble Says City Ignored Local Poll

The Mayor and Council last night told the Allegany County Delegation that it will ask for legislation providing a referendum vote on Daylight Savings Time in the next city election.

Officials pointed out that the suggestion calls for the vote to be taken at the "next election" and does not require the cost of a special election.

The city now has an ordinance on its books, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz commented, which calls for Daylight Savings Time.

Senator Robert B. Kimble threw a bombshell into the informal discussion when he disclosed that he will introduce, at next Monday or Tuesday's session, a bill which provides that the Mayor and Council of Cumberland shall not change Eastern Standard Time until the subject is taken to the people of the city.

In effect, the bill would prohibit DST here until a referendum vote were taken.

Commissioner Buchholtz, who had advocated such a fast time referendum when the subject was in hot dispute several years ago, disagreed sharply with Senator Kimble on the effect of his bill, saying it would make it mandatory for Cumberland to stay on EST even if the area were to adopt fast time.

The senator deplored the action of the city in overruling a Junior Association of Commerce poll on Daylight Savings Time here and said the people should have a chance to vote on the controversial issue.

Court Says Action Will Be Checked

Recommendations that certain repairs and improvements be made in various county buildings including the Court House, the County Jail and the County Infirmary were featured in a nine-page report submitted yesterday by the Allegany County Court grand jury which has been in session for four days this week.

Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris, who received the grand jury's report, suggested that the county commissioners be informed of the report. The judges also recommended that a copy of this report be given to the April grand jury so that a check might abe made to see what improvements have been made in the three months.

The grand jury also reported that in its four-day session it examined 64 witnesses and returned 21 indictments.

County Infirmary Repairs

In the section of the report concerning the County Infirmary, seven recommendations were made. These included (1) tiling should be applied to the walls and floors of three utility rooms, (2) corridor walls should be protected with four-foot wainscot of tile or some hard fibre board, (3) an enclosure should be made for at least part of the sundeck, (4) new equipment should be purchased for the kitchen, (5) the secretary to the superintendent receive a salary comparable to that of a registered nurse and kitchen workers should get salary increases, (6) canned goods should be purchased in institution-size cans and (7) a heavy metal screen should be installed on the outside of the juvenile detention room windows.

The report notes that a committee from the grand jury inspected the County Infirmary and found 92 patients and 63 employes. The employes include a superintendent, his secretary, supervisor of nurses, four registered nurses, five orderlies, 32 practical nurses, one laundry foreman, one head cook, one second cook, four kitchen workers, six laundry workers, four tray girls and one janitor.

"As to the general condition of the Infirmary, good sanitation was throughout and a diligent inspection of all sections of the building found nothing for your committee cleanliness, good order of the building, staff or inmates," the report added.

Want Jail Painted

Concerning the County Jail, the grand jury recommended that it be repainted inside and out.

The report read:

"The grand jury in a body visited the Allegany County Jail and found 17 male prisoners. The condition of the jail is clean, orderly and apparently well managed. However, we recommend that the ventilator tanks in the cell block should be replaced and we further call attention to the rear wall of the jail, which is sagging and somewhat loose at the top. A dining room should be provided in the rear of the Jail and over this room a combined storage room and room for mattress sterilization purposes could be provided ... We commend Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies for the excellent manner in which this institution is governed, and also for its maintenance in view of its age."

A number of suggestions also were advanced by the grand jury concerning the Allegany County Court House.

The report noted that the woodwork on the outside is badly in need of paint and caulking is needed along the panes of most of the windows.

Court House Repairs

Additional observations were made concerning the Court House and its condition. In this section the report read in part:

"The paint on the ceilings on the third floor is in bad condition and is peeling and in other parts of the building the plaster has fallen. These conditions are hazardous in such instances to the occupants of the offices and rooms and are particularly bad in the men's rest room on the third floor and also in the 4-H Club room. We have been advised that fire hose and extinguishers are inspected at regular intervals but upon examination found them to be dusty, which indicates otherwise. . . Considerable dust is on the walls and ceiling of the basement corridors and it is recommended that this condition be im-

Oil Well Diggers Discover Gas Deposit Near New Paris

Wild Cat Test Blows In At 9,000 Feet

Profound interest is being evidenced in the striking of natural gas in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, about a mile from New Paris and about 12 miles from Bedford, despite a cloak of secrecy that is enveloping the project.

According to reliable informants, the South Penn Oil Company struck a heavy pocket of natural gas, Tuesday afternoon, at a depth of about 9,000 feet, at a "wild cat" well they started 26 months ago. The company was and is prospecting for oil, believed to be obtainable at a considerable depth in the area.

The gas has been "running wild," residents of the area claim, and crews have been making an effort to trap it or seal it off. The odor of sulphur dioxide accompanying the escaping gas could be detected yesterday over a wide area from Fishertown to Schellsburg, a distance of almost 10 miles.

The well, the first to come in anywhere in this section of Pennsylvania, has caused many people to believe other companies may attempt similar diggings, and will encourage South Penn to continue its operations.

The South Penn Company has reportedly spent upwards of $200,000 on this particular operation. The company has also acquired over a period of years, oil and gas leases on about one-third of the potential oil and gas country in Bedford County, records indicate.

Thomas Coyle, of Schellsburg, is drill foreman in charge of the operations on Chestnut Ridge, and Richard Ellicker of Pittsburgh, Pa., is the geologist in charge of drilling and location.

This week, the company's chief geologist, R. D. Rogers, of Parkersburg, W. Va., arrived at the scene and almost immediately a cloak of secrecy was clamped down over the project.

Railroads Prepared For Defense, Official Says

B. White of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has declared that the railroads are better prepared than ever before to support the national defense effort.

In a New Year's message to B & O employees, Colonel White said that "the railroads have invested more money since the war in increasing their capacity and efficiency than in any comparable period. They are prepared as never before to support the national defense effort."

Formation Of Scout Troop Planned At Kelly Plant

In the interest of forming a new Boy Scout Troop in Cumberland District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, a meeting will be held next Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the conference room of the employment building at the local plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

F. T. Bell, Kelly personnel manager, said all parents who have boys eligible for membership in the Boy Scouts are invited to attend.

Plans were made for this meeting at a session last night of Bell, Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council executive, and George W. Sellers, Cumberland District chairman.

Smith gave a brief talk on the advantages of Scouting and said that it makes good citizens of boys, gives them leadership training and gives them means for recreation during their childhood years.

The new troop will not be limited to sons of Kelly employes. Bell emphasized that any boy may join.

If sufficient interest is shown, Bell said the Kelly firm will take steps to furnish necessary equipment, quarters, and leaders. With the addition of this troop, Cumberland District will have 18 Boy Scout units. The new one will be the only one sponsored by an industry.

City Offers Six-Point Plan To Legislators Including Home Rule For Cumberland

Cobey Outlines Program At Joint Session Of County Delegation, Mayor And Council

The Mayor and City Council last night presented a six point program, including home rule for Cumberland, for consideration of the Allegany County Delegation.

The agenda of legislation the city expects to ask the legislators to consider was presented at an informal meeting in City Hall with Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, presiding.

The city legislative program was presented by W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor.

Home rule, either statutory or constitutional, will be one of the objectives, Cobey said.

He added that in view of the question of whether or not a constitutional convention will be held, the city was inclined to favor a constitutional amendment which would give the city home rule even if the convention failed to materialize.

Delegate Noel Speir Cook commented that constitutional home rule seemed the best solution since statutory home rule has not been generally satisfactory.

Cobey Outlines Idea

Delegate Horace B. Whitworth, Jr., inquired just how much power the city would have under such a measure.

Cobey explained that definite limitations would of course be included since municipalities may not infringe upon the power of the state.

Home rule, Cobey said, merely provides that, within the limitations of the act, the city would go to the people, rather than the legislature, for any changes in its rules.

In purely local matters, he said, the people would have charge of their destinies.

Cobey said the Mayor and Council believe the majority of the people of the city are in favor of home rule.

People Would Decide

In answer to a question on the subject of a city manager, it was pointed out that such a move could be made only after a vote of the citizens.

The people, it was explained would vote on the basic laws and make any necessary changes by referendum vote, with the Mayor and Council remaining an administrative body.

City officials, it was emphasized, would not gain any powers under such legislation, but the power to change laws here would go to the people instead of the present system, in which the city must go to the legislature for such changes.

Bench Warrants Served On Three Indicted Men

All Are Confined In County Jail

Bench warrants have been served on three men, all now confined to the Allegany County jail, who were indicted this week by the grand jury on various charges.

The grand jury has returned 21 indictments but warrants have been served on only the three men.

Arch Taylor, 61, 106 North Mechanic Street, was indicted on a charge of statutory burglary in the theft of $40 November 21 from the storeroom of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 176, I.B.P.O.E. of W., located at 142 Harrison Street.

He was arrested two days after the burglary and admitted to Detective E. M. Powell that he broke into a vault and stole the money after becoming enraged at other members of the Negro Elks lodge.

David F. Winebrenner, Vale Summit, was indicted by the grand jury this week on a charge of assault with intent to rob Mrs. Lillian Myers, Eckhart. Mrs. Myers reported to police that while she was walking down Barn Hill December 11 a man took her change purse after threatening to shoot her. The indictment charged that Winebrenner "with force and arms did unlawfully make an assault upon Lillian Myers and did then and there feloniously and violently attempt to rob and steal" her belongings.

The third man, Welba E. Casteel, Keyser, W. Va., was indicted on two charges of obtaining money under false pretenses by means of fraudulent checks. In one indictment he was charged with obtaining $40.50 from James Fitzpatrick, operator of a service station near Dawson, by means of a fraudulent check drawn on the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser. In the second indictment he was charged with obtaining $25 from W. B. Schindler, operator of The Hub, 19 North Centre Street, through a fraudulent check drawn on the First National Bank of Cumberland. The first offense was alleged to have occurred December 9 and the second December 12.

Parking, Sewage Listed Among City's Problems

Delegates Informed On Area Problems

Power to establish a municipal parking area and to construct a sewage disposal plant for this city is included in the legislation the city will request of the Allegany County delegation in the General Assembly.

Informal discussion on the proposed enabling acts was held last night at a meeting of the County Delegation with the Mayor and City Council.

The city will ask for the power to set up, by purchase or lease, a municipal parking area.

W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, said the city is not anxious to set up such parking facilities, but only wants the power to do so if such action were found necessary.

Self-Liquidating Profit

He pointed out that if such a project were adopted, the plan would be strictly self-liquidating and would have to be a "good business venture" before funds could be raised.

Sewage disposal plans would also call for an enabling act.

The State of Maryland, Cobey said, has directed the city, as well as the Celanese plant and Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, to take immediate steps to abate pollution in the Potomac River.

The city has applied to the government for a loan for financing plans and has been offered an advance for the preparation of such plans.

Kimble Mentions Loan Bill

The bill would allow the city to proceed with the erection of a sewage disposal plant, financed by revenue bonds to be repaid by service charges.

Senator Robert B. Kimble pointed out that a Senate bill is being prepared which would set up a fund of $50,000,000 to be loaned on a long term basis for such work.

All members of the delegation pointed out that such a bill would be of great help in thel ocal situation.

Legislators raised the question of whether such work would be classed as essential.

Court Says Action Will Be Checked

Recommendations that certain repairs and improvements be made in various county buildings including the Court House, the County Jail and the County Infirmary were featured in a nine-page report submitted yesterday by the Allegany County Court grand jury which has been in session for four days this week.

Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris, who received the grand jury's report, suggested that the county commissioners be informed of the report. The judges also recommended that a copy of this report be given to the April grand jury so that a check might abe made to see what improvements have been made in the three months.

The grand jury also reported that in its four-day session it examined 64 witnesses and returned 21 indictments.

County Infirmary Repairs

In the section of the report concerning the County Infirmary, seven recommendations were made. These included (1) tiling should be applied to the walls and floors of three utility rooms, (2) corridor walls should be protected with four-foot wainscot of tile or some hard fibre board, (3) an enclosure should be made for at least part of the sundeck, (4) new equipment should be purchased for the kitchen, (5) the secretary to the superintendent receive a salary comparable to that of a registered nurse and kitchen workers should get salary increases, (6) canned goods should be purchased in institution-size cans and (7) a heavy metal screen should be installed on the outside of the juvenile detention room windows.

The report notes that a committee from the grand jury inspected the County Infirmary and found 92 patients and 63 employes. The employes include a superintendent, his secretary, supervisor of nurses, four registered nurses, five orderlies, 32 practical nurses, one laundry foreman, one head cook, one second cook, four kitchen workers, six laundry workers, four tray girls and one janitor.

"As to the general condition of the Infirmary, good sanitation was throughout and a diligent inspection of all sections of the building found nothing for your committee cleanliness, good order of the building, staff or inmates," the report added.

Want Jail Painted

Concerning the County Jail, the grand jury recommended that it be repainted inside and out.

The report read:

"The grand jury in a body visited the Allegany County Jail and found 17 male prisoners. The condition of the jail is clean, orderly and apparently well managed. However, we recommend that the ventilator tanks in the cell block should be replaced and we further call attention to the rear wall of the jail, which is sagging and somewhat loose at the top. A dining room should be provided in the rear of the Jail and over this room a combined storage room and room for mattress sterilization purposes could be provided ... We commend Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies for the excellent manner in which this institution is governed, and also for its maintenance in view of its age."

A number of suggestions also were advanced by the grand jury concerning the Allegany County Court House.

The report noted that the woodwork on the outside is badly in need of paint and caulking is needed along the panes of most of the windows.

Court House Repairs

Additional observations were made concerning the Court House and its condition. In this section the report read in part:

"The paint on the ceilings on the third floor is in bad condition and is peeling and in other parts of the building the plaster has fallen. These conditions are hazardous in such instances to the occupants of the offices and rooms and are particularly bad in the men's rest room on the third floor and also in the 4-H Club room. We have been advised that fire hose and extinguishers are inspected at regular intervals but upon examination found them to be dusty, which indicates otherwise. . . Considerable dust is on the walls and ceiling of the basement corridors and it is recommended that this condition be im-

Council To Seek Referendum For Daylight Time

Kimble Says City Ignored Local Poll

The Mayor and Council last night told the Allegany County Delegation that it will ask for legislation providing a referendum vote on Daylight Savings Time in the next city election.

Officials pointed out that the suggestion calls for the vote to be taken at the "next election" and does not require the cost of a special election.

The city now has an ordinance on its books, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz commented, which calls for Daylight Savings Time.

Senator Robert B. Kimble threw a bombshell into the informal discussion when he disclosed that he will introduce, at next Monday or Tuesday's session, a bill which provides that the Mayor and Council of Cumberland shall not change Eastern Standard Time until the subject is taken to the people of the city.

In effect, the bill would prohibit DST here until a referendum vote were taken.

Commissioner Buchholtz, who had advocated such a fast time referendum when the subject was in hot dispute several years ago, disagreed sharply with Senator Kimble on the effect of his bill, saying it would make it mandatory for Cumberland to stay on EST even if the area were to adopt fast time.

The senator deplored the action of the city in overruling a Junior Association of Commerce poll on Daylight Savings Time here and said the people should have a chance to vote on the controversial issue.

New Automobile License Plate Color Toned Down

Annual blossoming of new license plate color combinations along American highways will be considerably toned down in 1951, the American Automobile Association has reported in its annual review of car tag hues for the year ahead.

Oil Well Diggers Discover Gas Deposit Near New Paris

Wild Cat Test Blows In At 9,000 Feet

Profound interest is being evidenced in the striking of natural gas in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, about a mile from New Paris and about 12 miles from Bedford, despite a cloak of secrecy that is enveloping the project.

According to reliable informants, the South Penn Oil Company struck a heavy pocket of natural gas, Tuesday afternoon, at a depth of about 9,000 feet, at a "wild cat" well they started 26 months ago. The company was and is prospecting for oil, believed to be obtainable at a considerable depth in the area.

The gas has been "running wild," residents of the area claim, and crews have been making an effort to trap it or seal it off. The odor of sulphur dioxide accompanying the escaping gas could be detected yesterday over a wide area from Fishertown to Schellsburg, a distance of almost 10 miles.

The well, the first to come in anywhere in this section of Pennsylvania, has caused many people to believe other companies may attempt similar diggings, and will encourage South Penn to continue its operations.

The South Penn Company has reportedly spent upwards of $200,000 on this particular operation. The company has also acquired over a period of years, oil and gas leases on about one-third of the potential oil and gas country in Bedford County, records indicate.

Thomas Coyle, of Schellsburg, is drill foreman in charge of the operations on Chestnut Ridge, and Richard Ellicker of Pittsburgh, Pa., is the geologist in charge of drilling and location.

This week, the company's chief geologist, R. D. Rogers, of Parkersburg, W. Va., arrived at the scene and almost immediately a cloak of secrecy was clamped down over the project.

Railroads Prepared For Defense, Official Says

Recalling that the American railroads proved their basic importance in national defense by carrying 70 percent of war freight and 97 percent of the organized troop movements during World War II, President R. B. White of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has declared that the railroads are better prepared than ever before to support the national defense effort.

In a New Year's message to B & O employees, Colonel White said that "the railroads have invested more money since the war in increasing their capacity and efficiency than in any comparable period. They are prepared as never before to support the national defense effort."

The agreements also provide that unused sick leave will be paid in cash.

He left Cumberland in July, 1950, with the reserve unit, Company D, U. S. Marine Corps. Since then he has enlisted in the regular Marine Corps for a period of three years. Pfc. Craze graduated from Fort Hill High School and was a member of the football team for three seasons.

Formation Of Scout Troop Planned At Kelly Plant

In the interest of forming a new Boy Scout Troop in Cumberland District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, a meeting will be held next Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the conference room of the employment building at the local plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

F. T. Bell, Kelly personnel manager, said all parents who have boys eligible for membership in the Boy Scouts are invited to attend.

Plans were made for this meeting at a session last night of Bell, Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council executive, and George W. Sellers, Cumberland District chairman.

Smith gave a brief talk on the advantages of Scouting and said that it makes good citizens of boys, gives them leadership training and gives them means for recreation during their childhood years.

The new troop will not be limited to sons of Kelly employes. Bell emphasized that any boy may join.

If sufficient interest is shown, Bell said the Kelly firm will take steps to furnish necessary equipment, quarters, and leaders. With the addition of this troop, Cumberland District will have 18 Boy Scout units. The new one will be the only one sponsored by an industry.

REDS PUSH DRIVE TO TRAP ALLIES

Taft Says Truman 'Usurps' Authority

Senator Raps Plan To Send Gls To Europe

Calls For Buildup Of Air-Sea Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) today sharply disputed President Truman's claimed authority to send American troops to Europe without consulting Congress, and called for a vast buildup of air-sea power "which cannot be challenged by Russia."

In a broad affirmative declaration of policy, Taft told the Senate that "our battle against Communism is in fact a world-wide battle and must be fought on the world stage," but he cautioned:

"We must not assume obligations by treaty or otherwise which require any extensive use of American land forces."

Throughout his two-hour speech, Taft carefully balanced a plea against large-scale involvement of American soldiers overseas along with the contention that such a policy would not mean abandoning the rest of the world.

"The greatest question of policy before the country and before this Congress relates to our undertaking in Europe," he said.

"Under the general principles I have laid down, I would say that we had better commit no American troops to the European continent at this time."

Would Aid Chiang

Taft modified that statement to allow for U. S. occupation troops now in Europe, and for "certain promises" under the Atlantic pact which he did not describe.

As for the global defense, Taft said:

"The very thesis of an effective control of sea and air by the free nations requires that we do interest ourselves in Europe and the Near East and India and the Far East, so that Communist influence may not extend to areas from which it is still possible to exclude it by many methods other than land armies."

Specifically, the Senate GOP policy leader proposed:

1. An alliance of the United States with Britain, France, Holland, Australia and Canada to develop an all-powerful sea-air weapon.

2. Support for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Nationalist forces, now based on Formosa, with arms and "other assistance" to enable him to "contest with the Chinese Communists in China itself."

3. Concerning Korea—

"I do not know enough about the military situation to know whether we can maintain our position in Korea, but certainly we should not jeopardize our army there to the extent of risking its destruction. It is far better to fall back to a defensible position in Japan and Formosa than to maintain a Korean position which would surely be indefensible in any third world war."

U. S. "Butting In" In Europe

He cautioned that neither Napoleon nor Hitler was able to defeat Russia with greater forces than the projected million-man Allied army of Western Europe, and declared his belief that the United States is making a mistake "butting in" in Europe.

Taft's biting criticism of present U. S. policy immediately touched off a lively debate. Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said Taft keyed his speech to an assumption "not borne out by any facts revealed to me" that U. S. military leaders are planning "to raise an army of American boys to defend a Europe not willing to defend itself."

Taft said there are "no divisions to send now" and the problem won't arise for some time, but he declared:

"It's a startling thing to find ourselves getting ready to send millions of troops to Europe without any approval by the nation."

America's Only All-Male Quads Enter Army

Stopgap Order May Be Issued Early In Week

Food Prices Advance To Near Record High

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Government officials today whipped up a proposed stop-gap order designed to freeze most living costs at least 30 days while they rush preparations for general price and wage controls.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, who is concerned especially over rising food prices, was reported about ready to require manufacturers, processors, wholesalers, and retailers to give a 30-day notice before raising prices.

But no final decision had been made, and conceivably a hitch could develop on a higher policy level. If not, the order may be issued early next week.

After a period of rumors and confusion, officials confirmed that the 30-day price order is being considered.

DiSalle Issues Statement

Following a period of rumors about a 30-day price freeze, DiSalle issued this statement:

"This proposal, along with several others, is being considered. No decision has been made."

Under the Defense Production Act, such an order would have to be accompanied by wage controls—though not necessarily at the same moment. The Wage Stabilization Board is working on a wage control recommendation.

The proposed price order presumably would not be directed at farm prices, since the Defense Production Act puts obstacles in the way of farm price ceilings. But food prices would be affected because retailers, wholesalers, and processing plants would be included in the 30-day requirement.

Food Prices Near Record

Only today, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that retail food prices had risen to near record levels on Dec. 15.

On the basis of a survey of 50 foods in eight large cities, the bureau said retail prices rose 1.2 per cent between Nov. 28 and Dec. 15, and on that date stood at 216.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average. The all time high was 216.8 in July 1948.

The bureau said food prices rose 5.7 per cent since June 15, just before the Korean outbreak.

U. N. Bars Movie Reds Say Shows Yank Atrocities

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 5(AP)—The United Nations refused tonight to view a film allegedly showing American atrocities against Korean civilians. In doing so it reversed an earlier decision to look at the picture next Monday morning.

Alexis Kyrou of Greece led the fight against showing the film, supported by Charles Malik of Lebanon.

They argued in the 60-nation Political Committee that since the United States was engaged in an "enforcement action" against the North Koreans it had no business to view what they called a North Korean propaganda movie.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik had insisted that the picture be shown and the committee had agreed at first.

Austin Asks U. N. To Stand Firm Against Chinese

Must Show Its Will To Fight Aggression

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 5 (AP)—American Delegate Warren R. Austin today called on the free world to stand firm against Chinese aggression in Korea. He spoke as signs arose that the British commonwealth countries and other nations are refusing to accept an American proposal to condemn Red China as an aggressor.

High diplomatic sources at the United Nations said that the United States is fighting a strong battle behind the scenes to show some countries that their time may come if Communist aggression triumphs in Korea. American delegates have talked to more than 25 countries in the last 48 hours.

Dispatches from London quoted qualified sources as saying there seems to be a general feeling among British commonwealth leaders, now meeting there, against supporting the U. S. proposal that the U. N. declare Red China an aggressor. The commonwealth chiefs apparently argue that such a course sooner or later must involve enforcement action in terms of the U. N. Charter. Enforcement action, they fear, could lead to war.

Austin told the 60-nation Political Committee of the U .N. Assembly that he does not believe a cease-fire is possible in Korea now. He said the Chinese offensive under way indicates the Chinese Communists want to throw the United Nations forces into the sea.

"The free world, if it is to maintain its solidarity and retain and fortify its determination to remain free, cannot afford to accept this situation without a demonstration of its united will to withstand aggression," Austin said.

"It would be incomprehensible for the U. N. as th cohesive force in the free world to ignore this aggression. Such a course would prove as fatal to long term peace as the helpless inaction of the League of Nations in the various crisis which it faced. To ignore this Chinese aggression would mean in effect that big aggression can succeed with impunity. The world order for which the United Nations has been striving would be in direct peril, leaving every member to stand alone against aggression."

For the second time in three days, Austin said, however, the United States is willing to discuss issues with the Chinese Communists at an appropriate time and in an appropriate forum if a cease fire can be achieved.

Enemy Nears Vital Highway Hub Of Wonju

U. N. Forces South Of Seoul Attacked

TOKYO, Saturday, July 6 (AP) — Relentless Red troops today attacked United Nations forces south of fire-ravaged Seoul and built up their great entrapment threat to the east.

The U. N. air force suspended all flights to Suwon, 20 miles south of the abandoned South Korean capital.

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert said a Chinese battalion engaged U. N. rearguards this morning south of Seoul.

U. N. flights, except for the airlift of wounded, also were cancelled to Wonju, a vital highway hub 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

Vanguards of seven Red armies in the Wonju area are trying to cut across roads of retreat for all U. N. forces in Korea.

The flights to Suwon were cancelled Friday night. That tied in with unconfirmed reports that Chinese Reds crossed on the ice of the Han River east and west of Seoul under cover of darkness.

Retreating U. N. troops who quit Seoul Jan. 4 and its port of Inchon the next day, had blown all bridges across the Han, which skirts the southwest edge of Seoul.

Menace To Wonju Increases

The curtailment of air activity at Wonju indicated that North Koreans in that sector had increased their menace to the flanks of Wonju's defenders.

Allied forces were probing north of Wonju, looking for the onrushing enemy.

U. N. planes took off today despite scattered snowstorms. Pilots of Navy and land-based planes claimed they killed 3,100 Reds during the 24-hour period ended Friday midnight.

U. N. airmen estimate they have inflicted nearly 10,000 casualties on the Reds in the first six days of January.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said 200,000 Chinese and North Koreans were swarming toward Wonju.

The Red offensive pressure eased in the west. That drive had carried into the desolated South Korean capital of Seoul for the second time in a little over six months.

Chinese Reds swarmed quickly through Seoul and into its southwestern industrial suburb of Yongdungpo. They were not yet reported in Inchon, which the Allies abandoned Thursday night and Friday morning.

There was no mention in dispatches of the Eighth Army's location.

Seoul Is Lifeless

New censorship regulations forbade mention of the Allied defense line and identification of allied units by nationality or number.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the Eighth Army, said after a trip to the front south of Seoul:

"Everything is going fine up there."

He meant that Seoul and Inchon had been evacuated with little loss of life and that his retreating divisions had so far succeeded in not being overrun or cut off.

With most of Seoul's million and a half population moving south, U. S. Fifth Air Force planes smashed at the burned and wrecked capital without mercy.

Associated Press Correspondent William C. Barnard flew over Seoul and said it was lifeless. Smoke still rose from fires set by evacuating troops and fleeing civilians.

Red capture of Wonju in East Central Korea would put the Reds in position to stab at the flank of the U. S. Eighth Army as it retreats southward in a withdrawal reminiscent of the bitter Allied pullbacks in the early days of the war last summer.

Draft Bill Will Lower Induction Age To 18 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—New draft legislation that would lower the induction age to 18, extend the period of service to 27 or possibly 30 months, and tighten deferments and exemptions was officially described today as the current aim of the Department of Defense.

Felix Larkin, the department's general counsel, gave that broad preview of the bill that will go to Congress for consideration within the next two weeks.

The measure is being drawn to supplant the Selective Service Act of 1948, which expires June 30.

The immediate aim is to provide the manpower necessary to reach that target of 3,500,000 men in arms set by President Truman last month.

Larkin said about 11,000,000 men 18 through 25 years of age have been registered under the present law, which does not permit induction of a youth until he reaches his 19th birthday. But he said that the actual number in line for induction from this total is estimated at about 750,000.

Manpower analysts say that a still undetermined number of men between 19 and 26 are not now available for service and will not be, unless the law is changed, because of the present liberal provisions for deferment and exemption from military duty.

The Defense Department proposes to make it much harder for young men to delay or escape active duty and believes that the place to start is with the 18-year-olds who have finished high school.

The Defense Department also proposes to lengthen the draft service period from 21 months, the present limit, to 27 or 30 months.

Dog Shoots Hunter

SMYRNA, Tenn., Jan. 5 (AP) — A bird dog shot a hunter near here today, but the victim was not seriously hurt.

The dog stepped on the trigger of a shotgun while being helped over a fence, County Patrolman C. M. Dismayne reported.

Noel Coleman, 32, Nashville, was wounded in the right hand by the charge.

GI Returns Home To Read Wire He's Missing In Action

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) — A 19-year-old Roanoke Army private home from Korea yesterday read a telegram from the Army Adjutant General that he has been missing in action for almost six weeks.

The youthful veteran, Robert C. Johnson, said he had been home twice from Valley Forge, Pa., Army Hospital, Valley Forge, Pa., since the date he was supposed to be missing in action. The telegram was addressed to his father, Joseph H. Johnson.

"This might make a whole lot of parents feel better," the soldier said. "Their sons don't have to be dead just because they are reported missing."

West European Reds Blast "Ike"

PARIS, Jan. 5. (AP)—West European Communists, taking their cue from Moscow, slashed at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower through their controlled press today in a campaign to discredit him and his North Atlantic alliance command.

The French Communist Party, numerically strongest and closest to the scene, had a leading role in the hate drive, which has been building up at least two weeks.

Moscow publications disclosed the party line soon after Gen. Eisenhower was appointed Dec. 19 to head a projected 1,000,000-man army to defend West Europe against any aggression from the east. The Soviet youth organ Komsomol declared then Gen. Eisenhower, twice decorated by the Russians for his services as supreme commander of the Allied expeditionary forces in World War II, was "a true serf of Wall Street," called upon to play in Europe the same role "Executioner MacArthur" is playing in Asia.

Gen. Eisenhower is due to arrive Sunday in Paris, where he has temporary headquarters in the Hotel Astoria, on what he has described as an exploratory trip to "reassure myself that we are not working at cross purposes with anybody."

Rail Unions Spurn Peace Plan; Freight Rate Hike To Be Asked

CLEVELAND, Jan. 5 (AP) — Railroad firemen and trainmen today rejected a proposed three-year peace pact between American railroads and four railway operating unions.

They said the engineers, who already have objected to the pact's terms, and the conductors, who make their decision Sunday, would join them in seeking a better settlement through negotiations in Washington.

The plan was announced Dec. 21, from the White House by Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, as a settlement of all pending issues involving 300,000 men in the four big train-operating unions. They are the engineers, trainmen, firemen and conductors.

Carriers Seek Rate Boost

General chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen took today's action jointly at the end of two-day meetings. Rejection of the proposed plan was announced in a news conference by Presidents David B. Robertson of the firemen and W. P. Kennedy of the trainmen.

Almost simultaneously traffic officials of the nation's railroads announced in Chicago they would ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for freight rate increases of six per cent. Their action was based on the proposed settlement.

Informed sources said a six per cent freight rate increase would add roughtly $400,000,000 to the railroads' anticipated revenue in 1951.

The announcement, by traffic officials representing railroads in the East, West and South, said petitions would be filed in a few days with the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies.

Unions Plan Joint Action

"In the event these railroad operating expenses should be further increased, it may be necessary to bring the changed situation to the attention of the commissions in a supplementary petition," the announcement said.

Steelman declined comment on today's developments.

The nation's major railroads have been under government control since Aug. 26, when a general strike of trainmen and conductors was threatened. The Army has been in technical control.

By Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, they said, the top officers and committeemen of the four unions will meet here to coordinate their plans and stand by for further negotiations in Washington.

Trumanites Fail To Land Choice Plums

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — President Truman's strongest Democratic supporters today demanded—but did not get—a larger voice in party control of the Senate.

When the committee assignments were passed around late in the day by the Democratic Steering Committee, the choicest plums — seats on the Foregn Relations group — went to Sen. Sparkman of Alabama and Gillette of Iowa. Neither is regarded as a member of the all-out Truman bloc.

Sen. Stennis of Mississippi, an outspoken foe of such Truman domestic policies as the civil rights bills, got a place on the busy Armed Services Committee. A single vacancy on the Finance Committee which handles tax legislation went to Sen. Frear of Delaware.

Five senators who class themselves as "Fair Dealers" had called on the Democratic leader, Sen. McFarland of Arizona, before the assignments were announced. They demanded that members of the minority who voted against McFarland in the party caucus be given places on important committees.

After their call, McFarland told a reporter they would get the committee assignments "that are due them."

An inspection of the assignment list showed they certainly got no more than that. Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota got a spot on Agriculture, and Pastore of Rhode Island drew a place on the Labor Committee.

The five who visited McFarland included Sen. Lehman of New York, Douglas of Illinois, Benton of Connecticut, Murray of Montana and Kilgore of West Virginia.

Nehru Outlines Formula On Asian Aspirations

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India discussed before British commonwealth leaders today a formula on Asian aspirations which would involve a further Western withdrawal from Asia, but provide Western help in raising living standards of that continent.

Qualified sources said Nehru dominated talk among leaders of the eight nations represented here in the topic of restoring peace to Korea and stability to Asia. The study was inconclusive. It is to be completed Monday.

Fire Destroys Church

OXON HILL, Md., Jan. 5 (AP) — Eleven Prince Georges County fire companies fought a fire in the Oxon Hill Methodist Church today but the historic structure was destroyed.

U. S., Russia Plan Lend-Lease Talk

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Russia puzzled American officials today by having agreed after a lapse of more than two years to resume negotiations to settle the Soviets' $11,000,000,000 World War II lend-lease account with the United States.

Talks on terms of a general settlement for the useful American supplies left in Russia at V-J Day will be resumed Jan. 15 at Washington, the State Department announced. They were broken off in mid-1948 but meantime Moscow has made a piecemeal payoff by returning 38 of more than 500 vessels the U. S. loaned its former ally in wartime.

The puzzling feature was that the Russian suggestion to renew negotiations actually came on Nov. 24, shortly after Moscow submitted its still pending proposal for a meeting with the American, British and French foreign ministers to deal with the dispute over rearming Germany.

Nine Cows Electrocuted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Nine cows in the prize Holstein herd at the Soldiers Home were electrocuted today when a power line broke and fell on them while they were grazing.

80 Wounded Soldiers Are Feted In Tokyo

British and American nurses and the wives of many of the 300 members of the club served dinner and soft drinks to veterans in slings, casts and bandages.

Ex-Fla. Senator Dies

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) — William Luther Hill, former United States senator, died in his sleep early today at his home. He had been in failing health for some time.

Gov. Dave Scholtz appointed Hill United States senator from Florida July 1, 1936, to fill the unexpired term of Duncan U. Fletcher who died in office.

Probe Demanded

McCarthy Hints Secrets 'Leaked' To Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) demanded today a federal investigation to determine whether there is a "leak" of Pentagon secrets to Columnist-Commentator Drew Pearson.

He told the Senate that a column last week purported to quote "verbatim top secret messages sent to the Pentagon in code."

If they were truly verbatim messages, McCarthy said, they would aid other nations in breaking U. S. codes and "some man in the decoding room is guilty of high treason."

Pearson immediately got out a statement saying, "before using the Tokyo cables now complained of, I consulted the Pentagon which assured me there would be no security risk provided the dates of the cables were changed and a few words omitted. This was done."

The Pearson column that McCarthy criticized concerned the size of the Chinese Communist forces in Korea. McCarthy said it described them as numbering only 96,000 men and was designed "to discredit Gen. Douglas MacArthur."

Wanger, Levant, Raft "Star" In Cafe Bout

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5 (AP) — Hollywood heard today belated versions of a one-punch or less nightclub fuss featuring Film Producer Walter Wanger, Musician Oscar Levant and Actor George Raft.

The scuffle broke out at Mike Romanoff's restaurant during a gala New Year's Eve celebration. Some witnesses reported that Levant swung at Wanger but Raft stepped in and caught the blow.

"Just a joke," was Wanger's comment. "Oscar's one of my best friends."

"I understand he (Levant) shook his fist, but didn't hit anybody," reported Romanoff.

Death On Holiday?

Hunter's Gun Ends Week Of Life For Headless Bunny

WEST BRANCH, Mich., Jan. 5 (AP) — You've heard about headless chickens. Here's one about a headless rabbit who lived a week until a hunter shot him.

George Partlo, a local high school student, went hunting January 1, saw a rabbit sitting by a tree and shot him. When he picked up the animal he was startled to find it had no head.

He took the find to Dr. Robert Rea, veterinarian and mayor of West Branch, who performed an "autopsy."

Dr. Rea concluded the rabbit had lost its head in an accident about a week before its death. Somehow the big blood vessels were sealed off in the accident so the rabbit didn't bleed to death. The spinal cord took over the mechanical functions of the brain, allowing the headless wonder to breathe and move about.

Dr. Rea said the wound had started to heal, the skin forming a protective covering over the wound where the head had been. He knew the rabbit was alive when Partlo shot it, he said, because its blood was still fresh.

France Denies Soviet Charge It Broke Pact

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—France delivered a note to Russia today denying Soviet charges that France has broken a treaty with Russia.

French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau handed the note to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky in Moscow.

Informed French sources said it rejects Russian charges that France broke the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance treaty by agreeing to the rearmament of West Germany and also blames Russia for spurring the West to rearm.

Short Wood Pulp Supplies To Hit Celanese Plant

CA Production Will Drop Slightly Here

Production of cellulose acetate at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America will be affected temporarily by short supplies of wood pulp.

Notices were posted at the Amcelle plant yesterday that a shortage of wood pulp will necessitate a reduction in CA production in the plant which employs some 5,300 workers.

A plant spokesman, when asked how the shortage will affect the plant, said net results will be about a five per cent drop in CA production.

He added the net effect upon employment at the plant will chiefly mean some "sharing the work" by cutting down the work week.

The curtailment in CA, basic material for yarn, will begin to take effect next week.

It was explained that imported wood pulp already on order, has not been received.

Officials said wood pulp has been growing scarce for some time and the company has been able to keep up production only by using stored supplies of CA.

They said the stores of CA have dropped to a minimum, thus necessitating a curtailment for a few weeks until the supply situation improves.

The cut in CA is being shared in all Celanese plants.

The shortage of wood pulp has been accentuated by last year's restriction on cotton production and a poor cotton crop, making it necessary for rayon firms to rely chiefly on wood pulp.

The Celanese wood pulp plant at Prince Ruppert, B. C., is expected to be in production soon.

Operating Engineers Plan Meeting, Feed

The regular meeting of Local 37, Operating Engineers Union (AFL), will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Robert Jones, business agent, said refreshments will be served following the business meeting.

Death Held Suicide

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP) — A coroner's jury decided today that Mrs. Marian Herben, 27, killed herself in the Danish consul's apartment December 8 "due to disappointment over romance."

Mrs. Herben, who was estranged from her husband, was found dead in the Gold Coast apartment of Jorn Ahlers, 32. The jury said she died of an overdose of sleeping pills and "ethyl alcohol."

Americans Slightly Healthier In 1950

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Americans, generally speaking, were a bit healthier in 1950 than in 1949 even in the 1945-49 average, the Public Health Service said today.

"Three diseases for which intensive preventive or public health measures are available and are widely-used — diptheria, smallpox and the typhoid-paratyphoid group —were reported in smaller numbers in 1950 as compared with 1949 and the five-year median," the agency said in a summary.

However, whooping cough, a disease against which immunization is extensively used, was reported in larger numbers.

U. S. War Casualties Mount To 40,176

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP)—Total announced American casualties in the Korean war mounted today to 40,176.

The roll of dead was 6,761.

The totals include casualties where the next of kin had been notified through last Friday. The list rose 1,851 in one week.

The dead included 6,031 killed in action, 716 who died of wounds, and 14 persons originally listed as missing but now known to be dead.

There were 27,997 wounded (including the 716 with mortal hurts) and 6,148 listed as missing.

Senator Raps

nounced he will send an unspecified number of troops to Europe as soon as possible, contends he does not need Congress' approval to do so. The United States and its 11 Atlantic defense treaty allies have set out to raise a million man international army by the end of 1953 to defend Western Europe.

Taking the floor in the first major foreign policy speech of the new 82nd Congress, Taft contended that the United States was "sucked into the Korean War" and charged that President Truman had "no authority whatever" to commit U. S. troops in Korea without consulting Congress.

"The President simply usurped authority, in violation of the laws and the Constitution, when he sent troops to Korea to carry out the resolution of the United Nations in an undeclared war," Taft said.

The Ohio Senator turned to the present crisis in Korea, and declared:

"It is ridiculous to talk about avoiding a war with Communist China when such a war already exists.

"When American boys are being killed by Chinese armies, and Peiping announces that they are fighting the United States and trying to destroy American forces, we might as well have a declared war."

The Ohio legislator assailed the United Nations as "an utterly ineffective weapon to check military aggression" and "actually a trap for those nations which rely upon it as an organization to secure action against aggressors."

He said he would not advocate a withdrawal from the United Nations "at this time." But if Russia continues to exploit the veto to block U. N. action toward peace, he said, then this country should take the lead to dissolve the U. N. and set up a new organization.

Sect Awaiting End Of World

KEREMEOS, B. C., Jan. 5 — Thirty members of a religious sect, who have sold all their possessions, today await the end of the world.

In a locked and shuttered house, the group, all dressed in white has been in self-imposed confinement for 11 days.

They are members of the Church of God who broke away from a Pentecostal tabernacle in this British Columbia interior town of 1,000, 150 miles east of Vancouver.

Behind the barred doors, the elders stand apart from the world, have made no public statements, but friends report they are waiting for the world to end, basing their belief on biblical prophecy.

Grouped in the small house are men, women and children, including eight students of the town school who failed to return to class rooms after the Christmas holidays.

Before entering the crowded dwelling, all worldy goods were sold at sacrifice prices, it was reported to police.

Police, school and health authorities are watching developments at the house. Health authorities fear congestion constitutes a public health danger.

proved by appropriate measures being taken for the removal of this dust. In connection with the grand jury room, several of the chairs are broken and not safe for use and in addition, thereto, adequate ventilation is not provided. . . It is seriously recommended that a modern means of ventilation for this room be installed. . . In fact, ventilation throughout the entire Court House leaves much to be desired. Aside from these matters, most of which necessitate repairs and improvements, the general condition of the Court House is in a good state of repairs."

Another recommendation was that "consideration be given to expanding the force of the Sheriff's office to make it possible for this department to have more men to adequately police and investigate law enforcement violations."

Concerning the County Home the grand jury commended Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith for turning over the institution in fine condition to the present superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Earl B. Grim, and commended them for the continuance of the good care.

The report was signed by Kenneth R. Malcolm, foreman, and Eugene T. Gunning and Harry E. Flook, clerks.

Penitentiary Sentence Given Paw Paw Man

Leonard Edmonson, of Paw Paw, W. Va., charged with the fatal shooting of his brother, Hilbert Edmonson, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in Morgan County Court at Berkeley Springs and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from one to five years in the West Virginia Penitentiary.

Sentence is to be considered started as of the day in October he was committed to jail in Berkeley Springs following the shooting.

Leonard told C. R. Robey, town marshal at Paw Paw, that he shot his younger brother after they quarreled and Hilbert saturated the floor with kerosene and threatened to burn the house.

Leonard was arrested at his home after two teenage boys found Hilbert lying in the front yard mortally wounded. He died in War Memorial Hospital, Berkeley Springs, a short time later.

Police said the dying man told a physician who treated him that Leonard fired the fatal shot. Police later confiscated a .22 caliber rifle which Leonard said was his. The shot was fired from it.

According to police Leonard lived alone. Hilbert, who resided with his mother, called on Leonard and apparently had several drinks, police said.

At the time of the arrest, authorities said Leonard fired on his brother after Hilbert refused to leave the house.

The victim lost consciousness a short time after the youth found him and carried him to the home of Robert Powell where a Paw Paw physician applied first aid.

Get the pomade habit, if you want more manageable hair with highlights like photographers' models!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

CONTRARY to what many people suspect, those glints you see in the hair of models in photographs are not a trick of the photographer's lights. The most powerful spot in the studio can't manufacture them. All lights can do is pick up and accent the luster that's already in the hair.

That's why models must have hair that sparkles. And that's why a model is as faithful to her hair pomade as to her lipstick. By cultivating the daily pomade habit, she makes sure that she will always have a gleaming and groomed hair-do.

Double-Duty Pomades

While you are imparting a luster to your hair, why not give it a therapeutic treatment at the same time? You'll be doing just that if you choose a pomade that contains herbs and lanolin or other oils, as many of the finest do.

Of course, no pomade can treat your hair or dress it as long as it stays in the bureau drawer. Though pomade should be used sparingly, it must be used regularly.

Depending on how much luster you need to add to what you naturally have, there are different ways of making it work for your hair beauty. Start by applying a sparing amount of pomade to your hands and rub them together until the oil is evenly distributed.

Then, if your hair is dry or normal, "brush" your pomade-treated hands contrawise around your head until you have covered the entire surface of the hair. Next, massage vigorously into the scalp the residue of pomade remaining on your finger tips. Apply the residue on the palms directly to the ends of the hair. Really roll those ends between your palms!

For Stubby Ends

If your hair is oily, apply the pomade to the ends only. A quirk of an oily scalp is that the hair ends are almost sure to be stubbly and brittle. A daily application of pomade will not only make the hair more manageable but give it a more uniform and attractive appearance.

The final step in every case is an energetic brushing with a stiff-bristled hair brush. Start at the scalp, brushing right out to the ends, and don't miss a single strand of hair. If you can manage it, dress your hair as the professionals do, with a brush instead of a comb. Very soon, your hair will halo the beauty of your face!

Heavy Autopsy Cost Being Probed By County Board

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has decided to inquire into the heavy cost of autopsies and medical examination of dead persons at county expense under the requirements of a state law.

Members of the board said that the cost to the county for autopsies in December was $760 and that it was necessary to appropriate $8,000 for the current fiscal year for such medical work.

For each autopsy performed the examining physician is paid $50. A charge of $15 is made for an examination of the dead. Members of the board said that in their opinion the "thing has gotten out of control" with autopsies being performed in many cases for which no need existed.

It was pointed out that five or six years ago the county appropriated $1,000 for autopsies and examinations and seldom was the amount used during any one year.

Members of the board said they are not against autopsies in cases where circumstances warrant, but they do not believe it necessary for so many autopsies to be performed.

If the State Board of Health informs the board that autopsies must be continued as at present, then the commissioners said they will seek legislation which would change the law.

What the board would like is a law under which an autopsy would be made only in cases where the state's attorney's office requested it or else the family of a person who died asked for such a probe.

Women Drive Better

Men between 20 and 25 are the worst automobile drivers on the road. They should be the best.

Men as a group seem to be slightly worse drivers than women. They should be better.

These conclusions stem from a sampling of 7,692 Iowa drivers, studied by A. R. Lauer, professor of psychology at Iowa State. They give some comfort to both sides in the perennial argument about men vs. women drivers.

Men drivers have more skill, Lauer finds. But they drive 90 per cent of the mileage and have 91 per cent of the accidents. Women drivers, as a group, are less aggressive, have more respect for traffic laws, and are less disposed to underrate driving hazards. Their superior caution and amenability to law more than offset men's greater skill.

This is particularly true in the 20-25 age group, which should be most skillful of all. People at this age are in full possession of their faculties, and their reflexes have not yet begun to slow down. But they know they're good. Because they overrate their skill and underrate the dangers, men in this group have the worst accident record of all.

In this respect, they are a bit like drivers who have been imbibing. The average man who has had only a few drinks finds his skill impaired relatively little, but his judgment is far off the beam. He is likely to drive much more recklessly—and to overrate his skill—at the very time when he needs to drive more carefully, if he drives at all.

In terms of sheer skill, these tests indicate, men really are better drivers than women. But women drivers have more sense. Male drivers can put that in their pipes and smoke it.

The professor's study, it should be pointed out, was made on the basis of who has the most accidents. The women must be conceded an edge there. But when men snort "Another woman driver!" they are probably talking about a laudably cautious girl who will never wreck a car, but whose unpredictable antics at 15 or 20 miles an hour keep other drivers busy dodging them.

Maybe some other professor will make a survey of that angle. But it cannot be taken for granted that the results would be different.

The Stone Of Scone

The stealing of the Stone of Scone has called attention to a long-agitated wish for change in the British governmental system. The Stone, a 400-pound slab from the old Scottish capital of Scone, was till 1296 used for the coronation of the Scottish kings. In that year King Edward I of England, who all but succeeded in conquering Scotland, carried it off to London as a trophy, just as the ancient Assyrians used to carry off the statues of their vanquished enemies' gods. Ever since then it has been under the throne of the English kings, until its recent mysterious removal.

The union of Scotland and England began in 1603, when the rules of inheritance brought King James VI of Scotland to the English throne as James I of England. Completed in 1707 by an Act of Union, it has been more successful than many such mergers of thrones which have not been ratified by popular vote. The English have grumbled sometimes at the success of the Scots in gaining leadership in different lines. Several have become prime minister, the most recent being Ramsay MacDonald just before World War II.

The Scots have complaints, too, chiefly because Parliament gives little time to legislation concerning Scotland alone. This discontent has inspired a "Home Rule for Scotland" movement, whose more fanatic advocates may have stolen the Stone of Scone to advertise their grievances.

The dissatisfaction can easily be exaggerated. It is similar to but not so much as many American cities feel at an apportionment which puts the legislatures in control of a far less numerous rural population. But there is some legitimate complaint, which may be remedied before many years.

Against Hoarding

The government's orders against business and household hoarding of materials and goods essential to the defense effort are wise in their purpose. If really effective, they could be of great help in maintaining a stable economy and general levelheadedness during the period of stress.

When scarcities have occurred in times past, they have usually been caused as much by hoarding as by the real lack of goods. Hoarding usually sets in as soon as scarcity is anticipated. This greatly increases demand for the hoarded items at the time when the supply is becoming smaller. The result is an acute scarcity where otherwise there might have been only a relatively small curtailment of general consumption. Hoarders usually gain very little real advantage for themselves, and cause a great deal of trouble for the rest of the people

The line between hoarding and prudent stockpiling is neither sharp nor easily determined. It is a matter of judgment. The government orders define hoarding as the accumulation of stocks "in excess of the reasonable demands of business, personal or home consumption." That seems to be a reasonable definition, although it leaves a latitude of discretion which will make enforcement hard and complicated. Much depends on voluntary compliance.

If everyone would apply that yardstick in personal, business and government buying, we should know that any deprivations which occur would be no more than the minimum necessary to the task at hand.

The Facts We Face

An Army medico, a captain, told correspondents at a Pentagon briefing recently some of the facts we must face if we are to fight in Asia. He said he is back in Washington to plead for a complete change of thinking as to the mission of military medics. He thinks they ought to be trained as combat troops, first, and as combat medics second.

He pointed to a Purple Heart on his tunic. It had a star denoting the award of a second ribbon. Three times during the Korean fighting his medical detachment—a front line evacuation unit—has been overrun by the enemy. Three times he has barely gotten away with his life. Three times he has watched or heard his wounded being shot or bayoneted, or blown up with grenades. He said standard equipment on his jeep now consists of a carbine, a .45 automatic, and a box of hand grenades.

The doctor has performed a tremendous service in helping fill in the picture of the facts and the enemy we face.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Undulating Fever In Brucellosis

BRUCELLOSIS (undulant fever) manifests itself from five to 30 days after coming into contact with infected milk or meat that is teeming with the causative organisms. Fatigue overtakes the individual, with headache, loss of appetite, and general muscular aches and pains. Many think they have the flu and, on taking the temperature, find it elevated. In the next 10 days symptoms gradually increase in severity. By this time the evening temperature may mount to as high as 105 degrees F.

• — • — •

Most victims hardly look ill, but, as the saying has it, "Looks are deceiving." The sufferer feels irritable, weak, and in the lowest spirits. Constipation is the rule. He cannot sleep at night, and by morning frequently is drenched in perspiration. Many develop sciatic neuritis and backache. Others encounter joint pains with tenderness and swelling, findings indistinguishable from arthritis. As fever subsides improvement ensues.

It is the subsequent course of the disease that is responsible for the name, undulant fever. The temperature undulates—goes up and down in waves. Several days after it falls, there is a rise and symptoms return for six days to three weeks. Two or more such waves may occur and the individual goes through each bout feeling as miserable as in the first. Meanwhile, changes are taking place in the blood and a test made any time after the seventh day of the illness usually is positive.

If every sufferer with undulant fever went through the acute stage as described, the condition would be easy to recognize. Actually the majority skip this phase. When seen originally, they are not ill enough to stay in bed, yet are too weak to do a good day's work. They tire after the slightest exertion and sometimes have so little ambition they don't care whether the sun rises or sets. The temperature rarely exceeds 101 degrees F. and headache and muscular discomfort may co-exist. Now and then pain is limited to one or more joints and the victim thinks he is suffering from arthritis. Chronic brucellosis is such an indefinite disease it is difficult to prove unless the blood and skin tests are strongly positive. The skin test is not entirely reliable; a positive reaction means that the individual has had the disease but it does not tell whether the infection is of recent or remote origin.

Individuals with acute brucellosis do best when they remain in bed until all symptoms subside. There is no specific remedy, but various products have been tried, varying from vaccines to the newer antibotics—aureomycin; chloromycetin, and terramycin. The use of trace minerals such as cobalt, manganese, and iodine is being investigated. A few years ago a combination of sulfadiazine and streptomycin was employed but the method fell into disuse because of its toxic effects.

More recently, Doctors W. E. Herrell and T. E. Barber used aureomycin and dihydrostreptomycin on a group of 35 patients, the majority of whom were packing house workers. All had been seriously ill for from two weeks to several months. The response was excellent and in a follow-up period of eight to 19 months only one relapse occurred. Terramycin combined with dihydrostreptomycin yielded similar results. This is an improvement over the use of antibiotics alone; while these drugs proved helpful, relapses were common.

LAP PAIN

N. B. writes: I have pain in the lap part of the legs, between the knee and thigh. What could cause this?

REPLY

Does the pain disapepar when you stand? Discomfort in this area is unusual unless injury or strain has occurred but now and then neuritis or musclar or circlatory distrbances are responsible. Examination by your physician would be necessary to localize the offender.

INFECTED "STITCHES"

M. Z. writes: What causes an abscess to form on a scar soon after an abdominal operation?

REPLY

After abdominal surgery, catgut is used to sew together the tissues beneath the skin. Sometimes this material fails to absorb and an abscess develops because the suture material "festers." These lesions also may appear in peritonitis after a ruptured appendix.

DUODENUM

D. F. writes: Is duodenitis the same as duodenal ulcer?

REPLY

No. Duodenitis refers to inflammation of the first part of the intestine, whereas ulcer represents a hole or crater in the wall of the duodenum. One condition can lead to the other, however, and sometimes a combination exists, such as when the area surrounding an ulcer is inflamed.

Another Rail Strike Brews; Capitol Elevator Filibusters; Senator McMahon And U. S. Steel Compete For War Plant

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Inside reason why a new railroad strike is brewing despite the supposed "settlement" announced to the public last month is friction between the Railroad Brotherhood chiefs and likable, glad-handing White House Assistant John Steelman.

The problem of avoiding a strike in the long, drawn-out railroad dispute is one of the toughest in the nation. But things have become so tense between Steelman and the Brotherhoods that they have sent word to Secretary of Defense Marshall recommending that Steelman be replaced with a topflight mediator such as Cyrus Ching or Anna Rosenberg.

What ired them was first of all a sentence they discovered in a strike-agreement memorandum which they negotiated after a grueling, all-night session at the White House last month. The line read: "If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules, they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for a final decision."

This, Brotherhood chieftains interpreted, meant that Steelman would have a three-year job as a rail negotiator whether he remained on the White House staff or not.

Another thing that ired them was Steelman's tactics in proposing that the two sides write down the points of near-agreement and take them home as a basis for final settlement. This so-called "memorandum of agreement" was typed by White House secretaries. Then, Brotherhood chieftains said, they were flabbergasted to find that Steelman had called in the press, radio and newsreels. To them he announced: "I have reached a settlement. There will be no strike."

Gulps came from the labor side of the table, but no open protests. It was difficult to protest with the newsreels clicking.

However, this rancor has continued to boil below the surface and it looks as if the whole rail strike will have to be negotiated over again.

Filibustering Elevator

Even the elevators are catching the "filibuster" fever on Capitol Hill. One of them stalled for 15 minutes between floors of the House Office Building the other day. Meantime, its congressional passengers had a scary interlude as the air grew stuffier and stuffier and the operator struggled to get the circulation fan functioning.

Senator-Elect Mike Monroney of Oklahoma helped to ease the tension in the jam-packed lift by wise-cracking: "Don't anybody get excited. I've never heard of a politician suffocating from hot air."

The perspiring operator finally was able to pry the elevator door open far enough for the 14 passengers, including Congresswoman Reva Bosone of Utah, to be raised to safety.

"The atmosphere in that elevator was the most nonpartisan I have witnessed since coming to Congress," observed Mrs. Bosone. "None of us was thinking about politics, I can assure you. We were all jammed so close together that any fainting would have been done standing up."

War Plant Debate

Sessions of the Truman Cabinet seldom feature explosions. But at last week's session, two members from New England, Attorney General McGrath of Rhode Island and Secretary of Labor Tobin of Massachusetts blew off some steam.

They were indignant because New England has been left out in the cold when it comes to the location of new war plants—especially steel and aluminum plants.

Behind the McGrath-Tobin gripe is one of the most important economic debates going on inside the Administration — a debate between big business on the one hand and a group of New England businessmen on the other, regarding the location of a government-sponsored steel mill at New London, Conn.

Simultaneous with the inside blowup, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut staged a showdown conference with Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board. McMahon was arguing the cause of the New England Council, the business group which has organized the New England Steel Development Company.

Tax Concessions

Opposing this plant is most of "big steel," especially U. S. Steel, which proposes to build a new plant near Morrisville in Bucks County, Pa. If the government authorizes a plant at New London, U. S. Steel will not be certified to build its plant in Pennsylvania. Or if, on the other hand, U. S. Steel is certified to construct a plant in Pennsylvania, the New England Council of Businessmen is out of luck. The financial club which the U. S. Government can hold over either outfit is the "certification of amortization," a document from the Treasury permitting war contractors to write off their plant's capital investment in five years.

Arguing with NSRB Chairman Symington, Senator McMahon pointed out the need for diversifying the steel industry instead of concentrating it in the hands of a few big companies.

"This is the biggest bonanza you could possibly give to big steel," McMahon told Symington. "To let them amortize their investment in five years is manna from heaven. Naturally they are pulling heaven and earth to build new production capacity now rather than in peacetime when they can't amortize so quickly."

"You're just going to have a white elephant on your hands," Symington replied. New England, he said, would find itself with an empty steel mill after the war emergency was over.

"Let us worry about that," countered McMahon.

The Connecticut Senator kept arguing until Symington finally picked up the telephone, called William Harrison, chairman of the National Production Authority, and told him to give the New England Council a certificate as soon as possible. This does not settle the argument, but it's a big step in favor of smaller business. There will be a lot more backstage wirepulling, however, before it is decided whether big steel or the New England business cooperative gets to build the war steel plant in Connecticut.

Conduct Of Foreign Policy Damages American Faith

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE outstanding feature of the new Congress is the relation between it and the President. It would be difficult to find in the country's history a time when the two were so widely separated. Especially would it be difficult to find a past Congress having in both branches a majority belonging to the President's party but so little likely to accept leadership from him. The relation is not bitterness, it is at once more tolerant than that and more dangerous than that. Congress does not feel enmity toward the President, but it knows that the country lacks confidence in him, and it is responsive to the country's feeling or shares it.

A deep long-term cause of the people's disquiet, coinciding with the Truman Administration, is illustrated by news that came from Japan on New Year's Day. When Mr. Truman took office in April, 1945, Japan was our enemy. To conquer it our youth were dying in great numbers; and in August, 1945, Mr. Truman, adding a new terror to war, decreed use of the atomic bomb against Japan. After we had conquered it, while it was under the benevolent sponsorship of our occupying troops under General of the Army MacArthur, and in the spirit of that sponsorship, a new Japanese constitution was written in which Japan specifically renounced war and armament. This week came news that Gen. MacArthur had advised Japan that it might be necessary for it to renounce its previous renunciation, that Japan might be called on to arm and be ready for war. Everyone understood the purport, that we might embrace Japan as our ally in war against Russian communism.

Spirit Straining

That would be desirable in our present situation. But this perverse reversal within so short a period cannot but be a strain upon the spirit of our people, especially as they are called on to endure yet other reversals. When Mr. Truman took office, Russia was our ally; he made immense concessions to it, in his conference with Stalin at Potsdam in 1945. At that time our people were called upon to regard Russia as our friend. Today Russia is our enemy, making war upon us through its satellites, our people are called upon to regard it as our enemy, and to make great sacrifices to resist it.

A similar reversal has taken place as respects Germany. When Mr. Truman took office it was our enemy, we were pouring out blood and treasure to conquer it. After conquering it we determined that it should never again be able to make war, and in that purpose systematically destroyed much of its industrial equipment. Today we plead with Western Germany to be our ally in war against Russia, we ask it to rearm and we help it restore the industries which less than five years ago we destroyed.

An especially agonizing reversal is the one that has taken place about China. When Mr. Truman took office, China as a country and a people, under the Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-Shek, was our loyal friend and ally. Today, China, under a Communist government largely brought about by Moscow and dominated by it, is our enemy making war upon us; its people being taught to hate us.

Resists Re-Examination

It is little wonder if our people, harrowed by strain on the national spirit as a consequence of such reversals of conditions come to question whether the conduct of our foreign relations by the Truman Administration has been wise. The questioning on general grounds is increased by specific charges and criticisms, in Congress and elsewhere, about particular policies and actions of the Administration. The popular disquiet is further increased by traits of Mr. Truman's personality, including an attitude toward criticism. The Administration resists both re-examination of its own policies up to date and examination of changes in policy proposed from other sources. When ex-President Hoover the other day made an extremely careful examination of our relation to the world, which attracted nation-wide attention and sup-

Americans Should Know Foreign Situation Truths

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Seldom has a nation known so little about so much. This refers to what is happening to the destiny of the American people.

Although the Constitution of the United States says that Congress alone shall declare war, no such action has been taken. Yet American armed services are already engaged in a bitter war with hundreds of thousands of enemy troops.

Although America boasts that it is a democracy and that war or peace is not determined by one man, as it is in the totalitarian states, the legislative body which contains the elected representatives of the people has had no opportunity either to share in the responsibility of decision to make war or in the policy that may ensue there from in the future.

The President has said that he can send troops overseas without the permission of Congress because there has been a commitment under the North Atlantic Treaty, but this is exactly opposite to what the Administration's Secretary of State told Congress when the treaty itself was passed.

Usually Ratified

But, even if it be conceded that troops may be sent to Europe without Congressional sanction as an implied obligation of the treaty, can it be said that membership in the UN obliges the President of the United States to carry on war without the consent of Congress?

While the American people have often sanctioned in emergencies the taking of initial steps to protect our interests outside of the United States by the employment of our armed forces, this has usually been followed, in large-scale operations, by a resolution of ratification by Congress. Six months have passed since the outbreak of the Korean War and no such resolution has been presented to Congress by the Administration.

The fiction that no "state of war" exists at present has been maintained by the executive for reasons not explained.

Next Monday Mr. Truman will send to both houses of Congress his annual message on the state of the union. Here, it is to be hoped, some definition of policy will be made to justify the continued use of American troops in an undeclared war.

The American people, moreover, know very little about the administration's intentions. While a "national emergency" has been proclaimed, the Congress has had no share in the interpretation of that proclamation in terms of a "state of war."

Why does the President shrink from a realistic recognition that a "state of war" exists? Is it because American sovereignty has been yielded to the United Nations? If so, the people who voted for the entry of this country into the UN had no idea they were scrapping the American Constitution at the time the UN charter was accepted.

The people know very little about the Korean War. They know only that tens of thousands of troops are engaged in war and that, while it is called a UN operation, the troops of the United States comprise almost all the UN forces in Korea outside of those of the South Korean Republic itself. Here is a situation that calls for definition and information. The American people have not been told why the other members of the UN have failed to send troops in large numbers since last June.

Information is essential in order to build confidence. There can be no national unity merely by exhorting everybody to work together. Faith and confidence in a national government can be developed and preserved only when the people are entrusted with the essential information they should have in order to understand what is going on.

No Explanation

There has not even been a persuasive explanation of why the American troops are in Korea.

The relationship between Korea and the whole future of international cooperation has not been explained.

Many influential groups are arguing that, if the UN condones aggression in the Far East and perhaps withdraws voluntarily from Korea, there would be an even greater demand to refrain from operations in Europe.

All these arguments and counter-arguments about Korea are a part of a national debate which reflects the fact that neither the President nor the Secretary of State today enjoys the undivided support of an anxious country. Instead, there are misgivings and questionings about the national leadership. These questionings are the direct result of the failure of the Administration to tell the American people the basic truths they should know about the current international situation.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Great Debate

FOR A DECADE, the Administration has used every means within its power to suppress a public discussion of its foreign policy. The reason has been that that policy has been confused and full of error since 1933.

Mr. Roosevelt's first error was the recognition of Soviet Russia without an adequate study of the problems inherent in Marxian international relations, and the failure to exact guarantees of conduct, except the two which did not matter, namely, religious freedom in Russia and non-revolutionary activity in this country.

At the time when the Roosevelt-Litvinov negotiations occurred, it was obviously possible for the United States to state its terms, as Russia was the pleader for recognition.

Then followed a period of isolationism which lasted for five years until Munich, with the one interruption of the quarantine speech in Chicago, which was delivered to cover up the then offensive appointment of Hugo Black to the United States Supreme Court.

From this isolationism, which really commenced after Mr. Roosevelt blew up the London World Economic Conference (1933) that might have saved Europe but for his intervention, we became a participant, secret and open, in World War II, which has now projected itself into World War III.

Such matters as the Quebec, Cairo, Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam conferences require understanding which can only come from public debate, but the Administration has utilized such words as "isolationist," "Fascist," "Bipartisan foreign policy," "unity," "retreatist," Gibraltarism" to deal with broad problems of public interest involving the lives of our sons and the welfare of future generations.

Thomas E. Dewey, Joseph P. Kennedy, Herbert Hoover, and John Foster Dulles have thus far joined the issue, as well as columnists and commentators.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey presented a view more like Dean Achesons than his own, heretofore so often expressed. In the passion of our defeat at the hands of Soviet Russia in Korea, it is understandable that Governor Dewey would call for full support of the Administration.

Certainly those who are responsible for errors costing American lives have no claim to undiscussed, unscrutinized, blind acknowledgement of their leadership. Governor Dewey's speech was a continuance of the Vandenberg program of a bipartisan foreign policy, which it is doubtful that Senator Vandenberg would now pursue.

Mr. Hoover and Mr. Kennedy developed, each somewhat differently, the theme that God helps those who help themselves and that the United States might well follow His example. The nation's response to Mr. Hoover's speech startled the Administration, which responded by calling him a 'retreatist," a false label designed to confuse the issue.

For instance, last Sunday, the "New York Times," in its "The News of the Week in Review," published a map purporting to represent Mr. Hoover's views which omitted from the areas that he would include in our defenses, Iceland, Greenland, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa.

Yet, this is what Mr. Hoover actually said:

". . . We can, without any measure of doubt, with our own air and naval forces, hold the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with one frontier on Britain (if she wishes to cooperate); the other, on Japan, Formosa and the Philippines. We can hold open the sea lanes for our supplies. And I devoutly hope that a maximum of cooperation can be established between the British commonwealth and ourselves."

Such an omission by the "New York Times" can only be regarded as a direct attempt to present the issue incorrectly.

John Foster Dulles' speech is one of the most difficult to analyze. After I read it carefully, I reached the conclusion that Mr. Dulles is not too far away from Mr. Hoover. Both agree that our lines have to be shortened; that we must not undertake more than we can accomplish. And it seemed to me that Mr. Dulles was advising our allies to do much for themselves.

At any rate, his speech, if it represented the State Department, was a retreat from the Truman policy of containment. Mr. Dulles is generally announced as a Republican adviser to the State Department, which is inaccurate because the Republican Party has not officially so designated him. Mr. Truman made the choice. He is a State Department official.

However, until it is clear whether he speaks for himself, for the Republican Party, or for the State Department, it is difficult to evaluate his speech.

The Piedmont Marine's feet were frozen on November 30, his 24th birthday. It was 13 days before he could get aid because the Chinese Communists had his outfit trapped at the Changjin Reservoir in North Korea. Eventually he was evacuated to a hospital in Japan and subsequently was flown back to the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md.

In World War II, Sgt. Fike, served 22 months with the United States Marine Corps in China and Guam. A member of the reserves he left here with the Cumberland Reserves Unit on July 29, 1950, going first to Camp LeJeune, N. C., where he was stationed for two weeks and then to Camp Pendleton, Calif., for another two weeks before he was shipped overseas on September 29, 1950.

He first was with the artillery and when more men were needed on the front line for security he was transferred. At the time he suffered the frozen feet the temperature registered 25 degrees below zero.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, Child's Avenue, brother-in-law and sister of Sgt. Fike, motored to Bethesda and brought Frank home. Enroute they stopped at Martinsburg, W. Va., where they visited Walker's uncle, a World War I veteran at the Newton D. Baker Hospital.

Fike, a former Evening and Sunday Times carrier while attending school, returned to Bethesda Tuesday to the Naval Hospital for more treatment. His sister and wife accompanied him back to Bethesda.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Broderick Crawford

Max Arnow, the studio talent scout, saw her on just one TV program, arranged a screen test, and here she is in Hollywood this morning.

Isn't this the first time this has been done? Darryl Zanuck is transplanting the entire cast of "I'll Get By" into a new 20th Century musical—and it's not a sequel.

This means that June Haver (if she returns to work), Gloria De Haven, Bill Lundigan and Dennis Day are signed en masse for "The Husband Who Ran Away," Hildegarde Dolson's 1948 novel.

In fact, everything is a repeat—even to the men behind the camera. Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos, who wrote "I'll Get By," will also scrip "The Husband Who Ran Away." Sale will repeat his stint at directing with Jules Buck producing.

Talk is hot in New York that Marlene Dietrich is at long last considering divorcing Rudy Seiber, her husband of 25 years. Although they have been separated so long that many people think them divorced, and time after time her name has been linked with an assortment of "prospective husbands," Marlene has never sought her freedom.

Now the $64 question is—will she want it to be free to marry Michael Wilding? When their romance flared so brightly in London, it is said that Wilding urged Dietrich to seek a Mexican divorce so she could become his bride about the same time his pal, Stewart Granger, married Jean Simmons.

It's too late for that—but they wouldn't be too far behind.

Snapshots of Hollywood and Chicago collected at random:

Ran into Greta Garbo in the doctor's office just before I caught the Super-Chief. Yes, we talked. I said "hello."

Jeff Chandler, supposed to start "Iron Man" at U-I Monday, may not make it. He's very ill with a virus infection.

Big Crosby laughed harder than anyone else when Bob Hope hired a painter to change the sign reading "Paramount salutes Bing Crosby, Mr. Music, on his 20th anniversary" to read " . . . on his 80th anniversary.

The Ezio Pinzas dining quietly at the Sportsmen's Lodge—Doris' first appearance since the birth of the baby.

John Carroll and his wife are definitely made up. She went along when he flew to his night club stint in Houston, Texas.

Susan Peters plays "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" for two weeks at the Sombrero Theater in Phoenix starting January 16.

Continuing to be everywhere together—Judy Garland and Sid Luft at the Encore.

After Ronald Reagan and Nancy Davis dated steadily for weeks, he surprised everyone by showing up with his old flame, Judy Clarke, at the Villa Capri.

I notice that George Dolenz fared very well with eastern critics in "Vendetta" which may be one reason R-K-O has upped the budget on "Return of Zorro."

Mario Lanza leaves January 14 on a ten weeks concert tour and when he returns he'll ask M-G-M to let him take his family to Europe.

One reason for the Sam Goldwyns' trip to New York now is that Sam Jr. has been transferred to Astoria, Long Island.

Gloria De Haven is up for her first Broadway show in the spring. Phil and Julie Epstein want her for their new musical.

When Jack Dempsey does his first TV show January 12, his two daughters will appear with him—so he was telling the folks at the Wilshire Seacombers.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Conduct Of Foreign

port, Mr. Truman's response was a terse epithet, isolationism.

While the condition is commonly spoken of as lack of confidence in the President it is something broader and more frustrating to the national spirit. It is a starvation of faith within the people, caused by the experiences they have gone through. They are deprived of satisfaction of the instinctive wish to have faith. The condition must not be allowed to continue. Either by Congress and within it, or through action by it, the country must be provided with leadership.

Two Wills Probated In Court Here

Two wills were probated yesterday morning in Orphans Court.

The will of Albert R. Wiseman, this city, who died December 23, listed Genevieve Barker and Carl V. Wiseman, his children, as executors. Bonds of $1,000 were posted by the executors.

Under terms of the will the dwelling at 300 Waverly Terrace is to be converted into cash and the money divided equally between the eight children of the deceased.

The balance of the estate is to be held under guardianship of Carl V. Wiseman for the use of James A. Wiseman when he becomes 21 years of age.

The will of Ella M. Hoffman, this city, who died December 18, lists W. May Parker, a daughter, as executor.

A granddaughter, Nancy Ann Parker, was left two $100 U. S. bonds and a sewing cabinet. The rest of the estate is divided between the deceased's five children.

Harris To Address Police Boys' Club

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will address the Police Boys' Club at a dinner tomorrow at 1 p. m. in the basement of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Oldtown Road.

J. Henry Stitcher, director of the organization and a member of the Cumberland Police department, said plans have been made to accommodate about 70 boys.

A. Florian Wilson will be toastmaster.

Church Report Given Members

Members of the Seventh Day Adventists in Cumberland contributed a total of $8,382.83 to their church during 1950, according to Rev. O B. Gerhart.

This amounted to a per capita donation of $137.42, he pointed out.

Seventh Day Adventists the world over, contributed a total of $44,745,570 in 1949, or a per capita of $138.28 in North America. Of this amount, $7,481,855 was given for local work, $10,184,854 for foreign missions, and $27,078,860 was tithe.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—IN THE FIRST issue of the new American Mercury an article by William Bradford Huie, exploring the reasons why ex-Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal committed suicide, quoted Monsignor Maurice S. Sheehy, former Navy chaplain, as saying:

"Had I been allowed to see my friend Jim Forrestal, receive him back into the church, and put his mind at ease with the oldest and most reliable of medicines known to mankind, he would be alive today."

It was a tough and controversial quote, for it placed Sheehy in the position of damning those who kept him from Forrestal in the man's last days of life, and it supported the Huie premise that Forrestal was hounded to death.

There has been no response from Sheehy until now. His response may be found in the current issue of Catholic Digest, edited by one of the best minds I've encountered in or out of the magazine business, Paul Bussard, a priest who looks like Dana Andrews and in summertime wears, I suspect, Bing Crosby's old straw hats. It apparently took some doing to get Sheehy to write the piece.

• — • — •

Forrestal and Sheehy were good friends. They met at a party given by Dorothy Thompson in 1940, at a time when Forrestal was assistant to President Roosevelt. They next met at the home of Eugene Meyer in Washington when Forrestal was Secretary of the Navy and Sheehy had returned from a 33-month tour of duty in the Pacific.

It was only after they knew each other quite well that the priest learned from Forrestal that he was a back-slid Catholic. It was at a time when Forrestal, a fierce foe of Communism, was firing every gun in his personal arsenal to defeat the menace in Western Europe. He asked Sheehy to go to Rome in the spring of 1948 to do what he could to keep Italy from going Communist in the general elections of that year, and, if you read the Huie article, Forrestal spent a lot personally to achieve the defeat of the Reds at that time.

When the screws began to be put into Forrestal later, Sheehy urged him to reply, apparently specifically to the report by Drew Pearson that he (Forrestal) had cowardly run out of his house while a burglar was robbing Mrs. Forrestal. He made other pleas to Forrestal and finally received this note:

"I agree with you I should expose the guerrilla warfare directed against me. The trouble is I don't have time to devote to that activity."

• — • — •

Forrestal asked to see Sheehy the day he was admitted to the hospital from whose window he eventually jumped. The priest, an instructor at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., dismissed his class and went immediately to the hospital — for he knew Forrestal was cracking up.

"The psychiatrist told me that he wished my help, but that Jim was so confused I should wait some days before seeing him," Msgr. Sheehy writes in the Catholic Digest.

He tried six more times to see Forrestal in the next few weeks, and was turned away each time. So was Fr. Paul McNally, S. J., of Georgetown University, another friend. Finally Sheehy asked Secretary of Navy John L. Sullivan why his visit to his friend was being postponed, and the hospital subsequently promised that the priest could see the patient "next week."

But before Sheehy was admitted, Forrestal leaped.

The psychiatrist in charge had made the "next week" decision. And of the man's profession, Msgr. Sheehy concludes:

"In psychiatry at the present time there is general agreement as to the place of religion in restoring mental health. There is disagreement as to when spiritual aid can most effectively be given. While it is not my province to pass judgment upon the factors which brought on Forrestal's collapse, I stand by the statement attributed to me in the new American Mercury.

"Peace of soul is the best antidote for the depressed mind."

More Discussion Due On Water Rate Hike

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 5 (AP)—Further hearings on a petition for higher water rates in Berkeley Springs and vicinity was continued today to a date and place to be fixed later.

The Public Service Commission ordered that, meanwhile, an audit be made of the books of the applicant firm, the Mountain State Water Company.

The petition was protested on behalf of Berkeley Springs by City Attorney C. S. Trump. He did not appear at the hearing today, but will be given an opportunity later to cross-examine.

The company said its present rates, in effect since 1942, no longer yield a reasonable return as a result of higher operating costs and higher taxes.

The company seeks new rates which it estimated would add $8,000 to its annual revenue.

Four Sarahs...

The first Sarah came to America in the "nineties." She was poor, but she loved her husband, her children, and her God. That three-fold love was the heritage she gave her family.

The second Sarah married a "doughboy." She prayed for him through the long months of trench warfare. Then the Armistice, and he came home to her!

The third Sarah saw her teens against the background of Depression. She met Bill, and they fell in love. Then Pearl Harbor . . . Corregidor . . . and the Jap prison. While she worked in a war plant she prayed. She never gave up hope. Then V-J Day, and as soon as he was discharged from the hospital they were married.

The fourth Sarah . . . her story is still to be written. But the courageous faith of the others will be hers, too. Sarah and Bill will see to that . . . with the help of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LaSalle Edges Allegany, 35-34; Fort Hill, Ridgeley Win

Paul Ackerman's Foul With 42 Seconds Left Wins Game

Alco Five Outscores Winners From Field; Loses 4th In Row

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

Paul Ackerman sank a free throw with 42 seconds remaining to give the LaSalle Explorers a thrilling 35-34 victory over Allegany High's Campers last night on the Campobello floor.

Ackerman was fouled by Ronnie Lease in a melee under the LaSalle basket as approximately 600 fans screamed their lungs out in the small Camper gym. The husky forward missed the first of two tries before sinking the all-important point that knocked aside Allegany's first defense of its city title.

Snaps Losing Skein

The win was a big one for Coach Arthur Slocum's Centre Streeters and broke a two-game losing streak while extending the West Siders' losing ways to four in a row and five of six.

It was a slam-bang affair from start to end with never more than six points separating the two teams —LaSalle led 14-8 early in the second quarter—and the score was knotted nine times with the lead changing hands four times.

Although not a well-played game in the sense of fast well-executed plays, sharp passing and excellent defense work, it nevertheless was a crowd pleaser that never gave the fans a dull moment from the opening whistle.

Jimmy Moran started the rough, erratic and at times spectacular fireworks off with a foul for LaSalle that put the Explorers out in front throughout the first half except for a 1-1 tie moments later and a 14-14 deadlock at the end of the first two periods of play.

George Long knotted things for Allegany, Doug Connolly connected for a long one-hander and LaSalle built the margin to 11-8 at the close of the initial canto.

Lease Knots Score

Two quick baskets by Junior Eversole on the scoring end of well-executed fast break plays made it 14-12 LaSalle with seconds remaining in the half and Ronnie Lease stole the ball a moment later from Connolly to dribble-in for a layup that knotted the count for the second time as the half ended.

LaSalle again forged ahead in the third stanza as Ackerman and Moran potted one-handers before Eversole broke through for Alco with a set heave from the side. Moran's layup made it 20-16 for the Explorers then Frank Phares, Allegany's lanky center, tallied his first basket of the game on a pivot shot and Eversole again connected to tie the score once more.

Phares then put Allegany ahead for the first time in the game with a closeup after taking a pass from Lease and the Campers edged ahead 26-23 at the end of third period hositilities.

Marty Mullaney's pivot shot and a foul toss by Moran tied it again at 26-all and the score was knotted five more times in the final eight minutes at 28, 29, 31, 32 and 34 before Ackerman's singleton broke Allegany's back.

Two Players Foul Out

Lase fouled out for Allegany on the play that gave Ackerman his game-winning chance and moments later Dick Widdows became the second Alco player to leave the game via personals.

Referees Bill Hahn and Joe Stanislawczyk called a total of 20 fouls on the losing Campers to seven against LaSalle and the Explorers had 11 chances at the 15-foot stripe in the second half to Allegany's two. Actually the winners were triumphant at the foul line, converting 9 of 21 tries to four of nine for the Campers although outscored 15 field goals to 13 by Allegany.

Allegany had two chances to score the winning goal in the final seconds but a mid-floor set shot by Ronnie Chapman was no good and Ronnie Sisk lost control of the ball attempting to pass to Eversole breaking for the basket in the final second of play.

Take Scoring Honors

Moran, Ackerman and Connolly were LaSalle's standout players while Eversole sparked with some sensational shooting for Allegany and Dick Widdows and Ronnie Lease played excellent floor games.

Eversole and Moran shared high scoring honors for their respective teams with 11 points apiece.

In the preliminary game Allegany's Reserves defeated the LaSalle Jayvees, 43-23. The lineups:

A "Home Team" Loop • • • Shuffle Race Torrid • • • Hank Coaches Winner

By C. V. BURNS

Cumberland5s Spas have won only one of five games played on the road this season but that's nothing unusual in the All-American Pro Basketball League which appears to be more of a "Home, Sweet Home" circuit this year than in the three previous seasons of operation.

Through Wednesday, a total of 25 games had been played and the record stood at five wins for the visiting teams and 20 for the home clubs. This means the teams won only 20 percent, or one out of every five, played on the road.

Here's how the teams fared in the first 25 games.

AT HOME	W.	L.	Pct.
Wheeling	4	0	1.000
Erie	4	0	1.000

There's another torrid race on for the first half championship of the Men's National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County and it may be a battle to a finish involving three clubs—Stadium Inn and American Legion of Frostburg and the Cumberland Knights of Columbus, three-times champions.

Here's how the teams stand:

Stadium Inn leads by two games with six to play.

Cumberland K. of C. trails by two games with six to play.

Frostburg Legion is four games out of first place with six to play.

On January 11, Frostburg Legion plays at Stadium Inn and Cumberland V. F. W. is at the K. of C. On the final day of the first half race (Jan. 18) the Cumberland V.F.W. visits Frostburg Legion and last but not least the K. of C. invades Stadium Inn.

It looks like a photo finish and as to the winnah — that may not be known until the night of Jan. 18.

Hank Ellis, who played for the Wheeling Blues in the All-American League for several seasons, is having a good year as cage mentor at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The Bobcats are showing the way in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference with a 4-0 record and have knocked off Concord 61-51, Morris Harvey 53-52, West Virginia Tech 50-48 and Alderson-Broaddus 57-46.

The only blot on the Bobcats' record was a 71-60 loss at the hands of West Virginia's Mountaineers in the season opener.

Potomac State plays Wesleyan only once during the regular season and that's February 10 at Buckhannon.

One of the greatest comebacks of the young new year is the Duke University basketball team's rally in the recent Dixie cage tourney against Tulane at Raleigh, N. C.

The Blue Devils were trailing by 20 points at intermission and 32 points after the second half got under way — then poured it, on in the second half to win, 74-72.

Before the firehouse style of basketball made its bow, the coach of a team with a 29-point lead at halftime could have spent the second half at a movie show.

Snead Leads With 67 At Los Angeles

Marty Furgol Trails Favorite By Stroke

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP) — Sam Snead scorched Riviera's hilly golf course in familiar fashion today to post a four-under-par 67 and take the first-day lead in the $15,000 Los Angeles Open.

A sensational chip for an eagle on the ninth hole gave him a startling 31 for the first half and he coasted the rest of the way to a par 36 on the back nine. It was all just about as expected by a gallery of 5,000 which had installed him as a heavy favorite.

Marty Furgol Second

One stroke back with a 33-35—68 came Marty Furgol, veteran campaigner from nearby North Hollywood. At 69 were bracketed young Joe Kirkwood Jr., second generation of a famed golfing name, Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., and Skee Riegel of Tulsa.

Despite good weather, only eight of the starting field of 144 could beat par 71 and some of the big names left themselves herculean tasks to catch the fast-starting Snead.

Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum and Dr. Cary Middlecoff with 73's and Ellsworth Vines with a 75 were among them.

At 78 were Jim Ferrier, who was second high money winner for 1950, and Ed (Porky) Oliver.

Sam Won Event Twice

Snead has won this event twice — last year in a stirring playoff with Ben Hogan. He went on to bank more than $37,000 in prize money during the year and put himself alone in his class as the new year started.

Henry Ransom, the Texan now playing from St. Andrews, Ill., and young Bob Watson of White Plains, N. Y., each put together scores of 34-36 to chase Snead by three strokes. Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., no relation to Marty, tied them with a 36-34.

At even par 71 were two veterans, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Lawson Little.

The field competes tomorrow for the right to stay in the tournament. The list will be cut to the low 90 and ties on Sunday and to 64 for the final 18 holes Monday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Lightweight Champion Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., dropped Jose Gatica, three times to stop the South Argentine swarmer in 2:09 of the first round tonight in a non-title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Williams weighed 140¼; Gatica 138.

Bidding his time while Gatica flurried madly in the first minute, Ike coldly dumped the 9 to 5 underdog for counts of three and six. When he went down a third time from a terrific right hand punch, Referee Ray Miller stopped it.

Blood cascaded from Gatica's nose like water from a fountain. Dazed and bewildered he obviously was in no condition to continue.

St. Mary's Gaels Drop Football, And Baseball For The Duration

Teams Gained Fame Under Slip Madigan

MORAGA, Cal., Jan. 5 (INS)—St. Mary's College announced today that it is giving up intercollegiate football and baseball because of the national emergency and the manpower needs of the armed forces.

The Gaels became the first major western school to take such action. The decision also marks the first time in 43 years St. Mary's has not been represented by a football team.

Officials said that only basketball will continue as a major intercollegiate sport for the duration of the national emergency.

This was announced today "with some reluctance" by the St. Mary's board of trustees. An official statement said:

"The action of the board followed a consideration of a prospective depletion in student enrollment consequent on selective service and voluntary enlistment in the armed forces . . ."

The announcement said that other factors also were involved in the decision, including:

". . . the financial loss entailed in maintaining a major athletic program and a growing difficulty of sustaining academic standards in the face of an inflated competition, particularly in football."

Once one of the nation's top collegiate teams under the mentorship of Edward P. ("Slip") Madigan, St. Mary's won only two games in 1950, losing six and scoring one tie.

During the past 10 years the Gaels have fielded some outstanding teams but never reached the heights of the years between 1921 and 1939, when Madigan and his Moraga Marauders achieved national fame.

St. Mary's uninterrupted record of fielding a grid team, which began in 1907, was maintained during the second world war, but the squads of those years consisted largely of navy pre-flight students.

Yanks To Offer Joe Same Salary As '50

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio will be offered the same salary earned last year General Manager George Weiss of the New York Yankees said today.

Weiss declined to disclose the star outfielder's paycheck last year, but it is believed the Yankee Clipper was paid $100,000.

DiMaggio's work last season included a batting average of .301 in 139 games, a home run total of 32 and a 122 runs batted in figure. Not bad for a fellow who just celebrated his 36th birthday.

"DiMaggio will be mailed a contract some time next week. We don't expect any difficulty," Weiss said.

PCC Bans Telecasts Of "Live" Grid Games

RIVERSIDE, Cal., (INS) — The Pacific Coast Conference, in an action which failed to come as a surprise because of the drop-off of football game attendances, banned the telecasting of "live" games during its next season.

The decision to institute the ban came as one of the last measures of business at the regular PCC meeting before the members adjourned to entrain for Dallas where the annual NCAA session will take place next Monday.

The action was taken as a result of information giving the officials yesterday which revealed that of the 30 games televised last year "21 fell below the estimates of receipts guaranteed by the television agreement and in 13 of the 21, the deficit exceeded the guaranteed percentage and resulted in uncompensated losses."

Indiana Negro Cage Star Is Honored

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 5 (INS) — Bill Garrett, Indiana University basketball star, today was named on the fourth annual "Race Relations Honor Roll" chosen by the Negro publication, the Indianapolis Recorder.

The Recorder cited Garrett as the only negro basketball player in the Western Conference and said "his never-failing sportsmanship . . . has won the respect of fans without exception."

IDENTICAL RETURNS

DETROIT — Ron Horwath, University of Detroit, caught the opening kickoff in both halves of the game against Hillsdale and ran both back 96 yards for touchdowns.

Athletic teams visiting the University of Wyoming must wear dark jerseys. Wyoming wears white jerseys with gold numerals at home.

Ground Fog Wins Fourth Straight

Defeats Rock Span At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP)—Grandview Stable's Ground Fog, a consistent gelding, continued on his winning ways today as he won the seventh and best race of the stakeless program at Tropical Park.

It was the gray horse's fourth straight victory, three at Tropical and one at Pimlico before invading the southland. Though compelled to race wide, Ground Fog came on with determination through the short stretch to nail J. J. Colando's Rock Span by a half length, covering one mile and a sixteenth on a fast track in 1.44. He paid $7.70 for $2.

Rock Span was made an even money favorite in the race, despite two unimpressive efforts earlier in the meeting. However, the presence of Joe Culmone in the saddle unquestionably influenced many in the crowd of 7,520.

Third in the seven-horse field was Double M Farm's Lambent, which had won his three previous starts over the track. Fourth was Equinox 2nd. Colonel Mike broke poorly and was eliminated from contention at once.

Rock Span was rushed to the front by Culmone and he showed the way to the sixteenth marker. There Ground Fog reached him then gradually asserted his superiority under Sammy Boulmetis.

Ground Fog is owned by Harry Massey, Pittsburgh auto dealer, who was present to see his gelding keep his slate clean.

Culmone accepted three mounts through the seventh and failed to win a race.

Senior Bowl Game Is Set For Alabama

North Is Favored In Mobile Contest

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 5 (AP) — Two power-packed all star football teams square off here tomorrow afternoon in the second annual Senior Bowl Game a pro debut for the 54 competing college players.

With the game the hand-picked senior gridders kiss their amateur standings goodbye by accepting a healthy cut of the gate receipts. The winning squad pulls down 60 per cent of the players' pool.

The contest, played for the first time at Jacksonville, Fla., last year, gives the players a chance to strut their stuff before a host of pro football scouts.

All but two of the National Professional Football League teams are represented. Draft of college seniors comes up later this month.

Coaches Steve Owen and Alvin (Bo) McMillin ended pre-game practice with light drills today. Most of the time was devoted to ironing out minor flaws of their powerful offensive tactics.

Some 25,000 fans are almost sure to witness a high scoring battle. Both teams are loaded with good running backs and dangerous passing combinations.

Marlene Bauer Ties Babe Zaharias At 75

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. Jan. 5 (AP)—Babe and the baby of the women's golf tour shared the first round lead of the Ponte Vedra Club women's open here today.

Babe Zaharias, of Tampa, Fla. the top woman golfer year after year, toured the 6,715-yard Seaside course in 36-39—75.

Marlene Bauer, 17-year-old from Midland, Texas, had 41-34—75 Women's par is 37-36—73.

Patty Berg, Minneapolis' star golfing girl, shot 40-38—78 for third place on opening day of the 54-hole tournament that runs through Sunday.

Louise Suggs of Carrolton, Ga., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., each went around in 79.

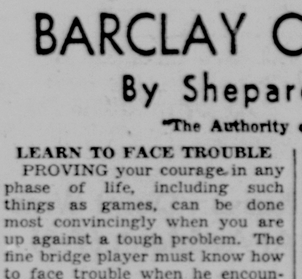
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEARN TO FACE TROUBLE

PROVING your courage in any phase of life, including such things as games, can be done most convincingly when you are up against a tough problem. The fine bridge player must know how to face trouble when he encounters it, including trouble which is largely of his own making. Probably more striking cases of that are found when a player is doubled in a difficult contract than in any other development in bridge.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Dbl

East passed that, with visions of a juicy penalty score against his vulnerable opponents. South was figuring on defending himself, in a post-mortem with his partner, for having opened with a hand such as his. With two five-card suits full of playing tricks, he considered his action sound in third position. But, when he saw those three trumps and the club singleton in dummy, he did not feel too badly at all.

West scored the diamond K and then led the A, which South ruffed with the heart 4. Deciding to make East waste some of his trumps on clubs, South led the K to the A. West returned the heart 8, which the A won and East chose another trump, the 6, which the 10 won. Now South scored the club Q and smartly led the club 5, ruffing it with the dummy's last heart, the 5, which East over-ruffed with the 9. Now East sacrificed his heart Q to the K.

The club J and 10 won, also the heart J to make South's seventh trick, giving him his doubled contract, and he willingly gave up spades for the last two tricks. The denouement proved a great victory compared to what could have happened, as the opponents could have made 3-No Trump with three tricks in spades, one in hearts, four in diamonds and one in clubs without even trying a finesse except in diamonds.

Your Weekend Question

If one of your opponents had made an informative or takeout double, when the only honors higher than tens out against you are the ace-king of one suit, the king-queen of another and the queen of a third, which defender are you going to consider is more likely to hold that queen if you have to finesse against it?

Janowicz Flunks Out Of College

Vic Fails To Apply For Re-Admission

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 5 (INS) — All-American Vic Janowicz, who passed everywhere except in school, failed to apply for re-admission to Ohio State today after being dropped from the institution because of poor grades.

Dean Walter C. Weidler of the College of Commerce said Janowicz was supposed to come in today and file an application for re-admission." Dean Weidler:

"He has not come in yet."

Janowicz said in Cleveland that he planned to return to Columbus and work during the winter quarter. He said he wanted to get back in school for the spring quarter which begins March 27.

The 20-year-old Heisman award winner as the nation's outstanding football player was in Cleveland last night to receive similar recognition from the city's Touchdown Club.

Janowicz explained that it was necessary for Ohio State to expel him because he failed in two subjects. He said:

"My overall average is 1.6 and I need a 1.7 out of a possible four to be eligible for athletics. I won't be able to play baseball this spring but I'm certain that I can make up my deficiency in time for the fall quarter."

Dr. Bland L. Stradley, vice president of Ohio State, said it was not the university's policy to publicly reveal a student's grades.

Janowicz has one more year of football competition remaining if he meets Ohio State's scholastic standards. He has the spring and summer quarters to do this.

ARCADIA, Cal., Jan. 5 (INS) — Veteran jockey Johnny Gilbert was reported improving today at Huntington Memorial Hospital where he was taken after a spectacular crash in the sixth race at Santa Anita yesterday.

However, his condition was still described as "serious." Gilbert suffered a fractured cervical vertebrae in his spill from Spinaround.

Gilbert, now 36, won the 1932 jockey crown with 212 winners.

Firemen Request Increase In County Fund Allotment

Two executive board members of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday and requested an increase in the allotment of funds to the 19 fire companies in this county.

Joseph Wenrich, chairman, and William A. Wilson, member of the firemen's board, told the county commissioners that the increased cost of equipment has placed some of the fire companies in a tight spot financially. Almost every item used by the volunteer fire fighters has increased in cost, according to Wilson.

Civil Defense Problem

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, board president, told the two men the county is vitally interested in the welfare of the volunteer firemen, but he asked the two men to await developments of a civil defense program.

Lemmert said that he understands that under the civil defense program the federal and state governments would share with counties and municipalities the cost of new equipment. If this is true, Lemmert said, then the $200 requested for each of the 19 fire companies would not be necessary.

Wilson said that such a federal, state and county program would be a great help to the companies, which would form one of the most important links of the civil defense system, but he wanted the county board to approve legislation which could be used to obtain the $200 grant in the event other plans did not materialize.

Some Not Suited

Both Wilson and Wenrich said that the surplus equipment given to county volunteer fire companies during World War II for use in the civil defense program was of poor quality and not suited to the needs of most companies.

Commissioner Lemmert and Commissioner James Orr told the men the board must keep a close watch on expenditures as extra outlays of funds may be required by the county due to the national emergency.

The 19 fire companies in Allegany county receive a total of $13,275 from the county. Two years ago the county board gave the fire companies a $100 increase to each.

Art Houtteman Is Bothered By Old Head Injury

By BOB ZAIMAN

CAMP PICKETT, Va., Jan. 5 (AP) —"He shouldn't be in the army. I don't know how he passed the examination to get in," the 43rd division sergeant said.

(The sergeant, who didn't want his name used, was talking about Pvt. Art Houtteman, former Detroit pitching ace. Houtteman, a public relations officer at the camp disclosed today, has been bothered by an old head injury, and his case is subject to medical review.

(The officer added that Houtteman has undergone examinations at the station hospital, but that no decision has been made as yet.)

Houtteman, who was drafted three months ago, barely survived an automobile crash in Florida two years ago.

The pitcher-private has been reluctant to discuss head injuries suffered in the wreck which are affected by 81 millimeter mortars fired by his platoon, according to Corporal Donald Parsons of New Britain, Conn.

"Houtteman is a hard worker and a potential non-com, but those head injuries he got two years ago are bothering him. He went in to get some X-rays taken," Parsons said.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Will your children always love you?

Answer: Not because it is their "duty," ever if you've made them feel that it is. For love cannot be based on a sense of obligation. They will truly love you after they have grown up in proportion as you are associated in their minds with pleasant feelings like security or sympathetic understanding. Remembering "all you have done for them" will not make them love you if your sacrifices did not help them to be happy—if they feel ashamed of having been a burden to you, they will unconsciously want to get as far away as they can.

Is demanding your rights the best way to get them?

Answer: That depends on whether you are in a position to punish the person on whom you make the demand, directly or indirectly. Because you could probably get a salesman or a waiter into trouble by reporting him to his superiors, demanding what you feel that you are entitled to from him may sometimes be the quickest way to get it. But if you are dealing with a person whom you have no power to punish, you are more apt to get fair treatment by persuasion than by "making a row." For a "right" which you cannot enforce means nothing.

Can misfortune drive a person insane?

Answer: Yes. There is a type of psychosis called "reactive depression" in which the person's "reaction" to bereavement or severe financial losses is not only intense unhappiness, but delusions, such as the belief that he has "committed the unpardonable sin." But this usually happens only in the case of someone who has had childish experiences of unkindness or "rejection," leaving him with less than normal confidence in himself or in life. Depressed patients need watching, but can be aided by psychiatric treatment.

Radio And Television

The Behaviouristic Approach

THE radio and television analysts are beginning to outnumber the performers. The big thing now is not what people are looking at or listening to but why they do it. I find this a dangerous trend. One of these psychologists one of these days is going to find out there is no clear reason for listening or looking. Everyone will turn the darn thing off and we'll all be out of jobs.

John Crosby

Some time ago I wrote about Dr. Ernest Dichter, a psychologist, who delved into the problem of day-time television and discovered that most of the homemakers, as they're now called, harbored deep feeling of guilt about day-time viewing. Should be at the dishes, they felt. The gist of Dr. Dichter's thesis—if I know a gist when I see one, which is doubtful—is that the females had to be conned into looking at TV under the impression they're being instructed rather than entertained. At the same time, the babes didn't really want to be instructed; they wanted to be entertained. The job, therefore, was to disguise entertainment as instruction which would banish the guilt feelings and everyone, especially the sponsor, would be happy.

• — • — •

This column brought an immediate retort from William A. Yoell who is also in the consumer motivation dodge. "Our approaches (his and Dichter's) are quite different—he, taking the Freudian approach, I, the behaviouristic one." The gist of the behaviouristic approach—or the pith, if you're tired of all this gist—is that women not only will but must look at television in the day-time, simply because after a lot of household chores the girls damn well feel they deserve a bit of "Okay, Mother."

• — • — •

"The interruption was a reward for accomplishment," says Mr. Yoell. The only time women sit down and listen to the radio or look at television or read (Read! You mean books?) is after performing a difficult task. The more difficult the task, the more television-viewing, Mr. Yoell discovers—the girls feeling entitled to it. Well, of course, that simplifies the problem far more than the Freudian approach, which, as I recall only intensified it. The only thing for a sponsor to do now is to make women's work much more arduous. Get rid of the washing machines and get back to selling the good old-fashioned washboard.

• — • — •

After bending over a washboard all morning, mama will feel entitled to a whole afternoon of television. Get rid of the refrigerator and let mama lug in the ice. Then she won't be sitting around feeling guilty all the time, while the refrigerator is doing all her work, making little ice cubes when she should be doing it herself. The central fact about both the behaviouristic and the Freudian approaches to this vital problem is that day-time television viewing is essentially compulsive, a matter of conditioned reflex rather than of judgment or will.

I don't know how the women will take to either theory. It turns them into a set of Pavlo dogs, acting exactly alike on any set of stimuli, thoughtfully pre-arranged by the sponsor. It has always been my theory, unsupported by scientific measurement, that women's actions are as unpredictable as the Kremlin's. Given the same set of stimuli—let us say, the late hour at which I get home—my wife has responded variously in about 25 different ways, each of which could be considered a classic example of behaviourism and not one of which remotely resembles any other. Depends on how she feels, Mr. Yoell, and if you can chart her feelings at any given moment, either before or after an arduous task, you're a more advanced student of womanhood than I am.

None of this monumental research puts women in a very flattering light. In the first of a series of psychological studies on the impact of television, Social Research, Inc., explains Kate Smith's success in part with the explanation that "she's just plain, fat Kate Smith... To the woman with vague worries about her own physical attractiveness and the possibility that her husband may succumb to the seductiveness of a more glamorous woman, the very appearance of Kate Smith is a reassurance. The success of Kate Smith in spite of her lack of glamour is heartening evidence to the individual housewife that all is not lost to the amoral beauties, Hollywood type."

This implies that a good part of the feminine audience is gripped by a feeling of physical inadequacy to such a degree that they must look at someone even less adequate for reassurance. I think Social Research, Inc. has out-thought itself here. Lots of women turn on radio or television on the strength of unfathomable whims which are difficult to chart either by psychologist or husband. By the time you finish figuring out why a woman seems drawn to a particular entertainer, Social Research, Inc., you'll find she's got sick of him and is lavishing her affections on another man entirely and by the time you finish figuring out that one . . . well, you'll never catch up.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Trends Conflict In Market But Overall Average Higher

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—Despite a whip-saw of conflicting trends, the stock market today managed to maintain a slight edge on the higher side.

Selling pressure mounted steadily and reached its peak in the final hour, but the drive didn't have enough steam behind it to push prices to the losing side on average.

To show the margin of gain, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks added 10 cents and moved up to $90.00, a new 1950-51 high and the best level in more than 20 years. That is the third time in four markets this week that a new high has been established.

Volume amounted to 3,390,000 shares, same as Thursday.

A good illustration of the small margin between the plus and minus character of the market is the first three most active issues. They were Baltimore & Ohio up ⅛ at 20⅝, U. S. Steel off ¼ at 44⅝, and Pennsylvania Railroad unchanged at 24⅝.

General Motors in fourth place was up ⅛ at 47¼, and Packard was fifth up ¼, at 4⅜.

Among the better performers were Bethlehem Steel up ⅞ at 53⅜, Chrysler 1⅝ at 72⅜, Goodrich 2½ at 128½, Montgomery Ward ¼ at 66½, American Power & Light 1⅝ at 18¼, Western Union ⅜ at 40¾ (on a sharply higher earnings report) American Smelting ⅝ at 76⅜, Dow Chemical 2 at 81½, U. S. Lines 1⅛ at 18⅞ (seventh most active), and American Export Lines 1¼ at 20⅛.

City Offers Six-Point Plan To Legislators Including Home Rule For Cumberland

Cobey Outlines Program At Joint Session Of County Delegation, Mayor And Council

The Mayor and City Council last night presented a six point program, including home rule for Cumberland, for consideration of the Allegany County Delegation.

The agenda of legislation the city expects to ask the legislators to consider was presented at an informal meeting in City Hall with Charles M. See, chairman of the delegation, presiding.

The city legislative program was presented by W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor.

Home rule, either statutory or constitutional, will be one of the objectives, Cobey said.

He added that in view of the question of whether or not a constitutional convention will be held, the city was inclined to favor a constitutional amendment which would give the city home rule even if the convention failed to materialize.

Delegate Noel Speir Cook commented that constitutional home rule seemed the best solution since statutory home rule has not been generally satisfactory.

Cobey Outlines Idea

Delegate Horace B. Whitworth, Jr., inquired just how much power the city would have under such a measure.

Cobey explained that definite limitations would of course be included since municipalities may not infringe upon the power of the state.

Home rule, Cobey said, merely provides that, within the limitations of the act, the city would go to the people, rather than the legislature, for any changes in its rules.

In purely local matters, he said, the people would have charge of their destinies.

Cobey said the Mayor and Council believe the majority of the people of the city are in favor of home rule.

People Would Decide

In answer to a question on the subject of a city manager, it was pointed out that such a move could be made only after a vote of the citizens.

The people, it was explained would vote on the basic laws and make any necessary changes by referendum vote, with the Mayor and Council remaining an administrative body.

City officials, it was emphasized, would not gain any powers under such legislation, but the power to change laws here would go to the people instead of the present system, in which the city must go to the legislature for such changes.

Bench Warrants Served On Three Indicted Men

All Are Confined In County Jail

Bench warrants have been served on three men, all now confined to the Allegany County jail, who were indicted this week by the grand jury on various charges.

The grand jury has returned 21 indictments but warrants have been served on only the three men.

Arch Taylor, 61, 106 North Mechanic Street, was indicted on a charge of statutory burglary in the theft of $40 November 21 from the storeroom of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 176, I.B.P.O.E. of W., located at 142 Harrison Street.

He was arrested two days after the burglary and admitted to Detective E. M. Powell that he broke into a vault and stole the money after becoming enraged at other members of the Negro Elks lodge.

David F. Winebrenner, Vale Summit, was indicted by the grand jury this week on a charge of assault with intent to rob Mrs. Lillian Myers, Eckhart. Mrs. Myers reported to police that while she was walking down Barn Hill December 11 a man took her change purse after threatening to shoot her. The indictment charged that Winebrenner "with force and arms did unlawfully make an assault upon Lillian Myers and did then and there feloniously and violently attempt to rob and steal" her belongings.

The third man, Welba E. Casteel, Keyser, W. Va., was indicted on two charges of obtaining money under false pretenses by means of fraudulent checks. In one indictment he was charged with obtaining $40.50 from James Fitzpatrick, operator of a service station near Dawson, by means of a fraudulent check drawn on the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser. In the second indictment he was charged with obtaining $25 from W. B. Schindler, operator of The Hub, 19 North Centre Street, through a fraudulent check drawn on the First National Bank of Cumberland. The first offense was alleged to have occurred December 9 and the second December 12.

Parking, Sewage Listed Among City's Problems

Delegates Informed On Area Problems

Power to establish a municipal parking area and to construct a sewage disposal plant for this city is included in the legislation the city will request of the Allegany County delegation in the General Assembly.

Informal discussion on the proposed enabling acts was held last night at a meeting of the County Delegation with the Mayor and City Council.

The city will ask for the power to set up, by purchase or lease, a municipal parking area.

W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, said the city is not anxious to set up such parking facilities, but only wants the power to do so if such action were found necessary.

Self-Liquidating Profit

He pointed out that if such a project were adopted, the plan would be strictly self-liquidating and would have to be a "good business venture" before funds could be raised.

Sewage disposal plans would also call for an enabling act.

The State of Maryland, Cobey said, has directed the city, as well as the Celanese plant and Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, to take immediate steps to abate pollution in the Potomac River.

The city has applied to the government for a loan for financing plans and has been offered an advance for the preparation of such plans.

Kimble Mentions Loan Bill

The bill would allow the city to proceed with the erection of a sewage disposal plant, financed by revenue bonds to be repaid by service charges.

Senator Robert B. Kimble pointed out that a Senate bill is being prepared which would set up a fund of $50,000,000 to be loaned on a long term basis for such work.

All members of the delegation pointed out that such a bill would be of great help in thel ocal situation.

Legislators raised the question of whether such work would be classed as essential.

Grand Jury Recommends Many Improvements To County Buildings And Institutions

Council To Seek Referendum For Daylight Time

Kimble Says City Ignored Local Poll

The Mayor and Council last night told the Allegany County Delegation that it will ask for legislation providing a referendum vote on Daylight Savings Time in the next city election.

Officials pointed out that the suggestion calls for the vote to be taken at the "next election" and does not require the cost of a special election.

The city now has an ordinance on its books, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz commented, which calls for Daylight Savings Time.

Senator Robert B. Kimble threw a bombshell into the informal discussion when he disclosed that he will introduce, at next Monday or Tuesday's session, a bill which provides that the Mayor and Council of Cumberland shall not change Eastern Standard Time until the subject is taken to the people of the city.

In effect, the bill would prohibit DST here until a referendum vote were taken.

Commissioner Buchholtz, who had advocated such a fast time referendum when the subject was in hot dispute several years ago, disagreed sharply with Senator Kimble on the effect of his bill, saying it would make it mandatory for Cumberland to stay on EST even if the area were to adopt fast time.

The senator deplored the action of the city in overruling a Junior Association of Commerce poll on Daylight Savings Time here and said the people should have a chance to vote on the controversial issue.

Court Says Action Will Be Checked

Recommendations that certain repairs and improvements be made in various county buildings including the Court House, the County Jail and the County Infirmary were featured in a nine-page report submitted yesterday by the Allegany County Court grand jury which has been in session for four days this week.

Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris, who received the grand jury's report, suggested that the county commissioners be informed of the report. The judges also recommended that a copy of this report be given to the April grand jury so that a check might abe made to see what improvements have been made in the three months.

The grand jury also reported that in its four-day session it examined 64 witnesses and returned 21 indictments.

County Infirmary Repairs

In the section of the report concerning the County Infirmary, seven recommendations were made. These included (1) tiling should be applied to the walls and floors of three utility rooms, (2) corridor walls should be protected with four-foot wainscot of tile or some hard fibre board, (3) an enclosure should be made for at least part of the sundeck, (4) new equipment should be purchased for the kitchen, (5) the secretary to the superintendent receive a salary comparable to that of a registered nurse and kitchen workers should get salary increases, (6) canned goods should be purchased in institution-size cans and (7) a heavy metal screen should be installed on the outside of the juvenile detention room windows.

The report notes that a committee from the grand jury inspected the County Infirmary and found 92 patients and 63 employes. The employes include a superintendent, his secretary, supervisor of nurses, four registered nurses, five orderlies, 32 practical nurses, one laundry foreman, one head cook, one second cook, four kitchen workers, six laundry workers, four tray girls and one janitor.

"As to the general condition of the Infirmary, good sanitation was throughout and a diligent inspection of all sections of the building found nothing for your committee cleanliness, good order of the building, staff or inmates," the report added.

Want Jail Painted

Concerning the County Jail, the grand jury recommended that it be repainted inside and out.

The report read:

"The grand jury in a body visited the Allegany County Jail and found 17 male prisoners. The condition of the jail is clean, orderly and apparently well managed. However, we recommend that the ventilator tanks in the cell block should be replaced and we further call attention to the rear wall of the jail, which is sagging and somewhat loose at the top. A dining room should be provided in the rear of the Jail and over this room a combined storage room and room for mattress sterilization purposes could be provided ... We commend Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies for the excellent manner in which this institution is governed, and also for its maintenance in view of its age."

A number of suggestions also were advanced by the grand jury concerning the Allegany County Court House.

The report noted that the woodwork on the outside is badly in need of paint and caulking is needed along the panes of most of the windows.

Court House Repairs

Additional observations were made concerning the Court House and its condition. In this section the report read in part:

"The paint on the ceilings on the third floor is in bad condition and is peeling and in other parts of the building the plaster has fallen. These conditions are hazardous in such instances to the occupants of the offices and rooms and are particularly bad in the men's rest room on the third floor and also in the 4-H Club room. We have been advised that fire hose and extinguishers are inspected at regular intervals but upon examination found them to be dusty, which indicates otherwise. . . Considerable dust is on the walls and ceiling of the basement corridors and it is recommended that this condition be im-

Oil Well Diggers Discover Gas Deposit Near New Paris

Wild Cat Test Blows In At 9,000 Feet

Profound interest is being evidenced in the striking of natural gas in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, about a mile from New Paris and about 12 miles from Bedford, despite a cloak of secrecy that is enveloping the project.

According to reliable informants, the South Penn Oil Company struck a heavy pocket of natural gas, Tuesday afternoon, at a depth of about 9,000 feet, at a "wild cat" well they started 26 months ago. The company was and is prospecting for oil, believed to be obtainable at a considerable depth in the area.

The gas has been "running wild," residents of the area claim, and crews have been making an effort to trap it or seal it off. The odor of sulphur dioxide accompanying the escaping gas could be detected yesterday over a wide area from Fishertown to Schellsburg, a distance of almost 10 miles.

The well, the first to come in anywhere in this section of Pennsylvania, has caused many people to believe other companies may attempt similar diggings, and will encourage South Penn to continue its operations.

The South Penn Company has reportedly spent upwards of $200,000 on this particular operation. The company has also acquired over a period of years, oil and gas leases on about one-third of the potential oil and gas country in Bedford County, records indicate.

Thomas Coyle, of Schellsburg, is drill foreman in charge of the operations on Chestnut Ridge, and Richard Ellicker of Pittsburgh, Pa., is the geologist in charge of drilling and location.

This week, the company's chief geologist, R. D. Rogers, of Parkersburg, W. Va., arrived at the scene and almost immediately a cloak of secrecy was clamped down over the project.

B. White of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has declared that the railroads are better prepared than ever before to support the national defense effort.

In a New Year's message to B & O employees, Colonel White said that "the railroads have invested more money since the war in increasing their capacity and efficiency than in any comparable period. They are prepared as never before to support the national defense effort."

Formation Of Scout Troop Planned At Kelly Plant

In the interest of forming a new Boy Scout Troop in Cumberland District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, a meeting will be held next Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the conference room of the employment building at the local plant of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

F. T. Bell, Kelly personnel manager, said all parents who have boys eligible for membership in the Boy Scouts are invited to attend.

Plans were made for this meeting at a session last night of Bell, Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council executive, and George W. Sellers, Cumberland District chairman.

Smith gave a brief talk on the advantages of Scouting and said that it makes good citizens of boys, gives them leadership training and gives them means for recreation during their childhood years.

The new troop will not be limited to sons of Kelly employes. Bell emphasized that any boy may join.

If sufficient interest is shown, Bell said the Kelly firm will take steps to furnish necessary equipment, quarters, and leaders. With the addition of this troop, Cumberland District will have 18 Boy Scout units. The new one will be the only one sponsored by an industry.

New Automobile License Plate Color Toned Down

Annual blossoming of new license plate color combinations along American highways will be considerably toned down in 1951, the American Automobile Association has reported in its annual review of car tag hues for the year ahead.

"Only nineteen states are adopting all-new color combinations for next year," the A.A.A. reported "Ten states are using current tags with a new date tab to be inserted. In the nineteen remaining states and the D. C., the tag designers took the easy way out by simply switching the colors of this year's background and numerals.

"Black-and-white will be the most-used color combination for '51 plates, having been selected by thirteen states; six states will use green-and-white, a like number black-and-yellow, while five chose black-and-aluminum. Among the more exotic combinations might be listed the blue-on-silver adopted by Nevada, the straw-on-black of New Jersey, the white-on-orange of Tennessee and the black-on-gold of Texas.

"Vision experts complain that many states choose combinations that have poor readability value. Extensive tests have shown that plates are more legible when the background is light and the numerals are dark. Yet, license plates of roughly half the states for next year will be just the other way around. White or light yellow is favored by the experts for the background; black or dark green for the numerals."

The Maryland license plate is to be white on black. Pennsylvania's is to be blue on yellow and West Virginia's is yellow on black. West Virginia will issue only one plate.
